Gentlemen,—In presenting the above requisition, you have done me an honour I shall not readily forget. Recognising this request as coming from representative men and taking a keen interest in all that concerns the cleanliness and comfort, the welfare and health of the city, I entered on its consideration with a strong desire to give an affirmative answer.
Due consideration, however, compels me, in justice to important interests confided to my care, to decline for the present the proffered honour.
An important era in the history of Sydney is now at hand, and I envy those who will have the honour of applying the enlarged powers for good conferred by the new Acts of Parliament.
I hope a time may come when I shall have the honour of sharing in the labours of Municipal Government, and in assisting to make Sydney what in my opinion she is destined to become—one of the most beautiful, healthful, and enjoyable cities in the world.
Thanking you most cordially for this proof of your confidence,
I am, Gentlemen,
Yours, faithfully,
W. G. MURRAY.
Treverux, Roslyn-street, Upper William-street North, Sydney, July 25, 1879.

TO THE ELECTORS OF BRISBANE WARD.
Having been requested by numerous friends to allow myself to be nominated for your ward in the first election under the new Corporation Bill, I take this early opportunity of informing you that I have much pleasure in acceding to the request.
I may mention that I have been asked to stand for other wards, but stated in reply that it would be Brisbane Ward I would stand for if I sought municipal honours, having resided the greater part of my life in that ward, and of which I have so many pleasant recollections.
JOHN HARDIE.
Steam Flour Mills and Biscuit Factory,
George-street, July 17th, 1879.

TO THE ELECTORS OF DENISON WARD.
GENTLEMEN,—In reply to numerous inquiries, and in response to the invitation of a great number of influential ratepayers of your ward, I beg to announce myself as a CANDIDATE for your representative as the third Alderman under the new Municipal Bill, the election for which is to take place on 1st December next.
Your obedient servant,
FRANCIS ABIGAIL.
577 and 579, George-street.

PHILLIP WARD ELECTION.
As a rule I treat with silent contempt all anonymous scribblers, but that the base insinuation of an anonymous advertisement in yesterday's HERALD, addressed to myself, shall not be made a peg upon which to hang false charges against Mr. Daniel O'Connor at the next election for West Sydney, I reply. In the first place I doubt the anonymous scribbler is, as he signs himself, an elector of West Sydney; and I challenge him to publish his TRUE name and address. I promise him I will find him out; he is probably one of those zealous but mistaken gentlemen who suffer from RAILWAY EXTENSION ON THE BRAIN. As to Mr. O'Connor's views on CITY RAILWAY EXTENSION, I am at this moment unaware what they are, and as for myself I do not care TWO STRAWS which way it goes, or if it never comes into existence at all. But I hope Mr. O'Connor, as a representative man and a member for the city, DOES NOT APPROVE of nearly ONE MILLION OF THE PUBLIC MONEY being fritted away by constructing a Railway THROUGH the city, instead of ROUND the wharfs or the city, merely to save the three-penny pieces of Railway Passengers, and which the Tramway now being constructed amply provides. Should the Railway ever be extended from its present terminus, it must be conceded on all hands, that the most legitimate course to take is from the head of Darling Harbour, taking in all the wharfs round to the A. S. N. Company's New Wharf and the Circular Quay, then Railway extension would be of some practical use, and the money well spent. Mr. O'Connor is quite able to defend all his actions, whether in the Legislative Assembly or elsewhere, and the Electors of West Sydney are exceedingly fortunate in having a representative of such sterling integrity, fearless, independent character, a true patriot, the tool of no party, as Daniel O'Connor, Esq., M.L.A., has proved himself.
EDWARD HORDERN.

TO THE ELECTORS OF DENISON WARD.
Having been requested by numerous friends to allow myself to be nominated for your Ward in the first election under the new Corporation Bill, I take the early opportunity of informing you that I have much pleasure in acceding to the request.
C. KIDMAN.

TO the Electors of COOK WARD.—Gentlemen, ex-Alderman STEEL is a CANDIDATE for RE-ELECTION.

THE MAY MAGAZINES.

Tinsley's Magazine is again well worth reading. "The Two Partners of Leather Lane"—a singular and original story—is commenced; as is also a lighter tale, "Nell—on and off the Stage." Mr. Joseph Hatton continues, in "A Policy of Sentiment," to question the effectiveness of a free trade policy to avert depression when met in competing nations by protective tariffs. "The Ranche at Hardscrabble" conveys, in an agreeable framework of fiction, a picture of life in California. A feature well worth attention will be found in "The Loves of Langsyne," which embody a couple of charming Scottish ballads.

Chambers' Journal is replete with entertaining and instructive articles. Its veteran editor, W. C., contributes two papers, "Dealing with Criminals" and "The Russells." The first details and suggests, as a remedy for the obstruction to justice due to the involved system of procedure in England, the arrangements which continue to work efficiently and expeditiously in Scotland after centuries of trial. The latter relates to the distinguished Whig family of which the Duke of Bedford is the head, and of which Lord William Russell, in the reign of Charles II., and Lord John in our own days have been worthy scions. The anecdotal department which Chambers' regularly makes a feature is very attractive in this number which comprises a collection of interesting "Anecdotes of Artists," and some oddities under the heads of "Lost and Found" and "Railway Claimants." Akin in design is a paper entitled "Recollections of Thackeray," compiled from a book of Anecdote Biographies, and brimful of details characteristic of the great novelist, and of his genially-sardonic humour. "Some Queer Industries" treats but of one man's eccentric successes, and tells how a fortune was made by means of bread-crusts—and brains. "The Two Spies" and "Too late to save, but not to avenge," are a couple of stories apropos of the present Zulu war, being narratives of exciting incidents in the conflict in 1866 between the Orange River Free State and the Basuto Kaffirs. The two spies are notable individuals, who appear to have combined the qualities of Cooper's "Hawk-eye" and Mayne Reid's "Bill Rarey," and to have rivalled those heroes of romance in the desperate nature of their adventures. "A Midnight Adventure in the Streets of London," and a "Stitch in Time" are a brace of short stories of the smartly episodical kind, briskly narrated although not remarkably original. The materials of "Midnight Adventure" especially have been well worn—a benighted provincial gentleman with valuables about him, an obliging stranger, drugged liquor, and a whispered warning from a lovely female decoy, forming the woof of the adventure. Under the heading "Mr. Hipsey" an account is given of an odd kind of London character, and of the singular arts and expedients by which an existence may be eked out in the great metropolis. Readers may in an easy and agreeable way add to their stock of information with respect to natural history by perusing the papers on Spiders, on Flowers and their Unbidden Guests, and about locusts in this number; and their stock of miscellaneous knowledge will be expanded in a like pleasant fashion by the brief accounts given of "The House of Commons," overseering in Demerara, Land Telegraph Lines, and St. Helena. To young ladies "My first 'German,'" a description of a dance popular in America, and affording apparently unlimited opportunities for flirtation or conversation, will have interest, and "A best Man at a Wedding," will be a theme equally attractive. The serial story "Young Lord Penrith," is deepened in feminine sensation by the introduction of a formidable villain. Persons concerned in the iron mining industry of the colony should not fail to turn to the brief account in the monthly notice of science and arts, of a short and simple process discovered for converting pig iron into steel, from which great things are expected.

Cassell's Family Magazine is as diversified in its contents as usual. The "Tenth Earl," the leading story, is but slightly advanced by the instalment in this number, and the mysterious element continues unresolved. Mr. Billerby, the actor, makes a remarkable exit, taking his secret with him. A second serial, "But for Ilion," is commenced, and introduces a self-denying sister, a lover as wealthy and unreasonably exacting as the interests of future complications could require, and an exceptionally selfish and disagreeable brother. In view of the present vogue of pigeon-stealing in Sydney, "Our Pigeoncote, and How we Stocked It," will doubtless find interested readers in the metropolis. "Improved Common Lodging Houses," a descriptive paper, is deserving of perusal as affording an insight to what has been effected in London is practically ameliorating the accommodation for persons in indigent circumstances. "Tonic Remedies, and How to Profit by them," by a Family Doctor, is a useful contribution in plain language. Ladies will find due consideration to their tastes in "What to Wear," and will in some cases be grateful for the simple instructions "How to Make Jellies Clear and Bright," conveyed in an easy conversational way. A rather pretty little serenade, with music by Henry Smart, with pianoforte accompaniment, will find favour with musical people. "Sent to Siberia" treats somewhat superficially of the pleasanter side of exiles to those regions, and a variety of topics briefly treated make up a very fair number.

In Fraser's Magazine, a specially noteworthy feature is the opening instalment of a new version in blank verse, by an author whose name is not disclosed, of the Iliad of Homer. The rendition appears, judging by a comparison necessarily hastily made, to rival that of Cowper in closeness to the original. The language, however, runs scarcely so smoothly. "One who has lived there" treats in anything but a sanguine spirit of "Reforms in Asiatic Turkey." Events have outstripped, and at the same time justified Mr. A. J. Wilson's paper "The Game of Egyptian Finance." An inquiry "Are Explosions in Coal Mines preventable" is wrought out to a conclusion that from a fourth to a half of the lives now sacrificed are sacrificed by preventable calamities. Mr. Vernon Lee concludes his admirable essay on the Metastasio and the Opera of the Eighteenth Century. "The Church of the Future" is treated of in an article necessarily inconclusive, but none the less suggestive. Cold water is cast upon the movement for erecting a monument to Byron by a collection of extracts from the recorded sayings and writings of the poet, expressive of his bitterest feelings in his bitterest moments. The quest for these fragments must have been the employment of a person peculiarly constituted. The number comprises also articles on Chinese fans, a notice of the life of Dr. Aiken, on the Persian poet Omar Khayam, and a sketch of the less pleasant aspects of life in Colorado.

In All the Year Round the continuation of "My Land of Beulah," a story of strong interest, and remarkably gracefully told, is the chief attraction among many. A commencement is made with "Sebastian Strome," a new serial in which the characters presented thus far are well defined, and Miss Braddon's "Vixen" approaches a comfortable termination. A second instalment of "Al Fresco," an article descriptive of open air places of entertainment in England at different periods, revives old memories and old incidents and old characters. The records of "Old English Travellers" have been explored, and made to yield a very readable patchwork relating to Russia in the time of Queen Elizabeth. "Hard Times in Cottonopolis" details the extent of the sufferings among the wage-earning and salaried classes in Manchester during the past winter, where, according to experienced local officials, an amount of distress has prevailed unequalled at any time during the past thirty years. "Pistol Practice in America" is the title given to a contribution, in which are narrated a series of episodes illustrative of the reckless readiness to use lethal weapons which has prevailed in the United States even in very recent times. Four fatal affrays are narrated which were chronicled by a New York weekly newspaper of the 12th August, 1878, as having occurred within the space of eight days; and the other episodes recounted in this article are all of last year. A paper on "Sea Customs" appears pretty comprehensive. The unfortunate loss of life occasioned by a troop of the Tenth Hussars missing the proper line of ford while crossing the Cabul River, forms the text of another article, in which the general subject of military fording is treated, and the fact is recalled that a nearly identical mishap occurred only forty years ago to the Sixteenth Lancers when returning from Afghanistan with Lord Keane.

The Cornhill Magazine opens with a continuation of the story Susanna, an introduction, commenced last month, the characters and situations in which testify that the author is, to say the least, an admirer of Thackeray. The Colonel is somewhat too close in his resemblance to another Colonel, who answered "Adsum" long ago; Mr. and Mrs. Marney are apparently related, remotely perhaps, to other people who lived in the same world with Philip or Pendennis, and the French frame in which the characters are at present displayed is fraught with similar retrospects. The story, despite the comparisons it invites, is attractive and ably wrought. "Mademoiselle de Mersac," the other serial, is carried forward with fairly sustained interest, but deficient originality of incident and plot. The strength of the present number lies in "Old Joquelon's Bequest," an extravaganza imitated from the French, and brimful of mirthful situations. "Pleased with a Feather" is the style of a pleasant disquisition upon plumage, which conveys incidentally a good deal of information in ornithology. "Village Life in the Appennines" sufficiently indicates its contents by the title; and the part is completed by a graceful essay on "The Heroines of Spenser."

In The Argosy, fiction is the preponderating element. Besides the usual instalment of the novel "Called to the Rescue," the contents comprise two short tales, and the opening of a new story "In the Dead of Night." In addition to these, however, are several articles of a different character, including an appreciative little memoir of the celebrated Dr. Arnold, of Rugby; and a capital description of a ball at a lunatic asylum. The number contains, also, articles "About Cyprus," "On Cape Colony and Transvaal," and a sketch biography of Christina, Queen of Sweden, which will, and are, all worthy of their place in Tinsley's.

Macmillan's Magazine opens with a concise review by Mr. Frank Duff, M.P., of Professor Seeley's three-volume "History of the Life and Times of Stein," the great statesman to whose impulse the initiation of the process which transformed the vanquished of Jena into the victors of Koniggratz and Sedan is chiefly due. Mr. Grant Duff characterizes the book as being "as solid, honest a bit of literary work as has been laid before the British public for some time, and his notice will repay perusal. An account of "The Charity Organisation Society" is replete with useful explanations. The instalment in this number of Mr. Jack's notice of Burns' unpublished Common-place Book is mainly occupied by an account, founded on Alfred de Reumont's "Die Grafin von Albany," of the family history of Charles Edward, the "Young Pretender," and his connections subsequent to the '45. This is introduced in the way of commentary upon Burns' Jacobite ballad, "The Lass of Albany," and will be found extremely interesting. No. IV. of Mr. Freeman's Sketches from Eastern Sicily is devoted to an account, historical and topical, of the renowned city of Syracuse. The "Chances of English Opera" finding a permanent place among the public amusements of the English people, are discussed in an agreeable paper. Dean Stanley contributes a paraphrase in verse of a hymn by Manzoni, the version being elaborate with more of scholarly accuracy than of poetic ease. Jannina, Greek or Turkish? is a semi-political essay, designed to show that Jannina, awarded to Greece at the Berlin Conference, and the cession of which has been resisted by the Porte, has always been Greek in spirit, and a centre of Hellenic culture, even while under Ottoman rule. The serials "Haworth's" and "A Doubting Heart" are carried forward a stage without any very striking augmentation of interest. In "Haworth's," however, Murdoch is "warned," and stirring events will no doubt follow.

Belgravia issues a very good number. Mr. M'Carthy's story, "Donna Quixotte," proceeds with spirit, and The "Queen of the Meadows" preserves the freshness with which it opens. "Half-an-hour at Didcot Junction" is the inappropriate title given to some chit-chat about surnames. The flash houses in Ratcliffe Highway are graphically described in a paper entitled "A Night in the Highway." Mr. James Forfar contributes an anecdotal essay on Peter the Great, in which the grim and the grotesque, the offensive and the admirable traits of that remarkable monarch are placed in effective contrast. Mr. James Payne supplies an amusing trifle, "An Unrequited Attachment," and a bit of antiquarian research about The Quintain, and an odd account of how the marriage ceremony at the wedding of the Duke of Connaught was surreptitiously viewed through the ceiling of St. George's Chapel, Windsor, complete the contents.

Once-a-Week is embellished with a resplendent cover, which unfortunately affords no indication of the quality of the contents, which, with the exception of a thoroughly vulgar tale, "The Tender Passion," in which the chief incidents are that the hero gets drunk at a ball and is accepted as husband shortly after by a partner whom he had tried to dance with in that condition, are made up chiefly of extracts by no means attractively selected, and generally unacknowledged.

St. Nicholas, the magazine par excellence for youngsters, is resplendent with illustrations, artistic, diverting, and grotesque. The frontispiece entitled "The May King," is a perfect gem. If any parent finds a difficulty in satisfying the young mind as to the "use" of studies so appealingly abstruse as vulgar fractions—and what parent escapes the dilemma? we can confidently recommend as a short way out of the difficulty, that the little story (only a page and a half) "The Arithmetic of Gingerbread," be offered to the small sceptic for perusal. The dose will be eagerly taken, and should effect an immediate cure. The boy is to be pitied who will read the tremendous experiences of Frank—a juvenile Frankenstein—with his formidable creation "Rudolp Don Pedro Livingstone" without getting as much satisfaction out of it almost as from a circus; or who can read about "The Boy Astronomer at the Observatory," without feeling his mind larger and his conceit smaller. Very little folks will prefer the drawing "Late," to any work of Michael Angelo's, and will be wonder struck at the remarkable illustrated incidents in the career of "The three wise couples." The charming sentiment of "She couldn't," recommends it to all who have the responsibility of bringing up "big girls." We do not think that there is in the whole number a single line that a child would not read; we are sure there is not one that a child should not read, and we venture to opine that there is very little that any but the most solemnly important "grown up" would fail to enjoy.

THE CONSTITUTION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Will you give me space for a few thoughts on the present embroglio between the two Houses of Parliament. I have always entertained the idea that a second House of Legislature was either a blot or a disease upon the Constitution; but it must be admitted that the Legislative Council rendered good service to the country by rejecting the repudiation clause of the Land Bill. If the Council is not to check legislation, what does it exist for? Let our legislators pause—with the example of Victoria before their eyes—before they introduce an elective Upper House into New South Wales. Had the Victorian Legislature, with its different franchises, instead of forming an upper and lower chamber, sat, deliberated, and voted as one body, they would have been the best Legislature in the colonies, if not in the world. The crowning vice of all our Legislatures is that the elections are by one class of the community. Other classes may have votes, but their vote has little influence on the election, so that they take no interest in the election. Whereas every class should be represented in Parliament; but this can never be the case with one uniform franchise. A scheme that I proposed for the United Kingdom during the Chartist agitation may, with modifications, suit the colonies. The scheme was to have the population divided into equal electoral districts; four of these districts to return one member by the contributors to the land tax, they voting, not by their numbers, but by the amount of their land tax. The same four electoral districts to return a member by the contributors to the income tax, they also voting not by their numbers, but by the amount of their income tax, next each district to return one member, by what was known as the ten pound franchise. The above classes would represent property in one or other of its phases. Next I proposed that two of these districts should unite together to return one member, by those who had no vote in either of the above franchises. This would give one-eighth of the representation to the landed interest, one-eighth to the monied interest, one-half to the bulk of the community who had some property, and one-fourth to the wage-getting portion of the community, who had no property except their wages. Thus each section would be able to return the man of their own choice, and while each interest would have a potent influence in the Legislature, neither of them would have a controlling influence. The evils of a uniform franchise are evident in all the English Legislatures, but if the Legislative Assembly was elected by some such scheme as I have pointed out, there would be no need for an Upper House, especially as all bills of heroic legislation have to be reserved for the decision of the Secretary for the Colonies, which would give ample time for passions to cool; and if the Assembly sent the same measure again it should be passed, although it was to the injury of the colony.

I am, &c., DAVID BERRIE.

THE INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION.

The International Exhibition Commission met yesterday afternoon at the offices, Macquarie-street. Present—Mr. P. A. Jennings, C.M.G. (Executive Commissioner), Dr. Garran, Hon. George Thornton, Mr. J. Davies, Hon. W. Macleay, Mr. E. Flood, Mr. C. J. Roberts, Mr. P. N. Trebeck, Mr. Henry Mort, Hon. Professor Smith.

In the absence of the President, Dr. Garran was voted to the chair.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

CORRESPONDENCE.

The Secretary read the following letter:—

"Consulate of Chili, Sydney, July 24, 1879.

"Sir,—I have the honour to inform you that I have been instructed by his Excellency the Minister for Foreign Affairs of the Republic of Chili, to convey to the Commission of the Sydney International Exhibition the thanks of his Government for their courteous invitation to take part in this great event.

"I regret, however, to state that, although it would afford the Government I have the honour to represent the highest satisfaction to become associated with this important movement, they are absolutely precluded so doing by the unjust war into which they have been forced in order to protect the honour and dignity of their country.

"I have, &c., W. H. ELDRED, Consul.

"P. A. Jennings, Esq., C.M.G., Executive Commissioner, Sydney International Exhibition."

EXECUTIVE COMMISSIONER'S REPORT.

The Executive Commissioner read his weekly progress report, as follows:—

"I have the honour to present for the information of the Commission a list of Foreign and Colonial Commissioners, as far as my information goes, up to the present date. France: Post Captain Mathieu. Commissioners appointed by the French Government to make inquiries on special subjects: M. M. Audé, Bourdil, Ollive, De Savignon, Ménard, Soudry, Lamoiski. Germany: Doctor Reuleaux. Austria: Herr Victor Schönberger. Belgium: Monsieur Albert Van Schelle. Italy has no official representative for so far, but Messrs. de Groot and Cicely represent Dutch and Swiss exhibitors respectively as commercial agents. For the United States the Commission has as yet not been named. Mr. Harno Sakata represents Japan, and brings with him his two secretaries Messrs. Murakami and Watanabi. I hear, unofficially, that the Right Hon. Lord Augustus Loftus, G.C.B., is to represent Great Britain and Ireland. Victoria is represented by the Hon. J. J. Casey, C.M.G.; South Australia, by Mr. Davenport; Tasmania, by myself; Queensland, by Mr. Gresley Lukin; New Zealand by Dr. Hector, C.M.G.; Fiji, by Mr. E. Vickery; Straits Settlements, by Major Clements; Ceylon by Dr. Bennett; and New Caledonia by M. Jules Joubert. Of these the Belgian and Japanese Commissions and M. de Groot have arrived, and M. Bourdil, of Captain Mathieu's staff. I had the honour of presenting these gentlemen on Tuesday last to his Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor, President of this Commission, and afterwards to the Premier.

"On Saturday last I met the majority of the applicants for space to erect buildings on the Exhibition grounds, and the following allotments were made, which appeared to give general satisfaction:—Messrs. Compagnoni and Co., ladies' refreshment rooms; Messrs. Cripps and Co., general restaurant; Messrs. Skenatzi and Co., Oriental bazaar; Messrs. Drysdale and Roberts, machinery hall; Mr. Coghlan, the diamond drill; the British and Foreign Bible Society; Messrs. Schweppe and Co., a building for the sale of mineral waters, &c., erected as an exhibit by the Sherwood Tile Company, Parramatta; Mr. F. Salisbury, a dairy; Messrs. Kyngdon and Kelman, pavilion for the sale of colonial wine and beer; Mr. Arviel Berg, Swedish café; Mr. John Howell, confectionery and fruits; Messrs. Gardner, American Cottage; Mr. Emerson, Oyster Pavilion; Mr. Kopff, German Pavilion; Mr. Wolvington, Pop-corn; Mr. Cotton, Live Stock Refreshment Building; Mr. Rosenthal, Austrian Conditorei; Messrs. Agnew and Co., and Messrs. T. Lazza and Co., from Victoria, are also allowed space. A concrete cottage will likewise be erected on the grounds.

"Dr. Bennett, Commissioner for Ceylon, has received a letter from his Government, giving the names of the Commission appointed by his Excellency the Governor, as Commissioners in Ceylon. They are—the Hon. F. R. Saunders, M.L.C., Government Agent, Western Province; the Hon. Colonel Fyers, R.E., M.L.C., Surveyor-General; Charles Bruce, Esq., Director of Public Instruction; and F. Mackwood, Esq.

"A communication has likewise been received from the Assistant Secretary to the Government of India Department of Revenue, Agriculture, and Commerce, enclosing a bill of lading for 10 packages containing exhibits, which have arrived, and also forwarding all particulars with reference to the contents.

"Surgeon-Major G. Bidie, M.B., Superintendent, Government Central Museum, Madras, also writes, stating that he has been directed by the Government of Madras to prepare and forward a collection of South Indian commercial products. The collection will consist of specimens of coffee, tea, spices, rice, tobacco, cheroots, oils, cinchona, jalap, dyes, fibres, matting, &c. Dr. Bidie points out that a long table (42 feet long by 3 wide) will be required to support the show cases for the exhibition of these articles. He further mentions that the collection is being made entirely at the expense of the Madras Government, and that, owing to the late date at which our programme was received, considerable difficulty has been experienced in getting the articles together in time, but that every effort will be made to send them by the first of September. A collection of Moradabad wares of Indian work, Benares engraved wares of brass, with a full description of each article, is transmitted from Calcutta.

"The arrival of the Commissioners from Japan and Belgium, and of gentlemen appearing as representatives of exhibitors in France, Holland, and Italy, enables us to form a more just opinion of the accommodation required for the display of their goods than the estimates forwarded by the London Commissioners, and when the Rhine arrives with Captain Mathieu, a Commissaire-General for France, we will have sufficient information to go upon as to the extra space to be covered. It appears, from the scrutiny made of the European exhibits, that most of them are to be placed in the main building, and that unless Germany send machinery and implements, the British, American, and Australasian sections will be the principal exhibitors. By economising space and placing the exhibits in such a way as to leave fair room for passage, I think another building of the character of one of the machinery halls might be found a sufficient annexe for the unauthorised excess of exhibits which are principally British. When Captain Mathieu arrives it cannot also be ascertained if it will be necessary to erect a separate building on the plan proposed in his letter for the French fine art exhibits. I am informed by M. Bourdil, one of the French staff, who arrived in the Siam, that the Rhine may be looked for early in August.

"The Garonne (s.) is also expected early in August, with Mr. John Frazer, a member of our London Commission, as a passenger, and also Mr. Dilmore, one of the cataloguing staff, who will have drawings and and photographs of the new show cases and particulars of the proposed mode of allotment. I am informed that the main and basement floors will be finished in a week, excepting the space under the dome and brick towers, and it will therefore be possible for exhibitors to commence the decoration and placing of show cases and the erecting of such partitions as may be requisite a month before the time originally announced for opening. This will assist very materially in enabling the Commission to have the time of opening as originally notified in the official programme adhered to as nearly as possible. Two of the most striking constructions in the interior—the pedestal for the Queen's statue and orchestra—have received the approval of the Government.

"A large contribution to the Ethnological collections has been brought up from the Islands by the Wolverene, and the thanks of the Commissioners are due to the Commodore and officers who assisted, in the most cordial manner, in carrying out their wishes. Western Australia is also sending a contribution to the Ethnological collection, which will render it a complete display, and will very much enhance its interest."

The report was received.

FINANCE COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

Mr. THORNTON brought up a report from the Finance Committee stating that the sum of £1000 had been placed to the credit of the Commission, and that accounts amounting to £883 7s. had been expended out of it, leaving a credit balance of £155 19s. 9d. The report stated further that there were outstanding liabilities amounting to £898, and recommended that the Government be applied to for a further sum of £1000.

The report was received.

FINE ART COMMITTEE.

Dr. GARRAN brought up the following report from the Committee on Art:—

"Committee X., on Art, begs to report for the information of the Commission, that at its last meeting it was resolved, subject to the Commission's approval, to give the following sums to those engaged in the drawing of the Design for Certificate of Merit—to Messrs. S. Begg and H. Kent, for conjoint design, bearing the motto "Sidere Mens Eadem Mutato," a sum of 20 guineas; and to Miss Kent for re-casting design 15 guineas.

"The subject of the modes which might be adopted for illustrating the growth of the City of Sydney from the earliest days of the settlement, has been under the consideration of your committee, which proposes with that end in view to ask such colonists as may have them in their possession, to lend to the Commission such engravings, prints, water colour, or other drawings, as may show to visitors the progressive stages in the growth of the capital of New South Wales since the foundation of the colony. It is further proposed to write to the trustees of the Melbourne Free Public Library asking for the loan of the engravings, prints, and drawings known to be in their possession which have a like value as illustrating our topographical antiquities.

"ANDREW GARRAN, Chairman."

The report was received and adopted.

TENDERS FOR SHAFTING.

On the motion of Mr. JOHN DAVIES, the tender of Messrs. Chapman and Co., for the erection of shafting in the machinery halls, at a cost of £1865, was accepted.

The offer of Mr. G. R. Bubb and Co., for the supply of pullies, at 25s. each, was also accepted. It was explained that the expense of the pullies would be borne by exhibitors.

MR. M. WOODS' STATUE OF THE QUEEN.

The Executive Commissioner, in reply to Mr. Mort, said he had been informed by the Colonial Secretary that the Government were taking steps to procure Mr. Marshall Wood's statue of the Queen, by purchase or otherwise, for the Exhibition, and that a pedestal for the statue, designed by the Colonial Architect, had been approved by the Colonial Secretary.

INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION ACT OF 1879.

The Executive Commissioner said that, at the last meeting, he was requested to ascertain what the position of the Commission was in relation to the Government under this bill. He had seen the Colonial Secretary, who told him that there would be no pecuniary responsibility cast upon the Commission, either collectively, or individually; that the bill was introduced as being the best legal mode of providing for the appropriation of the moneys received by the Commissioners; and that in the event of such moneys falling short of the expenditure, Parliament would have to be applied for to make a special appropriation. The main object of the bill was to ensure that Parliament would be made fully acquainted with all that took place in regard to expenditure.

PROPOSED EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

Mr. FLOOD, without notice, moved that an Executive Committe, consisting of Sir John Hay, Mr. Macleay, Dr. Garran, Mr. John Davies, and Mr. P. N. Trebeck, be appointed for the purpose of assisting the Executive Commissioner. The Commission had been appointed for the purpose of managing and carrying on the Exhibition; and he thought it was intended than their functions should be something more than nominal—that they should take some of the work upon their shoulders, and bear some little responsibility. It was necessary that competent officers should be appointed, and that salaries and wages should be fixed, but very few of the appointments came before the Commission. He hoped Mr. Jennings would not think that he wished to cast any reflection upon him. He was sure that everything Mr. Jennings had done had been for the best; but he held that the important work of carrying out the Exhibition should be controlled by a larger number of the commissioners, and that some relief should be given to Mr. Jennings whose work had been very considerable. What he now asked the Commission to do was not a novelty. Such a committee as he proposed was appointed in connection with the first London Exhibition, and the Philadelphia and Paris Exhibitions, besides a commission, and he believed it was quite an unknown thing to carry on so gigantic an affair as an exhibition without an executive committee. They were bound to husband the funds of the public, to see that proper persons were appointed to the various positions, and that those persons only got fair remuneration for their services. If he had no other ground for his proposal he thought the Act which had just been passed would have been a sufficient ground. So far as he could understand that bill, he did not see what necessity there was for it. A simple letter of directions to the Commission as to the receipt and payment of moneys would have been all that was necessary. There was nothing in the bill giving the Commission control over the Domain, and he thought it was a question whether they could prohibit the free ingress of the public to the Domain during reasonable hours. That might yet become a difficulty in the way of carrying out the object they all had in view, that the Exhibition should be a success in every sense of the word. He was sorry the attendance was so small, but he hoped the meeting would agree with him as to the desirability of appointing an executive committee.

Mr. MORT thought notice of the motion should have been given.

Professor SMITH thought the matter ought to be postponed till another meeting. At the first blush he did not like the proposition. They were so pressed for time that he thought it better that all executive functions should be discharged by one individual. That was the best way to get the work done. There was not time to consult half-a-dozen persons. Besides that, the Government had appointed an Executive Commissioner over and above the other Commissioners. If that had not been done, it would have been proper to appoint an Executive Committee. He looked upon the Commission as a board of advice. It would not do for them to interfere as a body with the practical carrying out of the executive functions. The Executive Commissioner had been appointed for that purpose, and their experience had been that the Executive Commissioner had always come to them for their advice on important matters. He thought it would be well to defer the matter until there was a larger meeting.

The CHAIRMAN pointed out that the motion had not been seconded, and that, unless it were seconded, he could not put it.

Mr. MACLEAY thought the motion ought not to have been brought forward without notice, but, under any circumstances, he intended to vote against it. However useful such a committee might have been in the first instance, it was too late now to propose it, when the work was nearly all done. It would appear before the world as an attempt to supersede Mr. Jennings—(Mr. FLOOD: No.)—and he would be very sorry that that should be thought by anyone to be the desire of the Commission. Mr. Jennings had given up his entire time to the work of the Exhibition, and it would be very difficult for anyone to bring a complaint against him. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. JENNINGS said he would like to say one word in reference to the subject of appointments. The permanent appointments had all been made by the Commission; two other appointments were made on the recommendation of committees; and the other persons employed were only taken on temporarily. The only patronage he had exercised was in respect to one appointment. In fact, as to the patronage, he would be glad indeed to be relieved of it. The applications made for employment were more harrassing than any other part of his work. He had no idea that so many persons could be seeking employment.

Mr. FLOOD consented, after the opinions which had been expressed, to withdraw his motion. He disclaimed having any intention of interfering with the functions of the Executive Commissioner.

The Commission then adjourned.

The wet weather of the last few days has retarded to some extent the work on the towers of the Exhibition building. As every day is of great importance now, delays of this sort, whatever their extent, are to be regretted. The work, however, is proceeding briskly and satisfactorily. It would appear, that, unless greater interest be yet shown in the matter, the exhibition of live stock will not be one to be proud of. Up to the present time the entries in our own colony are not numerous; and, in reply to telegrams sent to the other colonies inquiring as to the probable number of entries of stock, particularly sheep, information has been received from Queensland that very few stock would probably be sent from there, and from New Zealand that one bull and two dogs are the only "live stock" entered in that colony. It is to be hoped that stock-breeders will bestir themselves in this matter. A telegram has been received from Mr. Goldsworthy, Colonial Secretary of Western Australia, stating that, as requested in a letter from the Commission, dated the 21st May, the Government of the colony would co-operate in a display illustrative of the ethnology of Australia, and asking when it would be necessary to forward their collection. A telegram has been sent in reply, stating that exhibits will be in time up to the 17th of September, but that exhibits from Western Australia will be received at any time; also that the Commission here will act for the colony in the event of its sending no Commission of its own.

GOVERNMENT GAZETTE.

The following notifications appear in yesterday's Government Gazette:—

GLEN MORRISON GOLD-FIELD.—This gold-field has had about 40 acres added to it by proclamation.

APPOINTMENTS.—Charles Johnson, M.A., M.D., Trinity College, Dublin, M.R.C.S., E., &c. (vaccinator for the district of Penrith), to be an additional vaccinator for the district of Parramatta; Mr. Owen Cornelius Brady, L.S.A., London, to be Government medical officer for the district of Penrith, vice Johnson, resigned.

UNCLAIMED PROPERTY.—The unclaimed property hereunder described, and now in the possession of the police at Muswellbrook, will, unless previously claimed, be sold by public auction, at the Police Office, Muswellbrook, on Saturday, the 9th August proximo, at noon, in accordance with the Police Regulation Act of 1862:—One carpet bag, one silver-plated watch, two coats, two shirts, two vests, two silk turbans, two silk handkerchiefs, two pairs of boots, one bag, and sundries.

THE ROMAN CATHOLICS and EDUCATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Having read his Grace Archbishop Vaughan's pastoral, I beg to suggest that all our Protestant ministers and bishops, teachers of our Christian religion, should meet together, and issue a pastoral also; that the same may be read in all our Protestant churches and chapels throughout the colony.

Six weeks ago I heard that the two Roman Catholic priests had arrived here from Melbourne, where they had caused similar work to be carried on as has resulted in the pastoral published in your issue of to-day. I suppose, also, that the same priests will pass on to Brisbane and Adelaide, and cause pastorals to be issued there, so I trust that our Protestant brethren may be favoured with the views of our spiritual advisers and pastors on the education question.

July 25. I am, &c., LAYMAN.

UNIVERSITY ELECTION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As it now appears that a contest for the vacancy in the Senate is imminent it would perhaps be opportune to warn those gentlemen who are interested in the result that, in addition to the canvassing and pledging tactics pursued from the outset, and the means recently adopted for the creation of voters, attempts are now being made in some instances to destroy votes by securing pairs in cases where, from force of circumstances, the supporter of one of the candidates cannot possibly be present at the polling. Apart from the undignified nature of the proceeding in such an election, I would remind graduates that such a system of pairing is not general recognised as legitimate.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,
CENSOR.

A London paper says that on the occasion of the golden wedding of the German Emperor there will be an amnesty granted to about one thousand non-political prisoners. Political prisoners, on the other hand, will not be pardoned in any single instance. This excludes Count Harry von Arnim and the fugitive Bishops from the benefits of the amnesty.

BUSH MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The New South Wales Bush Missionary Society held its half-yearly meeting last evening, in the upper room of the Temperance Hall. About 100 persons were present. Before the business of the meeting commenced, they partook of tea together. Several of the missionaries were on the platform.

Mr. W. PRATT, who was called on to preside, having taken the chair, said he had been absent for some time. While travelling in border districts to the south, he had been impressed with the necessity for the operations of a society like this. At one small township between Moama and Deniliquin, he found five public-houses, and nothing in the shape of a place of worship, but it was occasionally visited by the Church of England minister (Mr. Jones) and a Catholic priest from Deniliquin. This was only one of many instances of spiritual destitution in small interior towns. In referring to the absence of Mr. Mills, which was owing to illness, he said that this was the first time for fifteen or sixteen years that he had not been present at the half-yearly meetings.

The SECRETARY (Mr. Joseph Palmer) said the most important event of the past half-year had been the engagement of an additional missionary, making the fifth now employed by the society. The necessity for such increase of aid had long been felt, and at length the society obtained the services of Mr. Thomas, who had already made two journeys. The great object of the mission was to supply the destitute parts of the interior with a knowledge of Christ and the Gospel. Missionaries were sent out with waggonettes in which they carried a supply of first-class religious books, imported direct by the society. They were sold at moderate prices throughout the country, especially at places where a minister of the Gospel was seldom seen. The missionary held meetings and preached. Thus many districts totally neglected by Christian agency were evangelized. There were also a number of local agents in the country unpaid, but to whom tracts were supplied for distribution. These formed an important auxiliary not only in spreading wholesome knowledge, but also in collecting funds for the society. Most encouraging letters were received from the country as to the work being done by the society's agents. The society's cash account from the 1st January to the 30th June, showed that the receipts had been £833 8s. 6d., and the expenditure left a credit balance of £84 8s. 6d. The receipts exhibited an improvement, owing to a few special donations.

The meeting then appointed Mr. Palser and Mr. Breen auditors. Mr. Mills was elected treasurer, and Mr. Joseph Palmer secretary. The following were elected as the General Committee: Mr. Henry Bairent, Mr. W. Bradley, Mr. A. W. S. Gregg, Mr. N. Hollingworth, Mr. J. C. Irvine, Mr. W. Pratt, Mr. T. B. Rolin, Mr. J. N. Walker, Mr. J. Wells.

Mr. MOSS then gave an account of his journeys starting south-ward by way of Picton and Camden, thence along the coast to Bulli. As he proceeded farther south the work became more arduous, owing to the increase of people spread over large areas. About Bega there was work for six months, the settlers being hard to get at. After a return to Sydney, he started to Merimbula, thence proceeding to Pambula, Candelo, the Brown Mountain, Tantawanglo, and Monaro Heights. He passed in the direction of Cathcart, thence to Bombala, where the Church of England minister appeared very anxious that the people in his parish should be supplied with books that would benefit them in reading. He next went to Delegate and up the Snowy River, and crossed the border to Bundock. Thence he returned to Delegate, passed on to Gegedzerick, and came back by way of Yass, after visiting Tumut, Wagga, and intermediate places. In passing stations he had been generally received with hospitality. He had scattered papers inscribed with lines of life where labourers were likely to pass, and in some instances he was informed that they were read by many. If it could be known what a number of selectors were settled on each side of the Southern main road for fifty, sixty, or a hundred miles the interest of this society would not flag, but would continue and increase. He had travelled in the last trip 1600 miles, made 926 calls, sold £150 worth of books, and obtained £7 5s. 10d. from other sources. He had sold 75 Bibles, and had given away 4000 tracts. This he had done in the course of eighteen weeks. (Cheers.)

Mr. J. A. THOMAS said he felt rather nervous, because it was the first time he had stood before a Sydney audience, and his journey had been his first in connection with the society. He had proceeded to Brisbane Water, where he had been very kindly received. He held several meetings there, and distributed many books, and when he was about to depart he was entreated to return another time. He proceeded to Kincumber, Blue Gum Flat, Wyee Flat, and other settlements in the district, holding meetings by the way, and invariably receiving kind attention. He afterwards got as far as Mount Vincent, and visited a few people there. As he had to travel a great deal on horseback his stock of books gave out rather quickly, but he believed if he had had a large number with him he would have been able to sell them. He proceeded to Wollombi, round the Maitland district, and then to Newcastle; from thence he had returned home. The people received him kindly everywhere he went, and in nearly every instance desired him to return.

Mr. JAMES SMITH said he had travelled through the Western districts and back blocks, and met with success. During a portion of his journey he was accompanied by their treasurer's son, who he believed had endurance sufficient to make an excellent bush missionary. The journey commenced in February, and had extended to the Orange, the Forbes, the Bathurst, and several other districts. A poor woman in Bathurst asked him to find her son, who had been by the stratagem of a priest taken from her, and gone she knew not where. He got traces of the lad, and eventually found him in a rough bush den, placed in as much seclusion as possible. The law was put in motion and he found it was stronger than stratagem, for it compelled those who had charge of the boy to return him to Bathurst. In many places he recognised reforms among the people he visited, which in some measure were due to the efforts of the society. Tracts were distributed, and frequently yielded a gratifying return, and he was glad to say that the temperance movement had got a firm hold of the people in the Forbes and other districts. From Forbes he went to Parkes and got on to the back blocks, and rode twenty or thirty miles a day to visit stations there. The weather was frequently very wet and he had on several times to put up with much inconvenience. The people seemed anxious to receive persons of any denomination who would preach the Gospel to them, and were pleased with the books and tracts they procured from the society.

Mr. H. C. SCARFE related his experiences during a journey, 1753 miles in length, of which some 600 or 700 miles had to be travelled by water. He had visited 431 widely-scattered families, and sold or given away upwards of 2500 bibles, testaments, and other religious works. After having reached Grafton, Casino, and Tabulam, he proceeded to work the Northern districts, where he had experienced much wet weather and serious inconvenience in travelling. He was told in some of the districts that a clergyman or a missionary had not been seen for twelve months. The people received him kindly wherever he went, and at the Pretty Gully Gold-fields he was entertained by a Roman Catholic lady who had attended his services. He went to Tenterfield, and thence to Maryland, where Mr. Greenup, of Maryland station paid him every attention; and afterwards ventured into Queensland, and along the railway which is being made from Stanthorpe to Warwick. He had no difficulty in selling books where he held meetings. On his return journey, the weather was unfavourable, and he had been detained in Grafton twelve days, because the steamer for Sydney could not get over the bar.

Mr. A. HUNT then said that routes had been mapped out afresh for the missionaries to follow. At present the society compassed the extreme work, west and south of the colony, but they could not send missionaries to the intermediate settlements as frequently as they could wish. They did all they could, however, and thanked God for blessing their labours and inspiring their missionaries with zeal. When they saw their way clear to appoint more hands to do bush work, they would appoint them with pleasure. In the meantime it had been decided that Mr. Smith should proceed to the western districts, Mr. Scarfe to the northern and north-western, Mr. Williams to the New England district and the Barrington Gold-fields, Mr. Thomas to the Western Gold-fields and surrounding localities, and Mr. Moss to the southern districts.

The Rev. A. C. NEWSTEAD, a Church of England minister of Northern Queensland, wished the missionaries God-speed, and an increase of enjoyment in their work. He would like to see fifty instead of five missionaries sent abroad, and if any went to his part of Queensland, he would accord them a sincere welcome.

Mr. PALMER explained that the society was unsectarian in its character, and would be glad of the assistance of any who would promote the teachings of the Gospel in the bush.

The proceedings closed with a benediction.

CYFARTHFA IRONWORKS.—The history of the Cyfarthfa ironworks (in which is involved the rise of Merthyr Tydfil from a village to a population of 100,000 people) is a romance. It was told to me ("Aristarchus," in the Whitehall Review) a few summers back, over a cigar, in the shadow of Cyfarthfa Castle, with the musical accompaniment of the little Taff trout stream, which I had been successfully lashing for a basket of fish. A hundred years ago, the son of a Yorkshire farmer, discontented with home, set out to seek his fortune. He rode to London on his rough Northern pony, which he sold in town for £15. He bound himself to serve in an iron warehouse for three years. His master was one Bickleswith; the boy swept out the counting-house, kept the desks clean, and made himself generally useful in the business. In due time he won his master's confidence and finally became his successor. At the time when Richard Crawshay was moving away from home, one Anthony Bacon was obtaining a lease for 99 years of large tracts of mineral property at Merthyr Tydfil, where he erected smelting furnaces and fires, and began to run that very bar iron for which Cyfarthfa has ever since been famous. He presently obtained a contract from the Government for making cannon, for the manufacture of which he erected a foundry and works. Bacon had a partner, Mr. Homfray. They disagreed, and after a career of considerable prosperity they agreed to retire and sell the business. A capitalist was found, and the fame of his wealth and energy preceded him. Somebody had told the local people that when the new man came the Cyfarthfa works and Merthyr Tydfil would never look back. On the arrival of the new master the bells were rung; the horses were taken out of his carriage; he was dragged in triumph through the town. The stranger was Richard Crawshay, the adventurous son of the Yorkshire yeoman.

MANLY CRICKET CLUB.

A meeting of the above club was held at the Church of England schoolroom, Manly, on Thursday, the 24th instant, at 8 o'clock, the chair being taken by Mr. T. Rowe, the president of the club. The secretary was called upon to read his report, which showed that out of fifteen matches played five were drawn, four lost, and four won. The finances of the club are satisfactory, the books showing a credit balance of £3 11s. The chairman then presented the "President's Trophies" to those gentlemen who had obtained the highest batting and bowling averages, their names being—Mr. J. Frazer for batting, and Mr. C. Smith for bowling. After a vote of thanks to the chairman and officers, the meeting was brought to a close.

VICTORIA COURSING CLUB.

(From the Age of Tuesday.)

The stakes won at the late Waterloo Cup meeting were paid over to the successful owners yesterday afternoon, at the office of the Victoria Coursing Club, 16, Market-buildings, Collins-street West. Mr. W. J. Clarke, the president of the club, occupied the chair, and there was a numerous attendance of coursing men. Mr. G. Lee Lord, of Sydney, was the largest winner, his share amounting to £530, less 5 per cent. deducted for expenses. This sum represented the winnings of Lelex and Lethe, the latter taking £30 for pulling through three courses. Mr. B. Hepburn came next with £200, for running second with Haste in the Cup. Mr. J. Bennett and Mr. J. M'Culloch drew £75 each for winning the Purse and Plate respectively with Kew Lass and Chester; then followed Messrs. J. Wolstenholme and T. Bromell, with £50 each, for running third and fourth respectively in the cup, with Rippling Avon and Lupin. Other sums paid over amounted to £1600, less the per centage. In presenting Mr. Lord with a cheque for the amount won by his representatives, the chairman took the opportunity of congratulating him, on behalf of the Victorian Coursing Club and the sporting men of the colony, upon his merited victory, and expressed a hope that Mr. Lord would often pay Victoria a visit with both dogs and horses. After the remaining cheques had been distributed, champagne was ordered in.

Mr. W. J. Clarke proposed the health of Mr. Lord, a gentleman who had one great advantage on his side—health and strength. He had great pleasure in welcoming Mr. Lord, and, although the cup was going from Victoria, it was not so serious a matter, as Victoria had already scored many victories. She had also sent a dog to New South Wales that had brought back one of the chief prizes of that colony. Victorians had visited New South Wales, and had met with every consideration and kindness from the people there, and they felt a deep pleasure at the victory the sister colony had gained.

Mr. Lord, in responding, remarked that he was quite unworthy of the eulogistic remarks which had been passed upon him. He had come among Victorian coursers as a young and inexperienced man, and the kindness which had been extended to him had greatly exceeded his expectations. He could only say that if the Victorian coursers would visit New South Wales, they might rest assured of a similar welcome, and he trusted they would give an opportunity for the return of the hospitality he had experienced. Some of the Victorian sportsmen had gained prizes at Bathurst, and their enterprise in coming over was generally recognised; in fact, it was mainly owing to that that he had visited Victoria. He congratulated the club upon the success of their meeting, and highly complimented the officers upon the way in which they had selected the ground for the various contests. He certainly intended to come over again next season, and he hoped to bring with him a better dog, as the dog he had just run was not the acme of perfection to which he wished to attain. At the same time the brilliant performance of the dog he had entered did not reflect credit entirely upon himself, as it was greatly owing to the careful attention of his trainer. In conclusion, he complimented Mr. W. J. Clarke upon the great attention which he and the other visitors had received at his hands; and resumed his seat after proposing the health of the losers.

Mr. W. K. Thomson responded in a befitting manner.

Mr. Rounsevell proposed the health of Mr. W. J. Clarke, and referred in glowing terms to that gentleman's patriotic exertions in the cause of true coursing, and took occasion to allude to the liberality and benevolence of the honorable gentleman.

Mr. W. J. Clarke, in reply, returned thanks for the high compliment paid to him, and took occasion to congratulate the Victoria Coursing Club upon the high stand they had taken in all matters relating to coursing which had come within their province. The last Waterloo meeting, he remarked, was exceptionally perfect, no ground for complaint being given on the side of either owners or the judge. He trusted that there would be a great many more meetings of a similar nature.

The health of the Secretary, the Judge, and Success to the Club having been suitably honoured, the meeting adjourned.

The Waterloo Cup trophy was on view during the meeting. It is a very massive and handsomely designed piece of workmanship in the form of an electro-plated epergne, representing Neptune surrounded with sea-horses and mermaids, with crystal and electro-plated plateau, supported by dolphins. It has six branches with cut crystal fruit-holders on each, surmounted with large cut crystal dish, suitable for holding large fruit or cut flowers. The trophy is the most elegant and costly of its kind ever imported into Melbourne, and was purchased at the establishment of Messrs. James M'Ewan and Co., Elizabeth-street.

BOATMEN'S FARES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In these days of cheap fares, when we can go to Watson's Bay and back for sixpence, and Pyrmont and North Shore for one penny, and can use a hansom cab for a quarter of an hour for one shilling, I think some attention should be paid to the regulation of boatmen's fares—if such things can be regulated. The men who ply from the various steps in Sydney appear to charge just what they please, and it would be a good thing if, at each of these steps, where a crowd of these men now lounge and wait for a passenger to row to some ship and to abuse if he does not pay all they ask, a small steam launch or two would take a stand; it would be able to do all of the work required, and would pay well, and soon run these men and their wet uncomfortable boats off the ground. Any how a reform is needed—their fares are too high, and the powers that be should see that we are not treated in this way by the boatmen of Sydney. They should only get 1s. for fifteen minutes—anything less, 6d., at least so thinks CHARON.

THE DURHAM STRIKE.—It is estimated that the loss in wages occasioned by the Durham strike amounts to £640,000, £240,000 of which was borne by the miners. Each miner has lost £6 in wages in a strike which resulted in gaining 1½ per cent. better terms than those offered by the owners at first. One and a quarter is 3d. in the pound, so that they will have to work 9½ years to recover the £6 sacrificed by the strike.

Custom-House.—Entered Outwards, July 25: Alneburgh, barque, 784 tons, Captain Armstrong, for San Francisco; Barrabool (s.), 588 tons, Captain Stanford, for Melbourne, via Newcastle; Dilina, barque, 425 tons, Captain Scott, for Hongkong, via Newcastle.

Messrs. Bright, Brothers, and Co. inform us that the R.M.S. Somerset left Hongkong on the 13th, and Singapore on the 20th instant, with the mails for Australia; and that the Menmuir (s.) left Hongkong on the 11th instant. She has teas for all ports, including 142 tons for New Zealand.

Messrs. Nipper and See have just received the following telegram from the captain of the Young Dick, now in Port Stephens:—"Young Dick here through stress of weather." There were great fears regarding this vessel, as she has been out fifty-four days from Timaru.

The A. S. N. Company have received a cablegram from Hongkong advising the departure of the Ocean (s.) from that port on the 20th instant, for Port Darwin, Cooktown, and Sydney.

We learn from Messrs. Gilchrist, Watt, and Co., that they have received a cablegram advising them of the arrival at San Francisco of the Pacific mail steamer City of Sydney, on the 16th instant, one day in advance of contract time.

The Mary Cochrane (s.), from the Macleay River, 24th instant, crossed the bar at noon, and arrived in Sydney on the 25th, at 11 p.m.; had variable winds, with fine weather to arrival. Her cargo consists of 1000 bags maize, 30 hides, 7 bags bacon, 4 cases eggs, 20 pigs, 1 coop fowls, 30 packages sundries.

The schooner Terrigal Packet, recently sunk by collision in the fairway of our harbour, still lies with her topmasts visible above water, a nuisance to vessels navigating that part of the harbour. The Bulli Coal Company, it is said, purpose raising the vessel and repairing her, but nothing has yet been done in the matter.

The Beagle (s.) left the Manning Bar on Thursday, at 11.45 a.m., and arrived in Sydney on the 25th at 7.20 a.m. Had strong N.E. winds to Seal Rocks; then variable winds and fine weather. The cargo consists of 1100 bags maize, 60 pigs, 4 coops poultry, 10 cases eggs.

The A.S.N. Company's chartered steamer Athol has arrived in port from China, bringing a few Chinese passengers and a general cargo, amongst which are the Japanese exhibits for the International Exhibition, comprising in all about 200 tons of curios, &c. Captain Thomson reports leaving Hongkong on the 13th June, and during the passage through the China Sea had fine seasonable weather. Called at Port Darwin on the 29th June, and landed 300 tons general cargo, mostly rice, also 20 Chinese passengers. Resumed the voyage on the 2nd July, and from Booby Island to Cooktown experienced a succession of strong S. and S.E. winds, with drizzling rain and very thick weather. Landed 400 tons general cargo at Cooktown, and sailed on the 18th instant. Since then the ship has had to contend with strong southerly winds and rainy weather. Michael Taylor, a passenger on board, from Port Darwin, died on the 22nd instant, from cancer, and was buried at sea the same day.

Messrs. Fraser and Co. report having sold the barque Creswell, at Newcastle, for £1800—Mr. J. C. Ellis, purchaser.

The Diamantina (s.) left Taree on the 24th instant at 8 a.m., crossed the bar at noon, and entered Sydney Heads on the 25th instant at 8 a.m. Had dull weather and smooth sea, with west and westerly winds all the passage. She brings 1275 bags maize, 100 hides, 17 coops poultry, 35 cases eggs, 147 pigs.

List of passengers per P. and O. S. N. Co.'s steamer Siam, sailing for Melbourne on Saturday, July 26.—For Venice: Mr. R. R. Harrison. For Melbourne: Mr. Edward Hordern, Master Cecil Hordern, Miss Youl, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Gardiner, Mr. J. A. Gurney, Mr. James Cummins.

A quantity of wreckage was seen on the Black River Beach, Tasmania, on the 6th instant. It could not at the time be identified with any vessel.

The Spinaway, barque, Singapore to Adelaide, lost some of her bulwark planking in a heavy gale off Cape Leeuwin on 4th instant; in the same gale several bulwark and deck-house stanchions were broken, together with the poop rail.

MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

FRIDAY EVENING.

The Stock and Share market closed rather inactively to-day. Bank stock exhibited scarcely any change. City sold at 9¾, and had sellers; Commercial wanted at 102, offered at 104; buyers of Joint Stock at 12¾, sellers at 13; Mercantile inquired for at 4½, held for 5; and National of Queensland for 6¼; New Zealand offered at 18¼, no buyers; Union brought 51. Debentures firm. New South Wales funded fours offered at 93; fives wanted at 105, and 107 asked. Queensland fours had sellers at 92, New Zealand at 84, and fives at par; the latter price also asked for City of Sydney sixes. Holders of Insurance shares continue to ask high prices. Accident not offered below 2s. Australian Fire wanted at 5s. 6d., held for 7s.; City not asked for, 1s. 9d. would be accepted; General had buyers at 58s., sellers at 65s.; Mercantile, buyers at 2s, sellers at 2s. 2d.; New South Wales held for 44s.; there were buyers of Pacific at 46s., sellers at 50s.; Sydney Fire not offered below 70s., and 36s. 6d. paid for Sydney Marine; United offered at 32s. Gaslight firm at yesterday's quotations; buyers of fully-paid at 12¾, sellers at 12⅞, and of new issue at 5½. Sydney Exchange held for 8, and Pyrmont Bridge for 5. Steam shares dull, 10½ was the best offer for Australasian, 11½ asked; Clarence and Richmond, of either denomination, not in the market; Hunter River wanted at 5, offered at 6; buyers of Illawarra at 5½; sellers of North Shore at 12s. 6d. Mining shares firm. Bulli Coal offered at 13½; Wallsend wanted at 15½, sellers at 16; Waratah had buyers at 7⅞, holders asked 8¼; Great Cobar Copper stronger, 12s. 8d. refused. Shale Oil held for 13s. 6d., cum div. Gold shares steady. Krohmann's had buyers at 1s. 5d., sellers at 1s. 11d.; Star of Peace wanted at 4s., held for 6s.; Band and Albion had an upward tendency, 60s. refused, 65s. asked. Volunteer land orders wanted at 84, offered at 87½.

At the half-yearly meeting of the New South Wales Shale and Oil Company, held this afternoon, the report was adopted, and the directors' recommendation to return 1s. per share capital confirmed. The balance at credit of profit and loss was £14,101 2s. 7d., from which £1947 11s. 3d was written off for depreciation of property, £805 9s. 2d. added to maintenance account, £7500 appropriated to dividend of 6d. per share and return of capital, and £3918 3s. 2d. carried forward. Mr. C. T. Gedye was re-elected a director, and Mr. J. F. Paige re-elected an auditor. The usual vote of thanks was accorded.

The Southern Insurance Company propose to pay a dividend at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum, carry £21,835 5s. 10d. to credit of next account, add £10,000 to reserve, and write £500 off the value of freehold premises.

Auction sales of hides, tallow, and other produce were held to-day by Messrs. Maiden, Hill, and Clark, Messrs. Mort and Co., Mr. Bridge, Messrs. Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, and Mr. Barker. The supply of hides was large, but, as buyers for export bought freely, over 5000 changed hands at equal to last week's quotations. The greater portion of the heavy weights sold at 3½d., and one or two small lots at up to 3¾d. Calfskins brought 6d. to 3s. 10d.; yearlings, 1s. 5d. to 7s. 3d.; horsehides, 2s. 6d. to 4s. 6d.; pigskins, 1s.; kangaroo, 7d. to 2s. 4d.; wallaby, 3d.; goat, 1s.; bear, 3d.; shipping lots of tallow were neglected, and, as vendors were not disposed to force sales, the bulk were withdrawn. The lots taken for local trade use realized late rates.

Amongst the large importing firms business is said to be dull, while on the other hand in second houses and those that sell in almost retail lots a moderate trade is said to be doing. Breadstuffs quiet, but moderately firm. Bakers' lots of flour sold to-day at from £12 to £13 10s., the latter for best Adelaide. There is nothing doing in wheat; country lots are worth 5s. 3d., Adelaide held at 5s. 9d., and New Zealand at 4s. 6d. to 4s. 9d. Late cablegrams from Europe are favourable to holders, and as wheat is worth 6s. in Victoria, we cannot expect any from there at present. Advices from England have induced importers of cement to meet the market; 700 barrels of White's changed hands at from 19s. to 20s. on the wharf, and best to arrive can be bought at 21s. There is inquiry for brandies and an advance of 9d. per case was refused for the large parcel of Hennessy's that changed hands yesterday. A line of three-star sold at 42s., and one of Hennessy's pale, in hogsheads and quarters, at 8s. 10½d. Grand Marque, all quarters, sold at 7s. 6d., and case 20s. Blasting powder has been in demand, and in addition to the large lines already reported as having been bought here for two large Melbourne houses, sales were made to-day of five tons of Pigou and Wilks' at 5¼, and three tons for export at 4¾ f.o.b. Malt is in moderate request, with sales at 8s. 6d. for good samples. There is fair inquiry for teas, but quite confined to trade lines. Sugars are also in moderate request. The Cité d'Aleth, said to have been ordered on to Melbourne, is not going there, but will discharge here, and as the importers are not likely to force sales, the cargo will probably go into store.

A private cablegram from London states that if the representative of Messrs. Teas, Stuart, and Burnett, now in that city, can make a satisfactory offer the English creditors will accept it.

The Atholl (s.), from Hongkong, arrived this morning, bringing 250 tons new tea and other goods for this port, as well as a quantity of tea, &c., for Melbourne.

At the railway saleyards hay showed a further decline, which may be attributed to the fact that horse feed of all sorts is plentiful, and coming forward in quantities in excess of the demand. Best oaten hay in trusses and bundles changed hands at the railway station at from 6s. to 6s. 6d. per cwt.; wheaten ditto, 5s. 9d. to 6s.; best oaten in bales, 6s. to 6s. 6d.; oaten and wheaten in bales, 5s. 9d. to 6s. 2d. Straw remains unaltered. Very few good lines of lucerne hay are coming forward, and prices at the railway station ranged from 2s. 9d. to 3s. for prime. Bran is offering in any quantity at 1s. 1d. Country potatoes showed a decline of about 5s. per ton, best samples being quitted at from 5s. 4d. to 5s. 8d. per cwt.; medium, 4s. 6d. to 5s. There was a plentiful supply of Orange-killed beef at Darling Harbour this morning. Prices may be quoted at from 1d. to 1½d. for fore-quarters, and from 1½d. to 1¾d. for hind-quarters. Orange-killed mutton averaged 1½d. per lb. for carcases. On the wharfs prime old lucerne hay from the Hunter River fetched, this morning, from £3 to £3 10s. per ton; medium, £2 5s. to £2 10s. New green lucerne hay, of which the supply was not of first-class quality, was worth from £2 10s. to £3. Very prime samples of oaten hay from Tamworth and Murrurundi averaged £1 10s. per ton; best samples from the Hunter being less sought for at from £3 10s. to £3 15s.; inferior oaten (chiefly for bedding), £2 6s. to £2 15s. Prime quality maize is firm, and sold on the wharfs this morning from 2s. 5d. to 2s. 7d. per bushel. Potatoes are still scarce, and command late prices. Onions are rather dull at from £8 5s. to £8 15s. per ton; millet brooms plentiful at from 7s. to 9s. per dozen; eggs improving at 10d.; butter in good demand at from 1s. to 1s. 3d.; cheese, 3d. to 5d.; bacon, 4d. to 6d.; fowls (quality inferior and meagre supply), 2s. 6d. to 4s.; ducks, 5s. 6d. to 6s. 6d.; geese, scarce, 7s. 6d. to 8s. 6d.; honey is plentiful, and is offering at 3d.

Melhado and Curtis report that a dividend of 1s. 6d. per share is declared payable on Wednesday, the 30th instant, in the Band and Albion Consols Gold Co. It will be payable to Sydney shareholders about 3rd of July.

The Sydney Morning Herald.

SATURDAY, JULY 26, 1879.

The pastoral letter which we published yesterday deals with the well-worn subject of the grievances and claims of Roman Catholics. In this document the public are asked to believe that the Catholics of New South Wales are the victims of cruel wrongs. The principal evil complained of is the multiplication of schools which are said to contravene the first principles of the Christian religion, and which are alleged to be among the most fruitful sources of immorality, infidelity, and lawlessness. The promoters of these schools, we are given to understand, are inspired by a spirit of hostility to the Catholic Church, and by a desire to extinguish among her people the light of her holy faith. Such, according to this pastoral letter, is the educational grievance of the Catholics of New South Wales.

To remove this grievance Catholic parents are warned to send their children exclusively to Catholic schools, and that by doing otherwise they set at defiance the teachings of the Church. The clergy are commissioned to exert themselves till godless and non-Catholic schools have been cleared of Catholic children, and the Catholic laity generally are exhorted to unite as one man to fight for their equal rights with their fellow tax-payers. This is to be done by the bringing of pressure to bear on their fellow-electors, and upon their representatives in Parliament. In other words, the Catholic Bishops counsel a political propaganda, which is to be continued until the grievances of Catholics are remedied, and their claims complied with.

So far the document which we have laid before our readers is intelligible and consistent, but there is at least one point in which this pastoral letter denies itself. Strongly as it is insisted in some parts of this letter that Catholics do not and cannot avail themselves of the school provided by the State, it is clearly intimated in other parts not only that they do avail themselves of these schools, but that they do so in large numbers. That such is the case is well known to everybody. Tens of thousands of Catholic children have been taught in the Public schools, and an ample proportion of such children are still being taught there. The most casual inquiry would establish this beyond all question. There are probably not less than fifty thousand Roman Catholic children in New South Wales. About twenty thousand of these receive instruction in Certified Denominational schools, which are sustained at the expense of the general public. Where are the remaining twenty-five or thirty thousand? No inconsiderable number of them, probably the majority, are in the State schools.

If this be so, two of the leading statements in the document before us break down. First, it must be wrong to say that "Catholics are paying for the support of schools which they can neither approve of nor make use of;" and that in connection with these schools money is "lavished upon one section of the community to the exclusion of the other." How can it be said that Catholics are excluded from Public schools when there are thousands of Catholic children that are daily receiving instruction there; and if this be the case, in what way can it be true that in connection with these schools money is taken out of Catholic pockets to secure an education from which Catholics are banished? The real facts of the case are, not that the Catholics have hitherto been excluded from the schools, but that in future they are to be forbidden to avail themselves of them, which is altogether a different thing. There are hundreds of taxpayers who, not preferring Public schools, send their children to private schools, and they take this course without a thought of a grievance.

It is as contrary to facts to say that the Public schools of the colony are opposed to the consciences of Catholics. If this were really the case, it would not establish an argument for so revolutionary a proceeding as the one that is demanded in this pastoral. The State should grant liberty of conscience to all classes, but it is not so clear that it is the right of any class to demand that its conscience shall dictate the policy of the State. This would mean the tyranny of the conscience of a section of the people, not freedom of conscience for the whole. The State has few greater enemies than unreasonable consciences, and every day it has to resist their demands. But, apart from this, there is no evidence that the consciences of the great body of the Catholic people are opposed to the Public schools. The evidence is all the other way. If this be not so why do so large a number of Catholics avail themselves of these schools? It may be answered because they have no others. That may be true of thinly-populated parts, but not of those which are thickly-populated. If it were true of the former, surely the conscience of Catholic parents generally would have furnished some declaration of its antagonism. But has it done so? Many Catholic parents have declared their preference for Public schools, and many Catholic children voluntarily pass their own Denominational schools to get what are held to be the greater advantages of the Public school. Would this be done if these schools were held to be opposed to Catholic consciences? The truth is that the movement against Public schools is the movement of the Catholic hierarchy, and not that of the great body of the Catholic people. The Archbishop and Bishops hold that these schools are pernicious, and they have a perfect right to do so, but their doing so is no ground for the contention that these schools are contrary to the consciences of the whole Catholic population of the colony.

As little to the purpose is the intimation that the policy of our schools is regulated by hostility to Roman Catholics. The facts, so far as primary education goes, are in the opposite direction. The Roman Catholics have always had their representative on the Council, and good use they have often made of him. Many of our Public schools are presided over by Catholic teachers and are examined by Catholic inspectors; the very curriculum of the schools has been framed with a view of omitting everything that the most sensitive Catholic could take exception to. It is well known that our present school system had its origin in an attempt to provide for the educational interests of the community as a whole without offending the prejudices of Roman Catholics, and in this colony at least no serious element of hostility to Catholics has been imported into the system.

Equally untenable is the position that, under the present system of education, Catholics are subject to disabilities, and that a system of payment by results is necessary to place them on an equal footing with their neighbours. So far as education is concerned, Roman Catholics are at present more than on an equal footing with many of their neighbours. No other religious body, except it may be the Church of England, receives anything like the assistance from the State for educational purposes that is received by Roman Catholics. For the purposes of this pastoral it is assumed that the Public schools of this colony are Protestant schools, and that all non-Catholics belong to secular sects. By this line of reasoning it is very easy to make out that other people have advantages of which Catholics are deprived. But the Public and Provisional schools of the colony are as much Catholic as they are Protestant, and in many instances they are more so. Many people will be surprised to learn that those who are not Catholics must be branded as secularists. The Presbyterian and Wesleyan bodies, not to mention several others, can hardly be justly dubbed as secular sects. These denominations profess to attach quite as grave an importance to religious education as the Bishops of the Catholic Church themselves do, and in their way they may be doing quite as much for religious education. Nor are they supposed to possess any scruples about receiving money from the State for educational purposes. But the members of these bodies receive no advantages from our system of public education that are not enjoyed by Roman Catholics. The fact is that the Roman Catholics receive aid from the State which these denominations do not receive. Besides the Public school privileges offered to the Roman Catholic body, in common with others, this body received last year for Denominational school purposes about £17,000, the exact figures are £16,909 16s. 6d., while all the other denominations of the colony, the Church of England excepted, received for the same purposes less than £3000. Such being the case, by what process can it be shown that a new system of education is necessary to place the Roman Catholics on an equal footing with their neighbours?

A perusal of this pastoral letter will force the public to the conclusion that what the Roman Catholic Bishops want is not even-handed justice, but an undue advantage; and while it is the desire of all classes that they should have the former, it is by no means their desire that they should possess the latter. At present public education in the colony is under the control of the State, but the claim of the Roman Catholic hierarchy is that it should be placed under the control of the Church. It will probably be a long time before this will be agreed to, either by a majority of the electors of the colony, or by a majority of their representatives in Parliament. When the question of revolutionising our educational system in the direction desired is discussed it will have to be in the light of the general matter of State endowment of religious education, and not in that of differential legislation in the interest of Roman Catholic schools. Such an organisation, to secure the latter, as this Pastoral recommends, can only be followed by an organisation to prevent it; and if such a contest is forced on the public, the victory is not likely to fall to the minority.

The London Telegrams published yesterday and to-day are full of intelligence of more than ordinary interest. The paragraphs of latest date will first engross the attention of the public. The national honour has been touched, and the pride of race has been aroused by the early disasters of the Zulu war; and though we live on the far outlying borders of the Empire, we are not cut off from the influence of national feeling. Colonists in Australia have nothing to fear from aboriginal foes, but they know that if England were at war with a foreign Power, they would be liable to attack by the common enemy. And although much has been said and written about their obligation to defend themselves, it is satisfactory to see in the recent events in Africa, evidence that they would not be left to struggle unaided.

The news that the war with the Zulus is practically at an end will be welcomed on all sides. Those who regard it as both an unjust and an unnecessary war will, of course, be gratified by the restoration of peace. And those who are prepared to adopt Sir Bartle Frere's judgment will be glad that the end has been brought about by a striking victory, instead of by negotiations, and Cetewayo's acceptance of terms in presence of a mere display of force, the strength of which he had not actually felt. If the war was necessary at all, the justification of it lay in the military preparations of the Zulu Chief, which threatened the security, if not the existence, of the British settlements in his vicinity. But after the massacre at Isandula and the heavy loss at the Zlobane mountain, the danger to the colonists would have been greater than ever, had not something been done to show, beyond power of disproof, the superiority of British arms. A peace founded upon diplomacy alone, could hardly have been more than a temporary peace, to be preserved, if at all, by maintaining a strong garrison in the colony. The sharp lessons at Rorke's Drift and in the relief of Ekowe would have been scarcely sufficient to teach permanent respect to a bold and crafty enemy. But now we find the Commander-in-Chief proposing to send home the troops. Such a step would have been unwarrantable, if they had not achieved a crushing victory. In the Abyssinian war, King Theodore's army collapsed after the first discovery of the enormous power of a well-sustained fire from breech-loaders. Through incompetence or mismanagement, the Zulus were allowed to retain their confidence in the force of an overwhelming rush with assegais. But the final engagement has placed matters in their true light; and much as the slaughter of so many brave men, who have fallen in the defence of their country, is to be deplored, it will probably prevent a larger loss of life hereafter, by establishing a surer foundation for peace between the Zulus and the colonists. Although the supreme command had been assumed by Sir Garnet Wolseley, the telegrams point to the conclusion that the victory is to be placed to the credit of Lord Chelmsford, who has had time to turn his dearly-bought experience to profit, and to re-habilitate, in some measure, a reputation severely damaged.

It will be remembered that the Prince Imperial fell shortly after the advance of the British forces had begun. If he had but lived to see the successful issue, and to take, perhaps, a prominent part in the action which brings the war to a close, the object of his mission would have been accomplished, and he would have returned with the military prestige which to an aspiring Bonaparte was as the breath of life. Strange is it that one who bore the name, and was sustained by the traditions of the exile of St. Helena, should have died fighting in a British cause and been buried on British soil, and that his pall should have been carried by members of the Royal Family of England. But England befriended his father, and whether truly or falsely, his father was England's friend. Bonapartism, it seems, is not yet to be extinguished. Prince Napoleon is faithful to his promise not to seek the restoration of the Empire for his own sake; but the leadership of Prince Jerome has been recognised. The complications of French politics, therefore, have not been simplified to the extent that was anticipated.

Fortune seems to be once more favouring the Beaconsfield Ministry. A few months ago, there were troubles and embarrassements on every hand. Now the clouds are clearing. It tells for the Ministry not only that the Zulu war is closed, but that the final blow has been struck by Lord Chelmsford who was supported so persistently. In the East there is not merely peace with Yakoob Khan, but the Secretary of State is in a position to say that he is honestly fulfilling his obligations. A similar statement has been made respecting Russia, and the Berlin Treaty; but the qualifying term is not employed in that case. The whole stipulations are being fulfilled; but whether that implies the successful accomplishment of the Beaconsfield policy in connection with the treaty is a question which time will answer.

Parliamentary privilege, even where it is the growth of centuries, is not sufficient to prevent Parliamentary disorder. Late occurrences in the House of Commons raise the question whether, after all, obstruction and disorder, in one form or another, are not incidental to Parliamentary government. Parliamentary government is a pretence where the rights of minorities are denied and there is no effective guarantee for free discussion; but, on the other hand, to uphold those rights and provide those guarantees is to place powers of mischief, as well as of good, in the hands of men who may have too much egotism or too little self-control, so that the result may be an abuse of them. The real safeguard lies in the common sense and right feeling of individual members, and in the determination of the collective body to maintain the honour and dignity of the House irrespective of party consideration.

Mr. Mills's motion upon Victorian affairs has been indefinitely postponed. Parliament is expected to be dissolved in the autumn; and the pressure of other business makes time too valuable to be consumed upon outside questions. It does not follow that the matter is regarded with indifference. The conclusion rather is that in the general opinion it is wiser to have it undiscussed in the Imperial Legislature. The Victorian Parliament ought to be able to consume its own smoke. The meaning of Sir M. Hicks-Beach's despatch was clear enough to all who were not bound to misunderstand it. And as the Government had declined to interfere, it is well that there should be no interference, even by mere talk, in the House of Commons, to lay the foundation for party misrepresention, or to encourage hopes beyond the chance of fulfilment.

There is one comparatively small item of news that will give pleasure to many colonists of Australia, though not to all who are interested in the question. There has long been an agitation on the part of vignerons in South Australia, and on the Murray more particularly, to procure a reduction of the English rate of duty on the stronger wines. A committee of the House of Commons has reported in favour of the change, which has so persistently been opposed by the Customs authorities. The result is probably due to the hostile action of the Spanish Government. Specially heavy duties have been levied in Spain on English goods in order to enforce the reduction, and English trade with Spain has accordingly suffered. Of course, if the report should be acted upon, Australian, as well as Spanish wines of high alcoholic strength, will be affected by the change; but whether it will be a benefit to our wine-growers is another question. The lower duties will let in all sorts of manufactured abominations from the Continent of Europe, loaded with spirit to suit the English palate; and possibly our products will be in greater danger than before of being crowded out of the market.

We are indebted to the Freeman's Journal of last week for calling attention to a slip of the pen in one of our leading articles of the 15th instant, in reference to the enrolment and average attendance at State schools in Queensland. By quoting the wrong line of figures from a tabular statement which appeared in our issue of the same date, the numbers for New South Wales were ascribed to Queensland. But no argument depended on the misquotation, because it rested upon the proportionate average attendance in the several colonies, and this is correctly given. The same journal erroneously attempts to find a second mistake where there was none, by attempting to show that we confounded the school expenditure of New South Wales with that of Queensland, and quotes the following as evidence:—"The whole expenditure for the year was £117,748. Adding the fees, which go directly to the teachers, to the other expenditure, we get a total of £410,726." The first sentence is one of several which had reference to Queensland, and is correctly quoted by our contemporary. The second is only part of a sentence, separated from the rest by the smallest point of punctuation, a comma, and distinctly identified with New South Wales. The whole sentence reads as follows:—"Adding the fees, which go directly to the teachers, to the other expenditure, we get a total of £410,726, or at the rate of 11s. 10d. per head of our people expended under the Council of Education last year; or dividing the expenditure by the number of children in average attendance for the year, it was £5 12s. 2d. per child in Queensland; and £6 15s. 8d. per child in New South Wales." Surely this is definite enough. "Our people" must mean the people of New South Wales, even if it were not further defined by reference to fees and the Council of Education, which have no existence in the educational system of Queensland. To prevent further mistake we will insert again the tabular statement which accompanied our article of the 15th, and which is based on figures taken from the official reports of New South Wales, Victoria, Queensland, and New Zealand, then and now lying before us. It brings before the public more prominently than anything else could, the slow progress we are making, as compared with our neighbours, in overtaking the educational wants of our people, notwithstanding the heavy expenditure to which we so cheerfully submit:—

The Perth Inquirer, which is the most influential journal in Western Australia, strongly recommends that South Australia should be requested to annex the colony. There are no data by which we can judge whether the Inquirer represents the opinions of any considerable section of the community, but the inference appears to be safe that it is not alone in its views. The political union is not desired, because the work of colonising the vast territory known as Western Australia is in a semi-moribund condition, or because the future is despaired of. There was a deficiency in the revenue during the years 1865-6-7, but the public debt at the close of the year last named was only £161,000, and with an import and export trade amounting to about £800,000 per annum. The nearly 30,000 colonists, when they looked at their land revenue, their immense and valuable jarrah forests, and their mineral wealth, had little cause to fear that they should sink under their load of indebtedness. The idea of political union seems to have been begotten by a sense of that isolation for which federation supplies the remedy, and by a desire—pardonable in a comparatively-speaking weak community—to lean upon a stronger one. Connection with South Australia, it is felt, would strengthen Western Australia. The desire for voluntary annexation, however, seldom develops into anything. There are plenty of examples of countries wishing to aggrandise themselves at the expense of their neighbours, but not many of those neighbours wishing to be parties to the game. Some time ago there was a movement in Tasmania for annexation to Victoria, but it has died out, and no Tasmanians wish to revive it. We should doubt whether the West Australians really long for even a temporary absorption in any other colony. The price that the Inquirer suggests for the cession of the colony is a railway from Port Augusta to Albany. This may be made at some future time, though from what is at present known of the intervening country the commercial prospects of such a line are not very bright. At present, however, the South Australians have quite enough railroad construction on their hands, with their trans-continental and other lines. They have also more territory than they know what to do with, and do not covet Western Australia. They have a colony in the Northern Territory which has been as a white elephant to them. They may appreciate the compliment paid to their energy, steady progress, and friendly feeling, but they would probably decline any further responsibilities than the heavy ones under which they are at present struggling, with, it is gratifying to add, every prospect of success.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The cable continues to work satisfactorily, and supplied us yesterday with many additional items of news, which we publish this morning. The chief of the news has been dealt with by us in our leading article above. But there are one or two minor matters deserving of attention. It will be seen by our commercial telegrams from London that breadstuffs have slightly receded in price compared with the quotations we published yesterday. The metal market also show a slight decline. Another piece of news which will interest Australians is the presentation of £1400 to the celebrated cricketer, Mr. W. G. Grace. The complimentary match at Lords to Mr. Grace was considered as chief among the benefits of the season. It was to take place on the 21st instant, and we presume that the match was made the occasion of the presentation of the testimoial. The sides were to be Gentlemen and Players under 30 versus Gentlemen and Players over 30.

A cablegram has been received by the Colonial Secretary, informing him that the ship Corowa, with 454 immigrants, sailed from London for Sydney on the 10th instant.

The next sittings of the Supreme Court for the trial of causes will commence next Monday. Eighty-eight causes have already been set down for trial—41 in the Banco Court and 47 in the Jury Court. As the Court will, according to the Law Almanac, only sit for 18 working days, it is hardly possible that the whole of the causes will be disposed of unless some other arrangements are made.

The Full Court, consisting of their Honors Mr. Justice Faucett and Sir William Manning, yesterday, dismissed, with costs, the appeal of Mr. G. A. Lloyd against the decision of his Honor the Chief Commissioner refusing a certificate. The cross appeal of the Oriental Bank against the decision of the Chief Commissioner overruling certain objections to the granting of a certificate to Mr. Lloyd was also dismissed with costs. The publication of the reasons for the judgment was withheld by the Court to allow the insolvent to give further evidence as to his transactions with one of his creditors.

The Amateur Turf Club Races, at Randwick, which take place to-day, will be under the patronage of his Excellency Sir Alfred Stephen, K.C.M.G., who intends to proceed to the ground at the conclusion of the University Commemoration.

The usual weekly meeting of the International Exhibition Commission was held yesterday afternoon. A letter from the Consul for Chili was read, stating that owing to the war at present going on, the Chilian Republic would be unable to participate in the Exhibition. Reports from the Finance and Art Committees were submitted. The Executive Commissioner read his progress report. Some discussion took place upon a motion submitted by Mr. Flood, for the appointment of an Executive Committee, but the motion not being favourably entertained was withdrawn by the mover.

The following is the order of musical service at St. Andrew's Cathedral for Sunday, 27th July:—Magnificat, Goss, in E; Nunc Dimitis, Goss, in E; Anthem: "How Dear are Thy Counsels," Dr. Crotch.

The rain ceased yesterday morning and the clouds cleared away about noon, the weather continuing fine throughout the day. Some of the streets were in a very sticky state, the effect of the rain on the previous day and night, rendering locomotion very unpleasant. Telegrams from the country show that there has been a very general rainfall, which will have the effect of giving a start to Spring vegetation. Rain had fallen at Armidale, Albury, Balranald, Bega, Bingera, Bombala, Braidwood, Casino, Cooma, Eden, Grenfell, Inverell, Manning River, Moss Vale, Orange, Queenbeyan, Taree, Tumut, Urana, Warialda, and other places including stations in almost every part of the colony. The wind on the coast was comparatively light and the sea smooth.

A draft of proposed regulations, intended specially to benefit the game of cricket and its pursuit on Moore Park during the coming season, has been submitted to the Mayor, Mr. C. J. Roberts, for that gentleman's perusal. As hitherto carried out, this matter is open to great improvement, and with effective regulations in the hands of a few conversant with the game and its wants, should work well, and is worthy of a trial.

An assault case arising out of the rival North Shore ferry-boats was heard at the Water Police Court yesterday, Messrs. Marsh, Water Police Magistrate, and Lester, J.P., being on the bench. The complainant was Robert Moore, the master of one boat, and the defendant Donald Munro, the master of the other, and from the evidence it appeared that Munro had gone up to Moore while he was at the landing in charge of his boat and wanted to fight him, and then struck him, knocking him down. Moore rose up, but did not want to fight at the Quay, saying he would do it if Munro liked to go down to Lavender Bay. Mr. Marsh said the complainant had acted wisely in the matter, having a public duty to perform, and there was no excuse, no matter what Moore might have said or done previously, for Munro selecting that particular day and opportunity for making the quarrel. The Bench fined Munro 40s., with 5s. 10d. costs, and £1 1s. professional costs, with the alternative of 14 days' imprisonment.

Henry Zeplin was brought before Mr. J. W. Smart, J.P., yesterday, on a charge that, having been committed for trial at the next court of gaol delivery, on a charge of arson, and admitted to bail, he was believed to be about to leave the colony to defeat the ends of justice. The accused had been arrested by senior-sergeant Larkins, who said the warrant had been taken out at the instance of Mr. J. D. Field, one of his bondsmen. Zeplin was remanded to his former custody.

An opportunity has been afforded us of inspecting some excellent specimens of embroidery, the work of Mrs. M'Coy, of York-terrace, Newtown Road. They are intended for the International Exhibition, but primarily were prepared in the way of instruction to pupils. Roman embroidery on dark cloth ground, silk embroidery on light cloth ground, and applique work are represented, and in the collection there is an exquisite specimen of areophane relief work. Chief of the applique work is a mantelpiece drape in scollops, each of the 10 compartments containing a distinct floral design, wrought in cloth, velvet pile, and silk. Another specimen of the same style is a bracket drape, presenting a fine group of favourite flowers. Silk embroidery appears in a sofa cushion, the centre of which is a bouquet of wild flowers intermingled with ears of wheat; the base of the main group is supported by a festoon harmonizing with the chief features of the design, and giving finish to the whole. This piece of work is admirable in the grouping of the various flowers and leaves, the colours are well disposed, and the needlework displays great artistic skill. The gem of the collection, however, is a small fire-screen in silk embroidery. The design of this is also floral, consisting of the more popular flowers, ferns, variegated leaves, and ears of bearded corn, admirably grouped and produced with excellent effects in form and colour. A very attractive specimen of areophane work also shows a group of flowers and leaves. The relief work in a delicate material so well adapted to the representation of flowers, the tasteful disposition of the objects, and the well-arranged colours give a charm to this piece of needlework even beyond that of the more meritorious specimens. We are informed that these exhibits are wholly colonial workmanship and the designs entirely original, and it appears also that Mrs. M'Coy has acquired all her art and skill in the Australasian colonies.

Mr. Charles Richardson, secretary to the Intercolonial Juvenile Industrial Exhibition, which is to be held in Melbourne in December next, has submitted to our inspection specimens of the gold medals which are to be distributed to the prize winners. They are extremely chaste and attractive, and have been designed so as to be suitable for wearing. It is intended to display them for a few days in the shop window of Messrs. T. T. Jones and Son, of 330, George-street. Mr. Richardson informs us that the Executive Committee with which he is connected will also distribute some 200 silver medals, also £585 in cash, and a number of valuable articles, consisting of jewellery plate, books, furniture, &c., worth fully £200, making a grand total in value of medals, articles, and cash, of over £1250. Mr. Richardson, as our advertising column states, will be in attendance at the School of Arts, Pitt-street, to-day, and also on Monday, from 10 to 1 and from 2 until 4, for the purpose of giving every information to intending exhibitors, and supplying entry forms. A number of entries have already been received from New South Wales, but the object of Mr. Richardson's visit is to largely increase this number; exhibits will be carried free of all charge to exhibitors from Sydney to Melbourne and back again; so there is every inducement for our youth to compete. The Exhibition is being held entirely as an educational undertaking, having been originated by a number of the leading citizens of Melbourne especially for the purpose of stimulating the youth of the colonies, and inducing them to compete for fame in the arena of industry and art. His Honor Sir Redmond Barry is the president, and a large number of influential citizens of Melbourne form the executive committee.

A correspondent brings under our notice an act of honesty which he thinks deserves some mention. On Thursday evening a lady got into No. 151, Bondi omnibus, and on leaving it dropped her purse, containing nearly £20 in notes and gold. On making inquiries yesterday at the Metropolitan Transit Commissioners' Office, she was delighted to learn that the conductor had been honest enough to place it in the Commissioners' hands.

The committee of the Nimrod Fishing Club gave their members an extra outing on Thursday last, and notwithstanding the appearance of a probably wet day, thirty members braved the rain, and like true sportsmen steamed away in the steamer Commodore. They tried the Coogee and Botany grounds with but very limited success. 240 was the total number caught; and after a more pleasant day than was at first expected all arrived home safely about half-past 6 o'clock.

An inquest will be held this morning at the City Coroner's office, on the body of William Paterson, who died at the Infirmary on Thursday afternoon. He had been received there the same morning, from No. 2 Police Station, where he had been locked up for vagrancy, and was then very weak and under the influence of drink.

Return of tin ore received at Newcastle and Morpeth week ending 19th July, 1879: From Tamworth to Newcastle, 9 tons 2 cwt. 2 qrs.; ditto to Morpeth, 7 tons 11 cwt. 3 qrs.; total, 16 tons 14 cwt. 1 qr. Return of copper ore and regulus received at Sydney station week ending 19th July, 1879: Bowning, 1918 ingots copper, 14 tons 10 cwt. 3 qrs.; Orange, 1828 cakes copper, 88 tons 12 cwt. 1 qr.; total, 103 tons 3 cwt.

Yesterday afternoon the newly-appointed trustees of Scarborough Park met at the City Bank. On the motion of Mr. S. Cook, seconded by Mr. W. Neill, J.P., Mr. Lucas, M.L.A. (the senior member for Canterbury) was elected chairman. On the motion of Mr. J. Bowmer (Mayor of West Botany), seconded by Mr. Neill, Mr. S. Cook was chosen to the office of honorary secretary. On the motion of Mr. M. A. Black, seconded by Mr. Jolly, Mr. Neill was elected treasurer. Several resolutions were agreed to concerning access to and the improvement of the park, so as to make it available for the purpose of public recreation and enjoyment. The secretary explained that the question of communication had been already under the notice of the Government department, and that, through the interest taken in the matter by the hon. Minister for Mines (Mr. Baker), a good road to the park had been secured, and it was thereupon determined to take steps with a view to its being opened to the public and made fit for traffic.

The New South Wales Bush Missionary Society held its half-yearly meeting in the Temperance Hall, last night. It was celebrated by a tea meeting, after which the secretary gave a verbal report of the work done during the last six months, and said the funds were in an improved condition, and had been augmented by some special donations. Particulars of the meeting will be found in another column.

What may be termed an extraordinary sight is to be seen by travellers on the Malmsbury Road. A short distance this side of Porter's Junction Hotel is a tree which has evidently been killed by lightning. This (says the Daylesford Advocate) is certainly not an unusual occurrence, but what makes the tree an exception is the fact that fully 100 dead magpies are hanging by their claws from its branches.

The Melbourne Argus says a statement has appeared on authority to the effect that, so far from the Treasurer being at all pressed for money, an unusually large balance is available. On the other hand, we are informed that the Treasurer is now negotiating with the banks for power to obtain temporary advances from them as may be necessary, to the extent of from £150,000 to £250,000.

The Otago Daily Times of July 8 states that the tram-cars ran free of charge on the preceding day, and were patronized by a large number of people. Some of the horses attached to vehicles in the streets pricked up their ears slightly at the sight of the engine, but did not show any disposition to "shy." The engines and cars ran smoothly, and the journey between the Colonial Bank and the Water-of-Leith was easily performed in about thirteen minutes.

At the Coburg Police Court yesterday (says the Melbourne Daily Telegraph of Wednesday) the truant inspector (Mr. Barfoot) prosecuted several persons for their children not attending school, as required by the Act, during the quarter ending March. One or two cases were postponed to enable the defendants to corroborate their statements that their children were sick. Two cases were dismissed—one owing to the wife being summoned instead of the husband; and in one case a fine of 2s. 6d., with 2s. 6d. costs, was inflicted.

There is now on view at Mr. Flegeltaub's establishment in Ballarat (says the Courier) a novelty in sundials well worth inspection. Over the gnomon of the dial is fixed with mathematical exactness a magnifying-glass—strictly speaking, a burning-glass. Below the glass is a small brass cannon, with the touch-hole so set that when the sun is at meridian the concentrated rays passing through the glass enter the touch-hole and if the cannon be loaded ignites the charge and fires it off exactly at 12 o'clock. The gun at present is not loaded, and customers may enter the shop without hesitation.

In our notice of the Civil Service concert on Thursday night, in the body of the report the name of the society was inadvertently given as the "Sydney Musical Union." It should also have been stated that the song, "When for thee I breathe a sigh," was sung by a well-known tenor.

Friday.

The export of coal for the week is 30,494 tons, and of coke 28 tons.

William Peters, a miner, was severely injured by a fall of coal in the Minmi Colliery to-day. He was removed to the Newcastle Hospital, where Dr. Knaggs found it necessary to amputate one of Peters's legs.

The Borough Council held a special meeting to-night, and decided to invite a conference of the whole municipalities of the district for Monday next, on the cemetery question.

PARRAMATTA.

Friday.

To-night the sixteenth half-yearly meeting of the Parramatta Gas Company was held. The directors' report for the half-year was received, showing a profit on the half-year of £686 14s. 5d. The meeting was well attended. Local feeling is condemnatory of municipal apathy in not lighting the streets.

WEST MAITLAND.

Friday.

A fatal accident occurred last night to a Frenchman named John La Capatain. Deceased was returning home with a friend, and after crossing by the Hinton punt he was thrown from his horse. He was removed to the Maitland Hospital, where the unfortunate fellow died an hour after from fracture to the base of the skull. An inquest was held this evening, and a verdict of accidentally killed was returned.

Satisfactory progress is being made with the new railway passenger station at Elgin-street. Increased and better accommodation will be afforded.

William Lewis, late senior constable, stationed at Obley, was ordered by the Bench to-day to be sent to the Hospital for the Insane at Parramatta. Lewis was an efficient and respectable officer, but the death of his wife some time ago, brought on insanity.

GOULBURN.

Friday.

About 7 o'clock to-night a man named Shepherd, who arrived in town a week ago from Kangaloola, and who has already been in the Asylum twice, created a great disturbance in Montague-street. After threatening to smash all the windows in the Argyle Hotel, he walked over to Betts, the solicitor's, and forced the lock of the front door. He then entered the front room, and knocked over the table and chairs, threw the books, letters, and inkstand about and finally threw a large table through a plate-glass window, breaking it in a thousand pieces. One piece struck a girl named Landsdowne on the forehead, causing a severe wound. Shepherd then rushed out through the window, flourishing a stick and threatening to kill everybody, and crying, "I have done for you, Betts, my boy!" He was finally secured, but it required seven men to take him to the lock-up.

Heavy rains have fallen since Wednesday, and the road is almost impassable. The rain is clearing away to-night, and there are prospects of a change for the better.

ORANGE.

Friday.

The half-yearly general meeting of the School of Arts was held on Thursday evening. There was a full attendance. The report and balance-sheet demonstrated steady progress. Many valuable works have been recently added to the library. The meeting cordially endorsed the action of the committee in obtaining permission from the Attorney-General for an Art Union to liquidate the debt on the building.

Rain has fallen almost continuously since yesterday morning.

NOWRA.

The weather is dull.

THE ZULU WAR.

COMPLETE DEFEAT OF THE ZULUS.

(Reuter's cablegrams.)

LONDON, July 19.

A despatch has been received from Sir Garnet Wolseley to the Government, announcing his safe arrival at the seat of war. Lord Chelmsford continues to advance, and it is expected that the British forces would reach Ulundi, Cetewayo's chief kraal, on July 1st. A large force of Zulus has been concentrated in the vicinity of the British positions.

LONDON, July 22.

The latest news from the Cape, dated July 4, says that Lord Chelmsford was only 10 miles from Ulundi on the 30th June. He offered the enemy a suspension of hostilities, if the cattle and guns were surrendered. On the 3rd July, 700 Zulus surrendered to the British.

LONDON, July 23.

An official despatch has been received by the Secretary of State for War to-day, from Sir Garnet Wolseley, dated Natal, July 6, announcing that the Zulus have been defeated, with enormous loss; and that Ulundi, Cetewayo's chief kraal, has been captured and destroyed.

LONDON, July 24.

The Secretary of State for War has received, and has published, a further despatch from Sir Garnet Wolseley, dated July 8, expressing his belief that the war is now over, and stating that he awaits instructions to send home the troops. Sir Garnet adds that he expects to meet Cetewayo on the 16th, to discuss with him the conditions of peace.

Later.

Further particulars of the great British victory have been received, stating that, in consequence of Cetewayo's not complying with the demands of the British, Lord Chelmsford advanced with his whole force towards Ulundi on the 4th July. The troops were attacked on their march by 20,000 Zulus, and the British, numbering 5000, received the enemy in a hollow square. The attack was most desperate and continued for two hours, when the Zulus, finding their attempts to break the square fruitless, commenced to retreat. The 17th Lancers were thereupon ordered to charge, and succeeded in completely routing the enemy in all directions. The official statement which has been published estimates the Zulu loss at 1000 killed. The British lost 10 killed and 53 wounded. After the repulse of the enemy, the troops advanced to Ulundi, which they captured and completely destroyed by fire, together with a large number of military kraals, and returned to the British camp on the same day.

The COAL VEND SCHEME at NEWCASTLE.

(By Telegraph.)
(From our own correspondent.)

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

The difficulty brought about by the action of the South Waratah miners has now assumed a distinct phase. The men desired again this morning to return to work, but were distinctly refused. They will be paid off to-day, and their tools taken out of the pit and returned to them. One hundred and ninety-eight miners, besides about 20 wheelers, will thus be thrown out of employment, and the union fund will have to pay them £1 a week each whilst unemployed. It is generally believed that the firm step taken by the Waratah company, in locking their men out, will lead to important changes ere long in the district.

SHOCKING MURDER AND SUICIDE.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our own correspondent.)

ADELAIDE, Friday.

Miss Wildy, who was murdered yesterday, was the companion and servant of Mrs. Weller, a widow living in a lonely part of Goodwood Park, on the Glenelg railway line. The other occupants of the house were Mrs. Weller's nephew, a young man named Tabor, and her father, a very old man named Barber. Mrs. Weller and Tabor left home about 1 o'clock, leaving Barker and a young carpenter named Charles Harvey, who was doing some work on the premises. On Mrs. Weller's return at 4 o'clock she found the girl lying dead on the kitchen floor, with blood oozing from wounds on her head and neck. A poker was lying near, stained with blood. After a search, the dead body of Harvey was found in a well in the yard, with a bucket rope round his neck and two bricks in the bucket to insure its effectual sinking. The girl was 21 years old, and her assassin just a year older.

The inquest on the girl Wildy, held to-day, elicited the fact that Harvey had been engaged to her, but that the engagement had been recently broken off. Harvey wrote a letter prior to the crime, accusing a man named Tabor, the nephew of Mrs. Weller, in whose house the tragedy occurred, of writing a damaging letter concerning his previous life, and seems to have nurtured an ill feeling against the girl on that account. The jury returned a verdict of wilful murder against Harvey, now deceased, and also a verdict of suicide by drowning against him.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE OPERA.

According to the advertisements, last night's performance of "Aida" was the final one for the present season. Whenever it may be produced again it will be welcomed as an opera which has given great pleasure to all who heard it often enough to realize the composer's intentions, as one which has been highly instructive and interesting as an art study, and also as one which incontestibly proves what capable artists are in our midst. It may safely be asserted that to a very large number "Aida" was—until its production by Mr. Lyster's company—a sealed book; and further, that on a first hearing it was so many a tangled mass of harmonies, but to those who have sought them, the repetitions have unfolded numberless beauties, and have made clear the elaborate and subtly-constructed scheme of the composer. A musical analysis is beyond the limits our space affords, nor would it interest the general reader; but to one who, in a scientific sense, is a non-musical hearer, it is an intellectual treat to watch how music is used to interpret human feelings. Who can listen unmoved to the wailing of the orchestra which forms the accompaniment to Aida's scena at the close of the scena where Radames, having received the banner from Amneris, departs to seek the blessing of Vulcan on his mission? Who can fail to see the artist spirit in the plan which causes the melody with which Radames begins his appeal to Aida, to be caught up by her as he consents to fly, and repeated in unison by the two when both have realized that a happy future is in store for them? Again, when Amneris in the last act tries to win Radames and declares what sacrifice her love will make for him, how true to nature is the idea which makes him also declare in the same tones that he, too, can sacrifice much, even life itself for love, so likewise the retaliation, when Amneris goaded to frenzy gives vent to her scorn for Aida, Radames gives scorn for scorn, and furiously throws the daughter of the Pharoahs aside. Signora Link has throughout acted and sung as one able and willing to realize the highest conception of Aida, and she has never succeeded better than last night; in the first act where for a moment she forgot her captive state, remembering only that "Love levels all distinctions, confronted her haughty mistress and rival then suddenly abasing herself as she met the flashing eye and saw rapid traces in the mien and apparel of the woman who also loved Radames, she evidenced histrionic talents that have rarely been equalled and never surpassed on our stage. The chant of the priestesses, led by Miss Bessie Royal in the first act, and repeated in the Temple, is thoroughly Eastern in character, and contrasts well with the other concerted music. The dance music too is rhythmical and very effective, while the processional march bids fair to become a favourite with bands outside the Opera House. The audience lavishly applauded the principals, and would have encored numbers and scenes ad infinitum, the singers bowed their thanks. "Aida" is too exacting to admit repetitions in one performance. To-night, Balfe's popular "Rose of Castile" will be presented.

THEATRE ROYAL.

"As you Like It" was repeated at the Theatre Royal last night, and ran with the delicious smoothness that characterised the performance of it on the previous evening. The audience had considerably increased in number, and by frequent expressions of commendation showed their admiration for the eloquent passages the great poet has introduced into the play, and the manner in which they were delivered. Miss Ashton's representation of Rosalind's character cannot be too much admired. It is about the best, if not the best, impersonation she has attempted here, and it is gratifying to see it winning approval from all quarters. "Julius Cæsar" will be produced this evening with a splendour and effect which has not been surpassed here.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.

"Pinafore" was again pretty largely patronised at the Queen's Theatre last night, and as on former occasions was greatly enjoyed by the audience. Another repetition will be given to-night.

SCHOOL OF ARTS.

The Zealandia Exhibition at the School of Arts last night was moderately well attended, and those present seemed greatly pleased with the different views and mechanical effects exhibited. It is understood that the exhibition has been arranged with a view to induce immigration from England and other places to New Zealand, and with that object it is probable that after making a tour of the country districts of New South Wales, it will be taken to England. There will be a matinée to-day, as well as an entertainment in the evening. Commodore Wilson and the officers of H.M.S. Wolverene have accorded their patronage for Monday evening.

GUILD HALL.

By our advertising columns it will be seen that a performance is to take place at the Guild Hall on Monday evening for the benefit of the well known comedian, Mr. Henry Walton. A very enticing programme has been prepared for the occasion—viz., the famous comedy "Our Boys" and a miscellaneous entertainment, in which Miss Marion Willis, little Maggie Innes, Mr. Perier, the lecturer of the Zealandia Exhibition; Messrs. Gerald Dillon, Harry Leston, Fred. Leston, and many others will appear. Such a bill of fare cannot fail to draw a good house, especially as the object is a deserving one.

THE ENGLISH CIRCUS.

Messrs. Hayes and Benhamo are introducing an English circus company here, who will commence performing this evening. Their place of entertainment is situated at the junction of Hunter-street and Castlereagh-street, and, so far as appearances can be relied upon, it will form an attractive place of resort. It is constructed of galvanized iron on a wooden framework, and will be appropriately fitted up. It extends a hundred feet along Hunter-street, and seventy-five along Castlereagh-street, and its height is about thirty-two feet. Everything in connection with it seems firm and substantial, and a general aspect of coziness prevails inside, which is not invariably observable in a canvas tent. The principal entrance will be by means of a lobby and vestibule on the Hunter-street side capacious enough to prevent the possibility of crushing, and separate entrances will be provided for those who patronise the lower-priced parts of the house. A large gas light, capable of providing a flame equal in brilliancy to that of the combined flames of two hundred candles, has been placed near the principal entrance, and about four hundred gas jets in straight lines or circles will be used for illuminating the interior. Sitting accommodation will be provided for at least 2000 persons, and extend to all parts of the house—dress circles, stalls, pit, and gallery; and, apart from this, separate promenades for each section of the audience will be constructed. Indeed, everything is being done to insure comfort to visitors, and also to guard against possible danger to the performers. The diameter of the arena is forty-two feet. This is larger than that of most arenas that have been marked out here; and an upholstered balustrade will extend right round the circle. The orchestra will be placed in the middle of the building, near the arena, in order that the strains of the music may extend in every direction; and Mr. C. Sweetman will officiate as conductor. Mr. John Hinton, the contractor, and a large staff of workmen are engaged in completing the upholstering and other details under the direction of Mr. Thomas King, the managing agent, and it is anticipated that everything will be snug by the time of the opening. We shall speak of the performances hereafter. The company, it is said, is an English one, whose faces are new to Sydney audiences; and it is said with much confidence, that the members are exceedingly clever, and will rely only on their merits for success. Some of them have brought extremely commendatory credentials with them. Mr. Benhamo is an English Iusory clown, who for some time was engaged in Sanger's Circus, in London; and Mr. Hayes has an excellent reputation as an equestrian. The Hayes family of juvenile acrobats, Madame Catherine, and the Duvalis, Brothers, aerial performers, are amongst the company, besides a host of other artists of favourable equestrian or acrobatic repute. Thirty horses, including a racing steed named Hillsborough, are ready for action; and these, with the lady and gentlemen performers, and the lustrous dresses which are being prepared, no doubt will present scenes as pleasing to the senses as they are attractive to the eye.

BACHELORS' BALL, PARRAMATTA.

The ball given annually by a few of the bachelors of Parramatta took place last night at the Parramatta School of Arts, and whether it was that the promoters were more eligible or more persuasive than usual, it was attended by an unusually large number of the fair sex. Before 11 o'clock quite 120 ladies and gentlemen were present, and the room could not have held very many more dancers. Wreaths and clusters of evergreens formed the decorations, and refreshments, which were provided on a recherché and liberal scale, were laid upon the stage. The band was Mr. Ingham's. The Sydney contingent of the guests was very large, and the 8 o'clock train conveyed no less than thirty young people to Parramatta. The gentlemen of the committee, Messrs. Eury, Hack, Dennis, and Sparks (hon. secretary) exerted themselves so successfully that, at an early hour after dancing commenced, most of the revellers knew each other, and the proceedings were thus marked by a pleasant cordiality and absence of reserve between those taking part in them. Among the guests were Mr. T. Smith, M.L.A., and Mrs. Smith. Dancing was commenced at 9 o'clock, and maintained until dawn, when most of the Sydney visitors had to return by the early train.

STOCK, STATION, AND PRODUCE REPORTS.

Harrison, Jones, and Devlin.—Stations: Again a dull week, with but little inquiry, and no sales to report; the tightness of the money market still acts prejudicially against sale of pastoral properties. Fat Cattle: 1723 yarded for the week. The opening sales of Monday showed signs of improvement, and should the lots now en route be placed judiciously on the market better prices will rule, more especially for good quality. Prime pens to-day made fully 18s per 100 lbs.; whilst medium and middling remain at last week's quotations. On Thursday prices remained firm at Monday's quotations for prime, whilst medium lots were much easier, say 18s for prime, 14s for medium, and 10s for middling. Fat Sheep: 8588 penned for the week, with the addition of large numbers coastwise purchased by the carcase butchers, outside quality of which were prime. Prices for prime may be quoted fully 1s per head better, whilst medium and middling remained at last week's quotations. We quote 60-lbs., 12s; 50 lbs., 9s; 44 lbs., 8s 6d to 8s 9d. We sold 468 ewes (P. H. Osborne) at 8s 7d, 75 wethers (rail) at 11s 6d, 400 (C. Massie) at 14s, 400 (L. J. Dargan) at 10s to 10s 1d, 401 (W. Jobson) to 8s 11d, 32 lambs (rail) to 7s 6d, 72 (rail) to 7s 6d, 224 (Clift, Brothers) to 7s 9d, 120 (ditto) at 7s 9d, 1510 wethers (J. L. and W. F. Browne) from 9s 10d to 10s 6d, 246 (rail) at 7s 6d to 8s 1d. Store Cattle: Nothing fresh to report under this heading. Store Sheep: We notice an increased inquiry for store wethers, but the approaching shearing prevents many lots from changing ownership.—July 24.

Maiden, Hill, and Clark.—Fat Cattle: Only 579 head were penned for Monday's sales, chiefly fair to good descriptions, and owing to the small supply on this and the two previous sale days, sales opened very brisk, and an advance of fully 10s per head was established, which was maintained throughout the day, best yards making up to 17s per 100 lbs. On Thursday there was a heavy supply, 1130 head being yarded, the greater portion of which were good useful quality, with a few prime, and others wasted and cut up. Owing to the wet there was only a fair attendance of buyers, and sales opened very dull, and continued dragging throughout, especially for medium descriptions, which were hard to quit. Monday's rates were not maintained, and the market closed easier. Best quality made 16s per 100 lbs., second 15s to 15s, and others from 10s. We sold 98 light bullocks for Messrs. C. and J. Young and Co., by road from Caldmurra, at £4 1[illegible], and 27 cows, a good deal wasted, at £2 10s 3d. Fat Sheep: 8686 only passed the yards this week, but the trade are having supplies direct, making it all a fair number for the week. Those penned were chiefly useful to good descriptions, and prices throughout continued firm at late rates, best merino wethers making 10s 6d to 11s; crossbreds, 11s; second quality, 8s to 9s; others from 7s 6d. We sold 1800 wethers for Mr. James Ashcroft, Cannonbar, by road, at 8s.—July 24.

P. N. Trebeck.—Stations: Several negotiations are pending, but buyers are expecting larger concessions than vendors are inclined to make. Just before shearing and lambing sheep-stations or mixed runs, suitable for sheep, appear to be most in demand. Store Cattle: No important transactions are reported this week; but as vendors are now willing to accept lower rates, we look to more business being done. Well-bred bullocks, 3 to 6 years, are worth on breeder's stations 50s to 55s; delivered on Liverpool Plains, 55s to 60s per head. There is only a limited demand for mixed sexes. Store Sheep: I have inquiries for wethers in fleece, at 7s 6d to 7s 9d per head, but vendors are now indifferent about selling until after the fleece is secured. I have placed some choice maiden ewes under offer. Fat Cattle: About 1700 were yarded. The market opened with fair competition on Monday for the good quality yards, which brought from 16s to 17s per 100 lbs; medium lots averaged from 11s to 12s 6d per 100 lbs., but the supply on Thursday having been in excess of requirements, prices gave way about 10s per head. Fat Sheep: The supply this week was 8000. There is no difference in price this week. The best pens maintain their value well and are worth up to 11s per head, medium from 8s to 9s per head. Some crossbreds realized from 12s to 14s per head.—July 25.

Sullivan and Simpson.—Stations: We have had a few inquiries for these properties during the week, but those that are disposed to purchase expect a reduction upon rates lately ruling. We have, in conjunction with another agent, placed a sheep property under offer, which we think will lead to a sale. Fat Cattle: On Monday, only 570 were forward, a much less number than were advertised, consequently prices improved to the extent of 10s per head, compared with last week's rates, on all prime pens. On Thursday, about 1200 were forward, the condition of the majority being very good, however. This number was considerably in excess of requirements, and the market opened dull, and a dragging sale from end to end was the result, and prices may be stated at 10s per head lower than on Monday. We quote best picked pens of bullocks worth 16s per 100 lbs.; fair to good, 14s; low-condition cattle down to less than store rates outside. We have this week sold 128 bullocks on account of Messrs. Clark, Brothers, at an average of £5 17s 4d, the best pen of 8 realizing £6 17s per head. Fat Sheep: A fair supply forward this week, quite up to trade requirements, taking into consideration that the wholesale buyers had a good many arrive that they had bought outside privately. We quote best cross-bred wethers worth 14s; best merino wethers, say 56-lbs., 11s. 5d, 10s 6d by the flock; little extra, say 6d per head, for a few small lots of 25 to country buyers. We have this week sold 2512 wethers on account of Mr. John Reid, from his Tabratong station, a few at 11s 1d, the whole flock averaging 10s 8d all round.—July 25.

Bruneer and Wolfe.—Stations and Estates: During the past week we have received applications for several of the properties in our hands, and succeeded in placing a small sheep property definitely under offer, subject to approval. The party is now inspecting. Fat Cattle: About 1800 head yarded this week. The supply forward on Monday was smaller than for some time. Sales were brisk, and prices closed firm at 17s per 100 lbs. On Thursday there was a heavy supply. Sales were dull at values considerably under Monday's quotations. Middling lots brought low prices. The following are the averages of the sales:—Monday: 206 bullocks (Britton's) at £4 19s 11d; 163 (Viver's), prime and weighty, £6 16s 2d; 160 (Buchanan's), £4 11s 9d; 50 bullocks (Ryan's), £4 11s 10d. Thursday: 25 bullocks (Hillas'), £4 12s 4d; 153 (Bagot's), £3 10s; 196 (Young's), £4 5s 6d; 120 cows (Osborne's), £2 17s 2d; 184 bullocks (Everett's), £5 11s 1d; 128 (Clarke, Brothers'), £5 17s 4d; 171 (Smith's), £3 14s 9d; 54 (Pulsford's), £4 12s 10d; 96 (Chisholm's), £4 14s 10d; 50 cows (Donkin's), £3 4s 4d. About 80 head turned out unsold. Fat Sheep: 8196 penned; prime wethers are scarce and prices are decidedly better. We have sold 300 wethers (Bowman's) at 12s, and 151 ditto (Cole's) at 11s 6d. The following is the result of the auction sales at Homebush for the week:—Monday: 400 wethers (Massey's) prime at [illegible], 90 (Dargan's), 10s to 10s 1d; 40 (Jobson's) at 9s; [illegible] (Ronald and May's), 8s 7d to 8s 9d. Thursday: 1394 wethers (Brown's) at 10d to 10s 2d; 182, 8s 5d to 9s; 1112 (Osborne's), ewes sold at 7s 6d to 8s 1d; 2000 (Reid's) prime 10s 7d to 11s 1d. Calves: Prime vealers are scarce and dear. Large and inferior calves are plentiful and dull of sale. We sold 38 per rail from Marulan [illegible] 3s to 16s, and quote prime worth to 30s a head. Fat Lambs: These are coming forward more plentifully. We sold 100 from Liverpool Plains at 7s 3d to 7s 9d, 42 at 7s 9d, and 20 from the Hunter at 9s to 10s. Store Stock: We have no sales to report under this head and have had few inquiries.—July 24.

Maiden, Hill, and Clark.—Wool: The various parcels brought forward this week were of an unimportant character, notwithstanding which, competition was extremely brisk, and nearly every line offered changed hands at very satisfactory prices; good greasy being especially in demand. At our sale the prices realised were—Greasy, 6d to 8½d; scoured, 10d to 16d per lb. Sheepskins: The supply this week was rather short, and good lines, free from seed and burr, brought full rates, while those so affected were not much in request. We cleared every line on our catalogues at—for full-woolled and free, 5½d to 6½d; medium growth, 4½d to 5½d; pelts, 3d to 3½d per lb. Leather: Market continues very much depressed for nearly every description, the only exception being for really prime lines of tweed, which sold well. We cleared a fair catalogue at—for sole, 6½d to 8½d; kip, 11d to 15½d; calf, 18d to 23d; tweed, 16d to 20d; yearling, 18d to 23½d; harness, 8½d to 10½d; kangaroo, 24d to 36d per lb; bag, 8s 6d to 12s 6d; bridle, 9s to 10; collar, 8s 6d to 9s 6d per side; basils, 4s to 11s 6d per dozen. Tallow: The trade were the only purchasers to-day, shippers holding off for lower prices caused most of the catalogues to be passed in. Quotations—Beef, £18 to £24; mixed, £15 to £17; mutton, £25 to £26 per ton. Hides: Market was well supplied this week; competition was good, and prices realized about the same as last week; light hides were, if anything, a little easier. Calf and yearlings also easier. Horse hides in moderate demand for good quality. We cleared our catalogue. For extreme heavies, 3½d to 3½d; heavies, 3d to 3½d; medium weights, 2½d to 3d; light and dry, 2½d to 3½d per lb. Horse hides 3s to 7s 6d; calf, 9d to 2s; yearlings, 2s 6d to 4s 6d each; kangaroo, 6s to 34s per dozen. Horns and Bones: No demand for these, shippers not seeming to care to operate at any price—nearly all offered were held over. Quotations—Horns, 10s to 24s per 100; bones, £4 to £9 per ton. Beeswax: Market very depressed. Present price, 9d to 11d per lb.—July 25.

F. L. Barker.—Wool: The lots forward at this week's sales consisted for the most part of odd lots of greasy and scoured parcels; for the former there was fair competition, and one lot brought 9½d per lb.; from thence to 5d for inferior lots may be taken as quotations. For scoured the competition was limited, and most lots were passed in, bids not equalling reserves. I would quote prices 13d to 15d per lb.; washed fleece, 14d to 17d per lb. Sheepskins continue their firmness, and prices to-day were on the whole harder than last sales. This demand, as anticipated, will continue until the commencement of the coming season. Nearly every lot to-day was cleared as follows:—For best skins, 6½d to 7d per lb.; medium, 5½d to 6½d; short, 3½d to 5d; pelts, 2d to 3d per lb. Leather: The sales this week passed off very quietly, and prices compared with late rates are if anything weaker. A dulness is generally noticeable at this time of the year, but this year it is more than usually quiet. Kip, good lots are selling from 12 to 14d per lb. Sole, light is in fair demand from 7½d to 7¾d; heavy, 8½d to 9d per lb.; calf, 22d to 24d per lb.; cow tweed, 16d to 18d; yearling ditto, 18d to 21d; harness, 9d to 12d per lb.; bridle, 8s 6d to 10s 6d; bag, 10s 6d to 12s per side; collar, 7s to 8s per side; basils, 5s 9d to 11s per dozen. Hides: The top price for best heavies last sales was again 3½d per lb., and buyers were not very eager even at that figure, and many good lots were neglected. Light hides well-conditioned were purchased by local tanners and realized 3d to 3½d per lb.; inferior lots, 2d to 2½d per lb., and while leather is so cheap prices are likely to advance. Tallow has again drooped, and shippers are now only offering 25s for best beef. This is accountable to the late rise in freight to London; medium and inferior lots purchased by the trade continue to rule easy, and I would quote 19s to 24s as the ruling rates. Horns and bones are not at present in request, and it is difficult to give reliable quotations; as, should shippers come into the market, they will be dear, on account of the small supplies forward. Hair is in request, and according to condition and quality prices rule as follows:—Cow stumps, 5½d; washed tail, 9d to 10d; horse mane, 11d to 12d; tail, 13d to 15d per lb. Kangaroo-skins rule high if large, and bring from 20s to 30s per dozen. Horsehides are also scarce, and from 5s to 7s 6d each is their present price. Tin Ore: 10s 6d per unit is top and present quotation. Oils: Black, £29 per ton; neatsfoot, 4s per gallon. Bark: Colonial, £3 10s to £4 10s; Hobart Town, £6 10s per ton.—July 23.

Harrison, Jones, and Devlin.—Wool: Very little wool is now offering. Only 393 bales have been catalogued by all the auctioneers this week, and 152 bales were sold under the hammer. With the exception of a few small parcels of skin wool, the catalogues comprised odd lots of greasy wool pieces and locks. Prices obtained for what sold show a good result for producers, the scarcity of wool causing a keen competition. Only a few bales of medium fleece being sold, realizing from 12d to 13½d; greasy, in small lots, 6d to 9½d; scoured, only medium and low class lots, 10½d to 16d. Sheepskins: There was a good number offered, and all were briskly competed for at prices fully up to, if not rather better, than those of last sale, viz., a fortnight ago. We cleared our catalogue of 40 lots at 5d to 7d for best descriptions, and 2½d to 4½d for short wool and mixed lots. Tallow: 564 casks offered, 138 casks sold. There were not many buyers for shipping parcels, consequently but few lots were sold. Trade parcels were not in much demand. Quotations: Best mutton, £26 10s to £27 10s; beef, £24 10s to £25; mixed and station, £18 to £22. Hides: 5646 offered, 3031 sold. There was a fair attendance of buyers, who operated pretty freely for export and local requirements, prices were about the same as last week, heavies being most largely sought for. Quotations: Extra heavy, 3¾d to 3½d; heavy, 3d to 3½d; medium, 2½d to 3d; light and middling, 2½d to 2½d. Leather: The demand this week was not equal to last sales, and it was with difficulty that any leather could be placed. Quotations: Sole, extra heavy, 10d to 14d; medium, 8d to 9d; light, 7d to 7½d; kip, best 13d to 16d; medium, 13d to 14½d; cow tweed, 19d to 24d; calf, 20d to 24d; harness, 12d to 13½d; medium, 8d to 10½d; bag, 8s to 12s; bridle, 8s to 12s. Tin: The quantity of ore to hand this week has been rather larger than usual. Prices are unaltered, and there is no difficulty in selling. For tin we have noticed more enquiry, and there are buyers in the market at fair values, as compared with London quotations. Grain: For wheat there is a better demand this week, and prices are hardening. The shipments from New Zealand are pretty well over. Oats are still dull of sale, and considerable quantities are being held over for a higher market. —July 24.

Mort and Co.—Wool: The catalogues this week were bare of attractive lots, and the few parcels offered consisted chiefly of scoured and greasy; for the former from 12d to 14d was realized for medium, whilst greasy sold up to 9½d per lb. Sheepskins: A large quantity were brought forward at auction, and most of the lines were cleared at from 6d to 7d for full-woolled; medium, 4½d to 5½d; and pelts, 2½d to 3½d per lb. Leather: At Tuesday's sales there was not much business done, and sole leather and harness is difficult to quit at anything like a remunerative price. Quotations: 6½d to 7½d for medium sole, best 7½d to 9d, harness 8½d to 10d, kip 11d to 13d, calf 18d to 24d, tweed 18d to 20d per lb., bag 9s to 12s per side, basils 5s to 10s per dozen. Hides: The catalogues were larger to-day than for some time past, and a considerable amount of heavies changed hands for shipment at 3½d per lb., the trade were well represented and there was keen competition for extra heaviest a few lots of which realized 3½d, medium weights were without alteration viz., 2½d to 3d per lb. We disposed of about 1500. Horse: Hides: The market is bare of all descriptions, but the scarcity has not caused an improvement in price, and quotations are unaltered, viz., for large sizes, 5s to 7s; small to medium, 3s to 4s 6d each. Tallow: There was a considerable amount of business done at the sales to-day for trade lots; the prices were without improvement. There were not many lots purchased for shipment, the difficulty of obtaining freight being no doubt the cause. Quotations—Mixed, 18s to 22s; beef, 24s to 26s; and mutton £26 10s to £27 per ton. Hair: There is not much demand for export and as the trade are buying sparingly, low prices have to be accepted. Quotations—Horse tail, 12d to 14d per lb.; mane, 7d to 9d; and mixed, 8d to 10d per lb. Kangaroo skins: The short supply has caused an improvement in prices, and one line in our catalogue of a superior description sold at 36s per dozen; medium, 18s to 30s; small and inferior, 9s to 15s per dozen. Horns: The fall in the London market has affected prices here, and large stags are only worth from [illegible] to 25s per 100, whilst medium and inferior are difficult of sale at from 10s to 18s. Shankbones: sound conditioned are worth from £7 to £10 per ton, whilst inferior are almost unsaleable. Black Oil £28 10s to £29 per ton. Beeswax 10d to 12d per lb.—July 25.

William Inglis.—Fat Cattle: The number forward this week was again very large, causing the market to be less firm, though there was no material depression in prices. Best beef is worth from 15s to 17s 6d per 100 lbs., second-class and inferior in proportion. Sheep: The supply was scarcely equal to requirements, and there was a slight increase in prices—best wethers going as high as 11s 3d, though inferior sold considerably lower. Milch Cows: The demand was very brisk to-day, but there were very few good ones in to supply it. I sold twenty-six only from £2 15s to £10 10s 6d. Calves: The number in was very large; good still sold very well, but owing to the large number of second-class calves in the latter sold lower. My sales were 20 (Cooper, Brothers), 22s to 45s; 10 Waterford, 12s 6d to 2[illegible]; and 146 others, mostly small, from 1s 6d to 22s 6d. Lambs: None to hand this week, good would have sold at high figures. Pigs: Supply very small, market firmer. Quotations—10s 6d to 58s. Horses: The demand is very brisk for good ones of all kinds, and higher prices are ruling than has been the case for some time past. I sold this week some small lots on account of Mr. Boydell, £8 15s to £18 10s; Mr. Christie, £7 15s; Mr. Senior, £3 10s to £12 10s; Mr. Black, £4 to £11 15s; and a few others from £2 5s to £18 10s.—July 24.

Wilkinson, Minchin and Lavender (Sydney, Wagga Wagga, and Hay) report:—Fat cattle: Of the number offered this week one-third were prime, others inferior to middling descriptions. Prices were, upon the whole, not so good as last week. Quotations: Prime heavy bullocks, extra good, £8 to £8 5s; good useful bullocks, £5 15s to £6 10s; medium bullocks, £4 5s to £4 11s 6d; inferior, £3 5s to £3 17s 6d; best cows, £4 10s to £5 10s; medium, £3 15s to £7 5s. Fat calves: Best calves, £1 5s. to £1 15s; medium, 18s to £1 2s; inferior, 12s 6d to 15s. A few really good vealers would sell well, as majority forward are of inferior description. Fat Sheep: 9600 penned for the week. Of this number about 8000 were good sheep both for mutton and wool. These made fully last week's prices. Quotations—Best merino wethers, 10s 6d to 11s; good useful wethers, 9s to 9s 6d; medium, 8s to 8s 6d; inferior wethers, 6s 6d to 7s 6d. It is useless sending poor sheep here. No graziers attend the sales, and more can be obtained for such as stores upon their own pastures, without the expense of the visit. Fat Lambs: Best crossbred lambs, 9s 6d to 10s 6d; best merinos, 8s to 8s 6d. Store Cattle: There is a fair demand for good bullocks of fattening ages, say 3 to 6 years old, which are worth about £3 delivered about Liverpool Plains. Owners ask about that price at their stockyards, and that is about the difference between buyers and sellers just now. We have sold a mob at Wagga at satisfactory price. Store Sheep: We could now place immediately 20 000 wethers in the wool at 7s 6d or more. There is also a good demand for wethers off the shears, and about 40 000 have been sold in Riverina this week at satisfactory figures. We have sold 2500 breeding ewes from the Billiswa Station to Messrs. Rudd, Brothers, and 80 Ercoun rams to the same purchasers for their Hewlong Station. Horses: We have this week sold 40 head useful horses for Mr. Thomas Robertson, and a smaller lot at Wagga Wagga by auction. Stations: The extreme tightness of the money market has almost paralyzed all operations. We have some choice properties worthy of attention, but will not offer them until the money market shows more vitality.—July 24.

HORSE MARKET.

George Kiss reports the demand for horses the past week good, without change in prices. At the Bazaar the following prices were obtained:—Mr. Silyard, draught horse, £22 5s; Mr. Knight, harness mare, £19 19s; Mr. J. Hall, two harness horses, £49 12s; Mr. Farley, a harness horse, £13 10s, and three draught mares £71. These were amongst the highest prices, and a number of light horses were disposed of from £5 to £10. At the Camperdown Yards I sold a mob of 28 very nice horses, for Mr. J. V. Cooper, ranging from £7 15s to £26 10s; average of lot, £15 19s 9d. Also, some small lots, from sundry persons, ranging from £2 10s to £10. —July 24.

TIMBER MARKET.

Messrs. John Taylor and Co. report as follows:—Since our last we have no improvement to report in the timber trade. The supply of foreign and colonial timber is in excess of the demand, and prices fluctuate a little. We may presume that, as the money market shows signs of becoming easier, the building trade will, in a short time, revive and assume its wonted briskness. The following are our quotations:—Wholesale: Cedar, in logs, from 12s to 20s per 100 superficial feet; Richmond River pine, logs, from 8s 6d to 10s per 100 superficial feet; hardwood, sawn, assorted, cargoes of good quality, from 9s to 11s per 100 superficial feet; hardwood logs, 7s 6d to 8s 6d per 100 superficial feet. Retail: Cedar, ½-inch 5d, ⅝-inch 5½d; 1-inch 6d per 100 superficial feet; colonial pine, ½-inch boards, 14s; ⅝-inch, 16s; 1-inch, 18s per 100 superficial feet; Maryborough pine, ½-inch, 19s; ⅝-inch, 21s; 1-inch, 23s; ½-inch T. and G. ditto, 20s; ⅝-inch, 22s per 100 superficial feet; Maryborough dressed shelving, 25s per 100 superficial feet; sugar pine equal to clear pine, 28s per 100 superficial feet; Oregon pine, 1½-inch, 2-inch, 3-inch, and 4-inch deals, 18s per 100 superficial feet; 6 x 1 and 6 x 1¼ T. and G. Oregon, 23s per 100 superficial feet; New Zealand kauri, from 22s to 28s per 100 22s to 28s per superficial feet; hardwood, 3 x 2, 8s; 4 x 2½, 12s; 5 x 2½, 15s; 6 x 2½, 16s 6d per 100 feet running; all superficial sizes, 16s per 100 feet; hardwood, T. and G., 8 x 1 and 6 x 1¼, 20s; colonial pine, T. and G., ½-inch, 17s; ⅝-inch, 19s; 1-inch, 21s per 100 superficial feet; hardwood palings, 5 feet, 17s; 6 feet, 19s per 100; posts and rails, 110s per 100 pieces; Hobart Town palings, 5 feet, 17s; 6 feet, 19s per 100.

SEEING THE "LIONS" IN JAPAN.

By J. Hingston.

I am bid not to leave Japan until I have seen its Sphinx and its inland sea. It being winter time, and Fusiyama therefore snow-covered, I must leave that grand mountain unvisited. Such result cuts both ways, in that I shall not have to seek a week's rest after the toilsome job of getting to its lofty summit. The Sphinx admits of no such excuse for leaving it unseen. It consists, I find, in a colossal figure of Buddha, seated alone and uncovered, in a desolate spot near Kamakura, twenty miles, or a little less, from Yokohama.

As all figures of Buddha are alike in attitude and expression, I am inclined to avoid the trouble so proposed, and to take it as having been seen, as documents are "taken as read" by consent in Law Courts. I am talked out of such intention, if I ever really entertained it, and show my real zeal in the matter by starting for the great sight on a snowy morning. I have sufficient interest in the subject to also persuade another Englishman to leave his fireside, and some lately received home papers, and to come with me. We charter two jinrikishaws, and insist upon two men to each, and a fifth one as "an emergency man." It is snowing, and we are not sure that we may not get into difficulties through that, and be snowed up before the day is ended.

The emergency man proves to be useful every half-hour of that cold run to Kamakura in brushing the snow out of our perambulators. That no time may be lost, he is put inside to do that business, while his half-frozen "fares" (that's us) run behind the vehicles for exercise and warmth. As I had not run about upon snow for a quarter of a century, the sensation was a great novelty. Practice was, however, required to the enjoyment of it, as also to the keeping of one's legs on the slippery ground. Snow travelling soon tired us. The road was for four-fifths of the journey over a country district but sparsely populated, and with little to notice beyond the necessity of keeping the rug closely about one, and taking a run, before our feet got frozen and chilblainy.

Everybody knows what the figure of Buddha is like, and can draw it in outline with a hot poker on any wainscot. The squatting attitude, the crossed legs, the hands folded on the lap, the calm features, and the contemplative look are what we all remember. The figure that I am to see has all those usual characteristics, and some others to boot. It is of silvery bronze of a valuable kind. It is fifty feet in height in its seated attitude. Its shoulders are thirty feet in breadth. Its interior is hollow—staircased throughout, so that I may ascend into the vast head and look down the nostrils, and do other similar foolish things, as most travellers do. It is simply, I am told, the greatest figure in metal work that the world has to show. In antiquity it is not equal to the colossal statues to be seen in Thebes and its neighbourhood, but they are of hewn stone, and this one is of moulded bronze. It is as mysterious how it came to its lonely situation here, as it is how the Egyptian Sphinx came to be situated as we see it on the sands on the Nile's bank.

It is not a deity nor the image of one that we are about to see. This figure of Buddha represents only the originator and teacher of the Buddhist faith. The Creator is held by that faith to be not of man's image and as altogether beyond man's imagination. The attitude of contemplation, so given to Buddha, is in allusion to his long, untiring efforts to think out, as he is said to have done, that religion, or system of metaphysics, called Buddhism. He did not claim it as a revelation, nor arrogate to himself any supernatural powers. As I am about to see his image in its grandest shape, I become the more interested in his story, as to which I inquire much while in Japan.

Buddha was the son of an Indian king who resigned his right to the throne to become the teacher of a faith that was to supplant Brahminism and its worship of idols. His name was Gautama. The word "Buddha," or "The Enlightened," was only applied to him after his death. He taught the immortality of the soul, two hundred years before the Christian era, when the Hebrew doctrines cannot be said to have done so. His teaching was that our souls, being immortal, must have existed from all time, and that we cannot therefore be the first holders of them. That necessitated the doctrine of transmigration, by which is worked out the system of rewards and punishments hereafter, in which Buddhists believe. The evil doer is he who may break the commandments of the Buddhist faith, that are not unlike those of the Jewish creed. As a punishment for so doing, his soul passes into the bodies of degraded animals, with a consciousness therein of its fallen state. It so continues, passing from one wretched form to another, for periods allotted to the crimes done by the owner of it when in human shape. The righteous Buddhist inherits bliss at his death, as his soul passes then from the body and is absorbed into the nature of the Deity—the creature becomes one with the Creator, and is for ever at rest, freed from the troubles of life in any shape,—and "life," said Gothe, "is a disease of the spirit."

Kamakura is a little village that we reach a mile or more before we shall arrive at the famous figure that brings all visitors to this corner of Japan. The tea-house and its fire-boxes especially are welcome sights. We have been five hours on the snowy roads, and are wolfishly hungry. All squeamishness about Japanese cookery disappears on this occasion, and our haste to eat quite bewilders the cook. Some of the chopped up meat that he is putting into the stewpan disappears from there before he turns it into the dish. My companion, who is of Scottish origin, says that "hunger is a fine kitchen!" It was an awkward thing to have in a kitchen, however, if much that was there was ever to go to table.

Our appetites satisfied, we were in a better frame of mind to see Da Butza, as the great statue is called. The refreshed little men in the shafts ran us to it in very short time after leaving the tea-house. The scene upon which we came to a halt was a very impressive one indeed. Here, surrounded by hills and tall trees, that help to dwarf its majestic size, we look upon the strange solitary figure seated Sphinx-like amid the wild scene. A temple may have covered the statue at one time, and what we see round about may have been the foundations. Steps of stone lead up to the pedestal of same material, upon which Da Butza (the Buddha of all the Buddhas) sits enthroned in the grandest majesty, and of awe-inspiring appearance. There is a veritable "presence" in this figure, such as Hood makes Eugene Aram describe as existing in the death-look of the man whom he had murdered,—

"And yet I feared him all the more
For lying there so still."

Every one has met with that which, at some time or another, has held their gaze and kept their attention, as did Coleridge's Ancient Mariner that wedding guest whom he made wait upon the telling of his story. There was that in this figure that held me similarly, though no sound came from its lips. It spoke to us plainly enough notwithstanding, and I thought that I could have taken down, then and there, what I understood it to say. It was full of meaning and utterance to those who had the mind's eye and ear, and to such is addressed its teachings—those sermons that Shakespeare tells us can be read even in stones.

The head of this noble figure is covered with metallic knots, the size of large apples, that yet, at their height, only represent curls. The placid, sweet expression of the countenance is very winning. The downcast eyes, and the contemplative, studious look, are those that bid one imitate it, and to think for ourselves, as Buddha did, if we have to answer for ourselves, to give reasons for the faith that is in us, and hold ourselves as accountable hereafter as reasonable beings acting while here from reasonable motives.

The bronze of which the Da Butza is composed is quite undecayed. It appears all untouched by time, and as lasting as the hills that shut it in all around. The figure really seemed as something to be worshipped by believers, and commanding from others an admiration near akin to worship. Its look of peace, silence, thought, and quietude were expressive of the highest hope of the Buddhist believer—the majesty of repose—a god-like rest. Mockery of such a figure is impossible. The artist, who might have been Vulcan himself, for the greatness of the work, has expressed that in this figure which commands respect and fills the mind with it. A great sight and a goodly one is this Da Butza of Kamakura.

The return journey through the snow was as well done as the run down in the morning, but Yokohama was not reached until two hours after dark. By that time the cold had considerably increased, and a lantern had to be hung upon both shafts, and then there was but little enough of light diffused. The fire and the supper at the hotel at Yokohama were very welcome things indeed. The journey had had many novelties—the mode of conveyance, the snow, the strange country, and the tea-house cooking at Kamakura had been of these. The object of the visit had, however, well repaid any trouble that might need balancing, and that I thought the more so when comparing in the mind the sight of this Japanese Sphinx with the Egyptian one—both equally mysterious in their positions, the one amidst desolation, the other in the desert, and both similarly impressive and thought-inspiring.

The tea-house cards and bills that are given to me ere I leave one Japanese city for another are undecipherable things, but that is only when they are in the native script. Others that are rendered in English I may keep as aids to memory, and the former ones only as curios. Three that I bring away with me will suffice to give an idea of all. The first is from Kioto, formerly the Mikado's secluded residence—

"Nakamaryas Palace House, Gion Temple, Nickenchaya. Kioto.
Breakfast .. .. yen 2 50 cents
Tiffin .. .. yen 1 50 cents."

The second is from the Japanese capital,—that is, Yeddo and Jeddo, now called Tokio in our spelling.

"Tokei, Japan, Saiyoken Hotel, Unemecho, No. 30 Ground.
Tiffin .. .. yen 0 75 cents
Dinner .. .. yen 1 25 cents
Bed .. .. .. yen 0 50 cents."

The third is from Osaca, the Japanese Venice, where accounts are kept in the dollars of Mexico, the coin expected from foreigners there.

"Jutei's House, Tominokoji, Shiyo Sagaro Cho, Osaca.
Board and lodging, 2 days .. 4 dollars 50 cents."

The Japanese have opposed the efforts of missionaries in their country, and killed a number of the Jesuit order that long years ago landed there. They have not been, however, free from religious dissensions. Even the keeping of one's country shut up from the world could not bring that happy result about! The Buddhist religion has been subject to the like aggression in Japan which it has suffered in Hindostan. In India, the prevalent faith of the multitude is called Hindooism, and is a return to the worship of visible gods—an idolatrous belief that resembles the older worship known as Brahminism.

In Japan, the Sintoo faith, or "the Religion of the Gods," supplies many and various visible forms of that deity, who, in the purer Buddhist belief, is unknown and invisible. Hindooism and Sintooism have little really in difference, and are systems of outward forms and ceremonies, and a belief in the existence of the deity in the various shapes seen in the temples. Altogether, a faith that appeals to the senses, and not to the intellect, and one in which the priests have greater power with the people. The Buddhists' faith has suffered much in the number of its adherents from such opposition. It was the Sintoo priests who, having the power so to do, offered for sale to the Americans, some few years ago, the great bronze figure of the Da Butza as old metal, at so much per pound. Threepence was fixed by them, and the price offered was fortunately a penny per pound less, and not accepted. The Du Butza will likely remain now where it is, for the admiration of all visitors to Japan. Such a piece of Vandalism as the sale of it could only have been thought of by the fierce hatred of religious opponents.

The grand temple of Asakusa, that was in Tokio, and one of the greatest sights of the city, was a Buddhist temple, and as such an eyesore to those of the Sintoo faith. On the Sintoos becoming the dominant church power, they thought to convert this temple to their own religion. Steps were taken for that purpose, of which the Buddhists had notice. As Japanese, the priests of Asakusa determined to perform the "hari kari," or happy dispatch, with their temple as with themselves. "Better death than dishonour," was and is the real motto of the Japanese. Virginius sacrificed his daughter, as Moore tells us the Minstrel Boy destroyed his harp, that they might neither fall into captivity. So the Buddhist priests of Asakusa burned down their splendid temple, and, as martyrs, suffered afterwards death for such doings. All honour to them for their actions!

It is a sad sight to see the ruins of Yeddo's finest temple, but there are sad sights everywhere. Another of such is what is pointed out to me as the place of sacrifice for unfaithful wives! With their plucked out eyebrows and blackened teeth, it seems to me that the wives of Japan have been sacrificed sufficiently already. Here, however, is a measured half mile, in which the doomed ones are compelled to walk up and down between an armed guard, until nature gives way. To aid to that result no food or drink is supplied to the victim. When the pricking of spears will no longer quicken the tottering steps, that fall soon follows which is the sad and the final of the poor piece of frailty thus left to die. A single man like myself can scarcely look at a sadder sight!

At Kobe, midway on the great central island of Nippo, I take passage in a steamer for a voyage down the Inland Sea. It will take me two days and nights of time, but I shall be never, I am told, out of sight of land for the whole distance. The journey will be something like that of a coast surveying party, and would have but one drawback to it. I should be going through the finest water scenery in the world in the depth of winter, instead of in pleasant spring, or genial summer time. There was this comfort about it that, seeing the scenery at its worst, I might imagine how it would appear at its best. It is well to have scope for imagination, the pictures and pleasures of which are so great.

In thus going down the Inland Sea, I am voyaging to Nagasaki, the port in Japan last reached by the homeward bound Australian—"Homeward," in such sense, meaning Australia bound. On the road our vessel is to call at Simonasaki, a port but newly opened to the foreigner, and midway on the journey. Only opened the beginning of that month, Simonasaki bids fair to be untrodden land indeed, and to show all the novelties of such. It was to be reached by us voyagers on the evening after leaving Kobe, and the 'tween decks was filled with parcels and packages for the new port.

The Inland Sea had but little chance of admiration for that day. All that could be seen of it was through port holes. It was what sailors term "dirty weather." A rough chopping sea spoilt everything, including the appetites of the passengers, and a coldness prevailed that the poor provision made in the way of cabin fires did but little to cure. When Simonasaki was reached, there was found to be no chance of landing there. It was visible enough on the low shore of an open roadstead, while we wanted to find a land-locked harbour. As no boats came in reply to our signals, our anchor was lifted, and we continued the voyage.

The weather got worse, and we went to our bunks, cold and sick of stomach, to seek warmth in blankets and solace in sleep. We found those desirable things for a few hours, and were then awakened by a more dread sound than was heard from him "who drew Priam's curtains in the dead of night." It was the scrunching noise of the vessel working holes in its planks on the sharp edges of the rocks that our vessel had ran upon! There was no need to be told what was the matter. Nature announces her doings in a common language that we all comprehend. In that way the rocks told their presence to us unmistakably, as similarly death will some day announce its coming in a way that we shall each for himself understand.

Never likely am I to forget the Inland Sea of Japan. It was pitchy dark and frightfully cold when, at 4 a.m., our vessel got fast on the rocks, pitching with every wave and rolling frightfully between whiles. Staggering attempts to dress in the darkness led to frequent falls. As comforts in one's trouble, friendly voices were heard now and again at the cabin door, telling one to prepare for the worst and to secure about one all that one wished to save with life when the coming struggle came for saving that!

Our pilot, it appeared, was to blame for this trouble. He had left his look out to another whose eyes had deceived him. The cargo that should have been landed at Simonasaki was now being thrown overboard to lighten the vessel. The cannon followed with a tremendous splash, and then all the sacks of coals. A dreadful apparition appeared now and again in the cabin in the shape of the carpenter coming to measure the depth of water we had shipped. He seemed to be but measuring us all for coffins! After the third time of coming he no longer announced his sad news to us. His silence had of course given to it the worst interpretation. All that I had heard of the Inland Sea and its charms now came mockingly back to memory. I should know very shortly more than enough of it. It was most likely to be one's grave. Its charms had proved but Syren-like, and so wooed us to destruction.

Strange are the traits of character that are developed in times of danger! One passenger, an Irish-American, desired to drown all trouble in whisky, and wished others to share with him in drinking the waters of oblivion. Another had a smaller recipe, and a more potent one, which was also, like the whisky, to be had from a bottle. He carried it for emergencies, he said, and to avoid a lingering death. The time had now come, apparently, for using it. Of the two bottles I might take my choice, for both owners were equally liberal in their offers to share their ideas of comfort with others. The bottle of the one was Irish whisky, of Bushmill's brew: the other, a blue one, was labelled "Scheeles Solution of Prussic Acid." Sir Robert Peel was always in favour of taking "one of three courses." The third course open to me was to trust to fate.

A boat was let down to row to the shore for assistance, and, it was hardly out of sight, with its four rowers and third officer as steersman, before our two hours' misery was over, and our vessel tore itself, with the help of the rising tide, clear from its tormentor. A new lease of life was given now to each of us, and our water-logged vessel had only to float slowly downwards to its destination, or make for the nearest shore on either side. The rocks we had ran upon were situate, as we now saw in broad daylight, in mid-channel. Had things come to the worst, there looked but little chance for landsmen making the distant shore in safety on either side in the freezingly cold water.

The weather cleared up as we dragged along to Nagasaki, and a gleam of sunshine favoured us in the afternoon. After our escape from death, everything looks pleasant indeed. In sickness, when life ceases to be pleasant and enjoyable, death loses all its terrors. I found that much twice in fevers in which all hope of recovery had been renounced by doctors. Here, however, where all of us were in good health, and amid the pleasantest scenery in the world, death had all the terrors of which it has got the name of king. The prussic acid is, however, put away for another occasion, but the whisky bottle had done its work. Its owner now lay full length on the cabin floor, more in danger just now of choking than of drowning.

This memorable Inland Sea of Japan, as now to be seen from the deck for the rest of the day, is of varying widths, but its one shore or the other is always in view, and the view obtained is always picturesque and pleasant. If hills bound the horizon, pleasant villages are to be seen nestling at their feet, from which the fisherman-villagers have put off those strange-looking boats that are to be seen all about. Islands have been passed all the way down from Kobe, well wooded and verdure clad, as to some of them, and rocky and precipitous, but always picturesque, as to others. A summer's month might be well spent in a yacht coasting down this prettiest of all seas, landing occasionally when and where the shore offered the attractions for so doing that it so often does.

Until I saw this inland sea, the pleasantest recollection of waters that I had was of Queen Charlotte's Sound, on the coast of the Southern Island of New Zealand. It is not until one gets there that it is understood why Captain Cook made for that haven so often on his several voyages and stayed there so long. The wonder to those who see it will be how he ever found the obscured entrance to it, and why, having discovered the delightful place, he ever left it. All the beauties of all the New Zealand sounds are, however, to be found in this inland sea, with those of the German Rhine added to its shores. Its position with regard to the Japanese islands is something like that which St. George's Channel occupies between the British Islands; but, save for position, all resemblance ends there.

It merits all that has been said of it, seen even as I saw it, in winter weather. To those who have travelled and noted what they have seen, I might suggest a representation of this picturesque waterway to be produced from memory in manner following. All the English lakes seen in Westmoreland and Cumberland, from Windermere to Ullswater, to be joined lengthways, and to their conjoint length to be added, in similar manner, the Scottish lochs—Lomond, Katrine, Achray, and Vanorachar. To those conjoined beauties additional ones are then to be given by uniting the three beautiful loughs of Ireland, as seen at Killarney. To such "linked sweetness long drawn out," let there be a further addition of the four lynns as seen, two on each side of Snowden, in Wales. To that long chain of waters, add Sydney harbour at one end, and the bay of Naples at the other, with that of Constantinople as a centre piece. To the mind's eye some idea may be formed by such a coalition of what beauty is presented to the eyes of everybody by the Inland Sea of Japan. There are those who will see more or less in it as they may happen to have more or less of the poet or the artist in their souls.

Nagasaki had an especial interest for us all, as being the first land trodden by any of us after passing through the "Valley of the Shadow of Death." Our captain's expression, "I never expected this morning to have landed any of you here to-day," told us of the greatness of the past danger. The many feet of water below, and the pumping all day had told us already a good deal of it, as also had the missing cargo (coal and cannon) that we had discharged to lighten the ship—a ship that now would have to go upon the slip for a month of repairs ere fit for sea again. Nagasaki has much of a shipping-port look about it, and less of the clean and well kept appearance that distinguishes the "foreign" settlements on the Japanese coast. Its pretty well-sheltered bay is surrounded on three sides by hills, all in a state of pleasant-looking cultivation.

To one end of Nagasaki, reached by a bridge, lies that island of Decima that the Dutch made for so long a trading settlement for themselves. It is now an over-crowded and very dirty place, with a Wapping and Rotherhithe appearance about it. It had this interest to the foreigners that it was the wedge that took two hundred years to drive home to the destruction of Japanese isolation. The Dutchmen had got the wedge to the edge of the coast but could get it no further; though a Dutchman's greed and aggressiveness would be supposed sufficient to take him onwards anywhere. He has the greed, but has lost the enterprise that distinguished this nation in its great days, when Holland and the Hollanders had to work for a living. Since they have, for nearly three hundred years, lived upon the enslavement of Java and its eighteen millions of natives, the Dutch have grown apathetic, and lost that respect and spirit which nations, like individuals, lose when they live and batten upon the work and wealth of others.

"The land of the rising sun" fades from view as I leave Nagasaki, but its memory is indelible. "Short writ the chapter, but the record fair" is what may be truly said of the little that I have written of it, compared with the much of it that is remembered; its varied scenery of mountain, lake and glen, hill and dale, woodland and plain; its rich foliage and fair flowers, its uplands, clothed with firs and pines; its waters, covered with strange shipping, fishing and other boats, that are novelties in a country in which everything seemed curious: its pleasant, temperate, and polite people, their simplicity of mind, primitive ways, artistic cleverness, and that taste that makes them something more than the French of the Eastern world.

In all travel taken in Japan variety is fully enjoyed, unaccompanied by any sense of danger. A word, "mati," brings the progress of the perambulator to a stop, and one may get out to notice more particularly any matter of interest, to make any purchase, or to exercise oneself by half-an-hour of walking. As the floor of the carriage is but a foot from the ground the danger of an upset is out of the question. The man between the shafts never seems to tire, and as he drinks only tea and water, he is not liable to any excitements. He never stumbles, kicks, shies, bolts, runs into other vehicles, or refuses to budge—never casts a shoe, nor wants whip, or further pay than what he agreed upon on starting. It is a style of travelling that is certainly not very manly, but then "travellers," as Touchstone observes in "As You Like It," "must be content!" There is a resemblance also about such a mode of conveyance to what Cowper describes as one of the recollections of his youth—

"And where the gardener, Robin, day by day,
Drew me to school along the public way,
Delighted with my bauble coach, and wrapped
In scarlet mantle, warm and velvet-capped."

It is pleasant also to travel in Japan, by reason of the good roads and numerous towns and villages. Tea-houses exist in all of them in which clean and wholesome looking rush-matted rooms await the traveller. Further mats are brought for one's seat and rugs for warmth if needful, and fire pans if necessary. Two rugs padded with cotton make the softest of beds, and two more the warmest of covering; another one folded up serves for a pillow. It is not the fashion of the country to have a bedroom to one's self, but even that luxury is accorded for an extra shilling or its equivalent. The Japanese are such pleasant smiling people that their company is desirable even in a bedroom, and after the first week in Japan one begins to conform to the customs of the country. A bath house is always at hand, supplied with warm and cold water. There is no boot cleaning certainly, but after the first day the traveller ceases to regard that matter, as we only notice it elsewhere and when we are not in the fashion of others.

Japan may not have been willing that its happy life—shut in from the world and its worldly trouble—should have been disturbed, and that it should have had to open its sea gates to the world at large. As that became necessary, the Japanese are trying as a nation to gain by it in those innovations that they hope may be improvements. As changes had to be made this hitherto Conservative nation have resolved on radical changes, and "to reform it altogether." Thus, in feminine language, the Japanese house has been "turned out of windows" rather than set in order. From oriental government and its absolute and feudal-like sway to the constitutional system of Europe is a change indeed, and made so quickly, as it has been, is like the transformation scene of a pantomime. Every visitor will wish a good ending to it all—will pat the lively Japanese on the back and wish to him and his pleasant country "good speak"—as I do.

BRASS BAND CONTEST.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I shall feel extremely obliged to you if you will allow me a space in your journal to protest against the decision of the judges in the so-called contest.

On the 30th of June I received a letter from Mr. A. Kop intimating that an amateur brass band contest would take place on the 21st July, and requesting me to enter my band for it; also stating that the object of the contest was to find out the best organization for an international contest. I accepted the offer, and entered the band for it. I also went to Mr. Bullard's and purchased a selection for the occasion, and gave it to the band for the contest, the members of which went heartily into practice, as they had only four evenings for practice, between my receiving the letter and the evening of the contest, and as the selection had twelve different movements in it, I thought it was a very fair piece to judge a band by. Well, Sir, on the eventful evening, The Metropolitan Band played as No. 2 on the programme, and I say without fear of contradiction by persons that were in the Hall, on Monday evening, and competent to judge, that the band played with precision, and the instruments thoroughly in tune, and the solos played by cornet and euphonium were played as near the mark as any amateurs in Sydney could play them. I also introduced P. Giorza's Australian Anthem, as a piece suitable for the occasion.

After the band finished their performance, they were received by the audience from all parts of the Hall with the greatest applause of the evening, having to bow my acknowledgements three times, and I noticed in the hall musicians from every band in the city. I was also met during the evening and congratulated on the victory we had achieved, but as the old saying goes, "the winner is not known till the numbers are up," proved to be too true in this case.

I think in a case of this kind there should be an impartial judgment given, and I have no hesitation in stating in this instance it was not so, as corroborated by members of the following bands. The winners of 1st and 2nd prizes, the Naval Brigade, Albion, Prince of Wales, and Royal Victorian, and members of the German Band and Permanent Force Band. Therefore when members from all these bands go against the decision I have a right as conductor of the injured band to inquire why the Metropolitan Band was placed in such an ignominious position as nowhere?

As I intend, after what occurred the other evening, to give the Press and public an opportunity of judging on the merits of the band, when I intend performing Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," Verdi's overture "Nabucodonozor," and Basquit's potpourri "The Waits," introducing P. Giorza's "Australian Anthem," we shall then see whether the members of the Metropolitan Band deserved to be insulted as they were the evening of the contest. I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

GEORGE VINCENT, Bandmaster Metropolitan Band.
16, Park-street.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Permit me to set Mr. Smith, of the Imperials right in the question at issue. Being one of the promoter of the late contest, I am in a position to speak advisedly on the subject, as I drew up the conditions of the contest, which was simply this: "This being a contest for amateur talent only, any professional playing with the bands (other than the conductor) would count ten points against said band." Surely there is nothing in this restricting the bandmaster from leading, and as no band could appear at its best without its customary head, we did not think it necessary to explain what the most ordinary intelligence would have seen at a glance. The Metropolitans have quite as much cause for complaint, if not more, than the Imperials, as they have one of the most capable leaders in the colony; he also mistook the meaning of the statement and abstained from playing, which to them was more a misfortune than a fault. The Globe Band had no score, and were consequently out of the race.

I make these statements to let you and the public know the facts of the case. The gentlemen who rendered what must be called the most impartial verdict could not see the bands perform; they could only see the score and hear the rendering of the music; and, after giving credit marks to the younger organizations, so as to place all on the same platform of time for practice, they gave a decision which to all justminded men was strict equity to the competitors and honourable to themselves.

By giving space in your valuable journal to the above, you will confer a favour on, Yours AMATEUR.

AIDA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As many of our theatre frequenters who have lately witnessed the magnificent performance of Verdi's last production, the opera "Aida," by Lyster's Company, seem to have gone away with the wrong impression that it is one of the most unmelodious of all his numerous works, I shall be extremely obliged if you can spare a little space in your valuable journal to allow me to dispel this erroneous idea.

The musical portion of this opera is totally different in style and construction from that which has hitherto been this author's mode of procedure in satisfying the musical cravings of a mixed audience, and that were the name of Verdi not designated as the composer, it could easily have been accepted as the work of some aspiring genius.

There is not a single musical phrase wherein any signs of plagiarism can be traced. Every note, from the prelude of the first act till the end of the opera, breathes the outpouring of an artistic inspiration. Melody after melody follow in rapid succession, and in profuse number; or, to use a Continental expression, "in endless melody." There are no hackneyed passages, nor anything that could serve well for dance manufactures, without mutilating the airs to such an extent as would render it difficult to trace any resemblance to the original. However, the following brief remarks will I hope suffice to those who have heard as well as those who are about to enjoy this musical treat, viz.—"To look upon the singers as the dramatists, and the orchestra as adding to the emotional colouring of the drama, that which is beyond the vocalists' power;" or, in other words, where a composer finds that the dramatic action would suffer were he to allow the singer always to continue in cantabile passages, gives the theme (melody) to the orchestra, while actor and actress recite the words in a musical declamatory tone. This naturally increases the effect, and the interest of the hearers is heightened for the plot, that otherwise would be entirely lost. One of the best examples I should recommend for the above is to be heard in the scene of Aida alone, in the third act.

To appreciate this work it should be heard several times when the hardness (or novelty as it may be) of the composition has entirely worn off, in it there will be traced innumerable beauties and melodies; none of which could be called common-place, but of a noble sentiment which I regret to say Verdi has (his grand Requiem excepted) till latterly been so sparing with. Yours, truly,

5, Hunter-street, July 23. SYDNEY MOSS.

Dispute between Japan and China in reference to the Loochoo Islands.—The Nichi Nichi Shimbun hears that when the final measures were taken by our Government with regard to the Loochoo islands, the Chinese Minister, Mr. Ho-ü-Chang, called upon our Minister of Foreign Affairs, and said, "I do not understand your present action; Loochoo has always been a dependency of both China and Japan, and remained in that condition for centuries. I can see no reason why you should abolish the han and incorporate the islands into your territory. By so doing, you have not acted as a friendly neighbour; and if you persist in your course, although I am without instructions from the Government at Peking, I know what my duties as Minister demand from me. The rules of good neighbourship do not permit the strong to oppress the weak, or the small to fall a prey to the big. You have probably heard that a dispute has arisen between our country and Russia with regard to Ili, and how we have claimed possession of it and the Russians have surrendered the place and its people to us. Now, if you insist upon incorporating the Loochoos, you are setting justice aside to satisfy your rapacity, and this our Yamên will certainly not stand. On your answer it now depends whether the innocent people of both countries shall suffer untold miseries, and I entreat of you to leave Loochoo, as before, a dependency on both countries, and thus preserve peace between Japan and China." Our Government has, however, rejected the proposals of the Chinese Minister, and made up its mind to appeal to the force of arms, if the Chinese Government should insist upon his views.

SOME BRITISH MEDALS.

The Art Gallery of New South Wales is enriched by a collection of British medals, struck at the Royal Mint, and bearing the date of some year in the present century. The numismatist will soon run through the list; but to every thinking man and woman these little silver badges will speak eloquently of deeds of bravery as heroic as any of those enshrined imperishably in ancient story; while to many a closer interest will be bound up with some particular medal by the memory of a gallant man who risked and perchance lost his life to gain the distinction. As works of art, too, many of them are very fine, and they are not without value to the young student of English history. This collection, which will be arranged for inspection this evening at the conversazione, has been presented to the Art Gallery by Mr. James R. Fairfax, who, by the assistance of Mr. James Spicer, J.P., of London, obtained permission to have the medals struck at the Royal Mint.

The medals may be divided into two classes, those of war and those of peace. "Peace hath her victories, as well as war," but while the warrior goes forth to take life, the soldier of peace exerts himself to preserve it. During the present century his efforts have been acknowledged by one society after another, and now some of these peace medals surpass in beauty of design and clearness of execution even those struck at the close of a military campaign. Especially is this marked in the case of the Board of Trade badges. A silver medal, about twice as heavy as a crown piece, bears upon its reverse side the legend "For gallantry in saving life at sea," while the obverse, or head side, displays a singularly artistic design. Crouching on a fragment of wreck or of rock, over which angry waves dash, a mother sits suckling her child, the appearance of both indicating a recent wreck. Near them a half-clad sailor bends over a fainting comrade, while a third signals with a fragment of linen to an approaching lifeboat. The swell and fury of the waves; the nervous energy of the signalling figure; the listless weariness of the woman; and the anxiety of the man who bends over his friend are very faithfully depicted, while the medallion is not only well designed but sharply cut. A similar medal, but of bronze, is awarded "For saving life at sea." Then we have a foreign office medal, about which there is little remarkable. Its obverse shows the Queen's head, and the reverse, "Victoria Regina, cudi Jussit, 1841." Four smaller medals also hail from the Foreign Office, and their reverse sides show the respective legends:—"Presented by the British Government for saving the lives of British subjects;" "Presented, &c., for assisting a British vessel in distress;" "Presented, &c., for gallantry and humanity;" and "Presented, &c., for saving the life of a British subject." Then we come to three coronation medals, the first being that of George IV. Its obverse bears a medallion portrait of the monarch, and the reverse shows him seated while England, Ireland, and Scotland swear fealty to him. Round the rim are the words, "Proprio jam jure animo paterno," and in the exergue, "Inauguratus die Julii xix., anno MDCCCXXI." The coronation medal of William IV. is much simpler, the obverse showing the portrait of William and the date, September 8, 1831, and the reverse that of Adelaide Queen consort. The medal of Queen Victoria is more beautiful. The obverse has, as usual, the Royal portrait, but the portrait is not the one generally known, for it shows the Queen in the bloom of her youth. In the reverse her Majesty is seen seated, and holding the sceptre and ball, while the three kingdoms offer her the crown. Above is the legend "Erimus tibi nobile regnum," and in the exergue "Inaugurata die Junii, XXVIII., 1838." To those curious as to ancient usages, the Maundy money of George IV., William IV., and Victoria will be interesting. Each set is composed of a silver fourpenny piece, a threepenny piece, a twopenny piece, and a penny piece, the last-named being about the size and thickness of a ballet dancer's spangle. These are distributed in the Chapel Royal on Maundy Thursday (the day before Good Friday) to as many poor people of both sexes as the monarch has reigned years. Food, clothing, and a substantial donation other than Maundy money make up a Royal bounty that must be satisfactory to the recipients, who, by the way, are all people who, to use an expressive phrase, "have seen better days." Formerly, the ceremonial was a most imposing one, for the monarch, robed in penitential garb, used to wash the feet of these poor pensioners, but for the last century or so this little item of the day's proceedings has been dispensed with, and Royalty is even not always present when the distribution of the royal bounty is made. The Maundy money is a legal tender, and no one dare refuse to give for a two-penny piece two pennyworth of any wares he may have for sale. Almost every one has seen Maundy money, and those who have not can imagine it, for it is exactly like the present threepenny-bit in everything but size. The Arctic medals make one think of Franklin, Parry, Ross, Davis, and Scoresby, with a score of others who have attempted to reach the North or the South Pole, some of whom, alas, have perished in the attempt, while all have failed. The first is of octagonal shape, and connected by a star to the snowy ribbon from which it hangs. The obverse has the Queen's head and "Victoria Regina," while the reverse has an exquisitely clear design. You see an exploring ship laid up for the winter in an ice-pack between a couple of towering icebergs. She is dismantled and roofed in, and in the foreground two or three sledge-loads of sailors are preparing for an exploring or foraging trip. The inscription is, "For Arctic discoveries, 1818-1855." Then there is a second one, bearing date 1876. Here for the first time in this collection we meet with that portrait of the Queen, which shows her with the veil, symbolising widowhood. The reverse of this medal also shows an exploring vessel laid up in an ice-pack, and like the former is attached to a white ribbon. The number of those to whom Arctic medals have been awarded is not large, and that the heroic Sir John Franklin never received his, gives one a pang of regret. It is, however, pleasant to know that Lady Franklin—that lady who presented to the world the touching sight of a woman fitting out ship after ship in a hopeless search—has received them both, and that they are practical assurances of the womanly sympathy of the Queen with her. This closes the list of peace medals.

Badges of some sort will undoubtedly be given to victorious soldiers,

"Till the war-drum throbs no longer, and the battle-flags are furled,
In the Parliament of men, the federation of the world,"

and as that period is at present wrapped in the very vaguest of the mists of futurity, collections of war medals may, ere it arrive, have assumed gigantic proportions. In view of the fighting Great Britain has already done this century, and that which she has now upon her hands, no one will be deterred by his milennial visions from starting a collection, should his inclinations tend that way. Of the medals imported by Mr. Fairfax the large majority are war-trophies. Those given, and very tardily given, to commemorate the Peninsular War naturally attract attention if only for the number of the battle-clasps which adorn each ribbon. That given to the army has on its obverse the Royal effigy and "Victoria Regina," 1848; and on the reverse a classic group showing the Queen crowning with a laurel wreath a soldier, presumably the Duke of Wellington, while a lion couchant indicates the close of the war. Round the rim are the words "To the British Army," and in the exergue is the date, 1793-1814. The clasps on the crimson and blue ribbon bear names which recall episode after episode and exploit after exploit in this long and sanguinary struggle between the best generals of the two then most warlike nations of Europe. Vimiera; Corunna; immortalized by Moore in connection with the hurried burial of Sir John Moore; Talavera, whose fierce struggle cost the British nation 5000 lives, and made Sir Arthur Wellesley a Viscount; Barrosa, whose heights occupied by Marshal Victor with 8000 men, were carried in about an hour by General Graham, with about half that force; Fuentes D'Onor, where Wellington decimated the forces of the ferocious and brutal Massena; Cuidad Rodrigo, which was followed by the horrors of Badajoy; Salamanca, that gigantic duel between Wellington and Marmont, when 17,000 men fell on the French side alone, and the Tormes ran blood; Vittoria; Pyrenees; St. Sebastian, where the terrible Soult measured swords with Wellington and had to fly; Nivelle, Nive, Orthes, and last of all, Toulouse. On Easter Sunday, 1814, the terrible battle of Toulouse was fought, Soult was beaten, and on the Monday night he marched 21 miles on his retreat towards Carcassone. Some French writers have claimed Toulouse as one of their victories, but no one will wonder at this when it is remembered that they speak of "the retreat" of Waterloo. Six days before, Napoleon had abdicated; everything looked tranquil; Wellington was raised to a dukedom; and no one anticipated the final outburst of the volcano that had so quietly been transported to Elba. What names and reminiscences crowd upon every soldier and every student as he sees this medal! Then comes the naval medal of this war. It depends from a ribbon of white and navy blue; its obverse has the royal effigy and the date 1848, and the reverse shows Britannia riding and controlling a sea-horse. Though its clasps are not as numerous as those of its military fellow, they tell of as glorious victories—of engagements which firmly established the supremacy which guardian angels, according to Mr. Thomson conferred upon Great Britain at that problematical time when she rose like Venus Anadyomene, from the sea.

"Rule Britannia! Britannia rule the waves"

was the anthem chanted by Mr. Thomson's angels, and since the reign of Elizabeth, Britannia seems to have complied with the request very faithfully. The lowest clasp is dated 1st June, 1794, in which year, by the way, Nelson, then Captain Nelson, had the sight of his right eye destroyed at the seige of Calvi, and in which Lord Howe dealt such a trenchant blow at the French navy. Then comes the name of St. Vincent where Jervis commanded and "Commodore" Nelson in "The Captain," a 74, fought like a tiger. In boarding the San Nicholas, where he led the way, he used the remarkable rallying cry, "Westminster Abbey or Victory," showing that the child Horatio who "never saw fear," had developed into a man determined to leave behind him a deathless name. Another clasp tells of the battle of the Nile, which deprived the French army of Egypt of the means of returning to its own country, and which gave Nelson a barony. A clasp is given for "Egypt," and another inscribed "Copenhagen, 1801," reminds you of Nelson's turning his blind eye to Sir Hyde Parker's signals not to engage, and then by a decisive victory detaching Denmark from the northern league. The sight of the Trafalgar clasp rouses in you some of that ardent patriotism that ran like wildfire through the British fleet when from Nelson's flagship, the Victory, fluttered the signal "England expects every man to do his duty;" and as you look at the Algiers clasp, you think of the 1100 Christian slaves that blessed Lord Exmouth for his bombardment of this nest of kidnapping pirates. Syria and Navarino finish the number, though it must be matter for regret that there should have ever been a battle of Navarino. By destroying the Turkish and Egyptian fleets, France and England played for Russia her game of weakening the Porte, and no doubt precipitated recent troubles between the Powers. A fitting companion for these two mementoes is the Waterloo medal, of which there still survive a few wearers. The obverse has the effigy of the Prince Regent, and the reverse the figure of Victory holding palm and olive branches, and seated on a pedestal inscribed "Waterloo, June 18th, 1815." Overhead is the one word "Wellington." The ribbon is crimson with blue edges. Everyone knows the history of that "first and last of fields! king-making victory" to which Napoleon went gaily with the contemptuous expression "Enfin je vais me mesurer avec ce Vilainton," and from which exclaiming gloomily "Sauve qui peut" he fled a ruined and dethroned despot. What would have been his thoughts could he have forecast the fate of his grand-nephew, falling by the assegai of the Zulu, while fighting for England. The China medal is not remarkable for its beauty. The obverse has the usual royal effigy, while the reverse shows a stand of arms shaded by a palm-tree; the high-sounding legend "Armis exposcere pacem;" and the word "China" in the exergue. On the crimson yellow-bordered ribbon from which it hangs are the clasps China, 1842; Fatshan, 1857; Canton, 1857; Taku forts, 1860; and Pekin, 1860. This medal may be taken as commemorative of the opening up of China to European civilization, the tapping of a long pent-up reservoir of labour, the destruction of all barrier before a vast hive of human bees. Many people rejoiced at the work completed by Lord Elgin: few foresaw these latter-day developments of the result. Now there are plenty who would be glad enough to be able to drive back the torrent of Chinese emigration, and by the command "as you were" make China again what Corea is now, a sealed book to prying Western eyes. Perhaps the most beautiful of the war medals is that of the first Burmese war, whose obverse represents the sacred elephant crouching, lowering the peacock flag of Burmah, to the British Lion and the Union Jack; and whose reverse shows the entry into Rangoon. The palms and pagodas of the city are seen in the background, while troops are seen converging towards it, both by land and water. On the obverse, too, is a Burmese inscription, which may be interesting to those who know the language. Then there is a singularly neat medal for Baltic service in 1854 and 1855. The obverse has the usual effigy, and the reverse shows Britannia seated on a cube and looking seaward, where the fortresses of Sveaborg and Bomarsund are seen. The ribbon is yellow and blue. The South Africa medal of 1853 has the usual obverse, while the reverse shows the figure of a lion, though whether this is to be considered as South Africa or England does not appear. The ribbon is of orange watered silk, striped with blue. Medals will doubtless be struck at the close of the present South African war, and it will be interesting to see what the new design will be. The Crimean medal is very beautiful, and its classic simplicity will be admired by everyone, for no British war is better known to the present generation than this Titanic struggle. The obverse has the Royal effigy and the date 1854, while the reverse shows Victory crowning with the laurel wreath a young soldier. The ribbon is of blue, yellow bordered, and the clasps, which are miniature oak leaves in silver, bear the names of Alma, Balaclava, Inkerman, and Sebastopol, names which have been perpetuated in colonial topography, and which bring to many an English heart the memory of one "loved and lost" in the struggle in South Eastern Europe. Then we have a cluster of medals, which present a monotonous uniformity of appearance. One for meritorious service bears on its reverse an inscription to that effect, and on its obverse the Queen's head. It is suspended to a magenta ribbon. Distinguished conduct in the field is rewarded by an almost similar medal, and so is conspicuous gallantry. Military long service and good conduct are rewarded by a medal which on the reverse side has an inscription to that effect, and on its obverse a military trophy. The naval medal of the same kind has on its obverse, a ship encircled by a cable border, and is suspended by a blue and white ribbon. The naval engineer's good conduct medal has on the obverse a gunboat or torpedo launch over a trident head, and on the reverse the crown and anchor. The East India Co., "John Company" rewards its soldiers for long service and good conduct, and for meritorious conduct with medals inscribed to that effect on the reverse, and bearing on the obverse a stand of arms. A best shot medal is a very handsome production. The obverse has the Queen's portrait, that with the veil; and the reverse shows Fame crowning a young archer whose arrows are seen to have all struck the target in or near its centre. The ribbon of this badge is a very brilliant affair in crimson and black and white. The Abyssinia medal is unique in appearance. The obverse shows the Queen's portrait, which is, as it were, framed in nine vandykes or star-like points, which reach to the edge, and in the angles of which are set the letters of the word "Abyssinia." The reverse bears a laurel wreath, and the ribbon is crimson and white. The New Zealand medal, with its legend "vertutis honor," and its ribbon, of dark red with azure borders, must be familiar to most Australians; and that struck at the close of the Ashantee campaign must also be pretty widely known. Like the New Zealand one, it bears the royal portrait on the obverse, but its reverse has a very spirited representation of a bush engagement between British soldiers and negro warriors. The ribbon striped with yellow and black has but one clasp, and this is inscribed "Coomassie," a name as inseparably connected with Sir Garnet Wolseley's fame as Magdala is with that of Lord Napier. Our Indian wars and squabbles—for some of the more petty wars were nothing but squabbles—during the present century have been so numerous that it is not surprising that this collection includes a large number of India medals. The first is that of Khelat I Ghilzee, which has on its obverse the name, surrounded by a laurel wreath and surmounted by a mural crown, signifying that siege as well as battle formed a feature in the campaign. The reverse shows a military trophy and the word "invicta," and the ribbon is of pink and green. Then comes the Punjaub medal, a very handsome affair indeed,—that is so far as its reverse is concerned, for the obverse has merely the monotonous design of the Queen's head. The reverse has the inscription "To the army of the Punjaub, 1849," surrounding a representation of a British commander, presumably Lord Dalhousie, receiving the homage and the arms of the rebellious Sikh princes. It will be remembered that the result of this war was the annexation of the Punjaub to the British possessions. The ribbon, which is of blue, striped with yellow, has silver clasps, bearing the names of Goojerat, Mooltan, and Chilianwallah. The Jellallabad trophy commemorates General Sale's famous defence of that city until Pollock raised the siege on the 7th April, 1842. The obverse has the legend, "Victoria Vindex," and the reverse shows Victory, bearing the laurel wreath and the Union Jack, floating over the beleaguered city. The ribbon glows in all the colours of the rainbow. Then we come to a dozen small medals, each commemorating some famous engagement or achievement in the Punjaub campaign or in the Afghan struggle. There is one for the battle of Meeanee, where Sir Charles Napier with about 2000 men defeated between 30,000 or 40,000 Sikhs on February 17, 1843. There is another for the storming and subsequent battle of Hyderabad, the capital of Scinde; and a third for both engagements. Moodkee and Ferozeshuhur in 1845, and Sobraon and Aliwal in 1846 are each marked by a handsome medal, which on the reverse side shows Fame extending a laurel crown over a pile of Sikh weapons and armour. Above are the words "To the army of the Sutlej," and in the exergue is the name of the engagement for which each medal was given. The Afghan campaign, under Generals Pollock and Nott, in 1842, contributed three more medals—one for the recovery of Cabul, another for service at Candahar, Ghuznee, and Cabul; and the third for Ghuznee and Cabul; and the obverse instead of the usual legend "Victoria Regina" has the significant one "Victoria Vindex." The disaster of the previous year, when, of the 17,000 men who retreated from Cabul, 3000 fell in the Khoord Cabul Pass alone, when the British troops, enduring the most terrible sufferings from the dreadful cold of an Afghan winter, were at the same time harassed by the insurgent natives, when of the whole retreating army scarcely one escaped to tell of the greatest blow the British arms had ever sustained in India—needed heavy vengeance, and it was strictly taken. Then come a couple of Indian medals, the first being awarded for services between the years 1799 and 1826. The obverse has the Royal portrait, and the reverse shows the figure of Peace with the olive branch, and laurel crown, and with a military trophy behind her. The ribbon is light blue. From a gorgeous badge of dark blue and crimson depends the second medal, whose obverse resembles that of the first. The reverse shows a female figure, which may represent, either Victory, for she holds the laurel wreath, or the genius of India, as the lotos plant at her feet might typify, crowning a victorious warrior. The clasps have the names of Pegu, North-west frontier, Persia, Umbeyla, Bhootan, and Looshai. Last of all and commemorating one of the most awful episodes of modern warfare, is the Mutiny medal, suggestive of the names of Lawrence, of Havelock, and, to many a family alas, of some one near and dear to them, who fell during the great mutiny. Its reverse shows Britannia leading the lion, and holding forth a wreath of victory, and in the exergue is the date 1857-1858. The ribbon is crimson and white, and its five clasps are inscribed: "Delhi; Defence of Lucknow; Relief of Lucknow; Lucknow; and Central India,"—each of which might be, and indeed has been, the text of a volume.

National Library of Australia http://nla.gov.au/nla.news-page1429307

Such is the collection—one which may form the substantial nucleus of a larger and more complete one, whose glittering cases may delight alike the student, the artist, the numismatist, and the soldier.

DEPUTATION.

PUBLIC PARK FOR CANTERBURY.

A deputation consisting of Mr. J. H. Goodlet, Mr. D. Robertson, Mr. W. C. Renwick, Mr. T. A. Davis, and Mr. J. C. Sharp, with Mr. Lucas, M.L.A., who introduced them, waited on the Colonial Secretary yesterday, in order to recommend the granting of sufficient money for the purchase of land for a public park in the suburb of Canterbury.

Mr. Lucas said the residents and leading men of the borough of Canterbury had petitioned for the grant of a sum of money for a public park. This was a matter of great interest to the electorate. Good land in favourable sites could be obtained now at a reasonable price, but the land in that locality was being improved so rapidly that it would increase in value, and a much higher rate might have to be paid for it in a few years from the present. The deputation then would ask the Colonial Secretary and his colleagues to recommend a grant of £6960 for the purchase of land for a park in this locality. He thought 40 or 50 acres could be obtained for that sum, and various suitable pieces of land he believed were available. A park there would be a benefit not only to the people of Canterbury, but to to the citizens of Sydney [illegible] of occasional resort.

[illegible] expressed regret that Mr. Chisholm and Mr. [illegible] were unable to attend with the deputation, as they [illegible] have added force to the representations in favour of the grant.

Sir Henry Parkes asked Mr. Lucas if he could indicate any particular piece of land that would be suitable.

Mr. Lucas said there were several. There was one at the junction of the new and old Canterbury Roads, about 16 acres, with a lovely view, and fine picturesque scenery in the vicinity. Indeed the whole surroundings of Canterbury presented a succession of fine views. But the deputation thought it undesirable to confine themselves to the recommendation of any particular site, as it might increase in price. There were several vacant pieces of land varying from 17 to 50 acres, and if the grant were made it would be for the Government to select the best piece which could be had on the most reasonable terms. One piece that might be obtained was that which had been used as a racecourse for a considerable time. It was in a pleasant situation, bounded by Cook's River, where there might be baths, boat-houses, and fishing appliances.

Sir Henry Parkes said the only undertaking he could make was, that he would consider the representations made to him by the deputation, and would have the matter brought under the consideration of the Government on an early day with a view to some decision on it. In the meantime he would make some inquiry as to suitable land in such a way as might be deemed prudent.

Mr. Lucas reminded the Colonial Secretary of the exceedingly moderate sum the deputation asked to be granted for the park, and he thought that should afford one ground of recommendation to their request. He knew the present Government were anxious to provide recreation grounds for the people.

Sir Henry Parkes said he would have the whole matter considered, and would inform Mr. Lucas of the result of any inquiries.

The deputation withdrew, after thanking the Colonial Secretary for his courteous reception.

A NEW FREEZING AGENT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In an article in the May number of the Nineteenth Century, on "Recent Science," which, the editor states, has been read by Professor Huxley, who has assisted the compilation and given his advice upon it, mention is made of a recent discovery in which our graziers are deeply interested, and, as the grazing interest is the paramount one of Australia, all Australian colonists are interested.

It is there stated that modern chemistry, which nowhere shows to more advantage than in the utilization of waste products, has discovered that beetroot, after the production of sugar and molasses, which is distilled into spirit, left a residuum known as vinasse, formerly thrown away, but lately by chemical skill converted into potash. Nor does its utilization cease there, as M. Camille Vincent, of Paris, has lately extracted from it trimethylamine, which can be converted into chloride of methyl, which can be used as a dye advantageously, by its cheapness replacing a more expensive one. "But," the article continues, "the most interesting application of chloride of methyl which has yet been proposed is that of a refrigerating agent. By the rapid evaporation of the condensed liquid a very great reduction of temperature is produced, and as the liquid is neither poisonous nor corrosive, it promises to become of much importance. Indeed, M. Vincent has constructed a freezing machine in which, by the evaporation of the chloride of methyl, as low a temperature as —55° centigrade may be maintained—a temperature which is considerably below the freezing point of quicksilver. We have now, therefore, in our hands a new refrigerating agent, by means of which mercury may be frozen by the pound."

This discovery of an agent for freezing, cheap, and neither corrosive (on this point the Northam experiment is supposed to have broken down) nor poisonous, and which is described as transportable with ease and safety, can, I hope, be utilized in the shipment of frozen meat, which seems to be the most acceptable shape in which our surplus meat can be placed in the European market.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,
Richmond River, July 19. W. C. BUNDOCK.

LAW REPORT.

SUPREME COURT.—Friday, July 25.

(Before their Honors Mr. Justice Faucett and Sir William Manning.)

IN RE G. A. LLOYD. INSOLVENCY APPEAL; AND THE CROSS APPEAL OF THE ORIENTAL BANK.

The judgments in these appeals, reserved last term, were delivered. Each appeal was dismissed with costs, the effect being that the decision of his Honor the Chief Commissioner refusing Mr. Lloyd's certificate was upheld.

After the judgment had been delivered, Mr. Darley, Q.C. (on behalf of Mr. Lloyd), raised an objection that the Court had given a decision on the transactions of the insolvent with a Mr. Laby, which had not been relied upon as, or made, a ground of appeal.

The Court were of opinion that the whole of the insolvent's transactions with Laby had been gone into, but consented to withhold the publication of their reasons for one week. The insolvent to be at liberty, meanwhile, to take any steps with regard to his transactions with Laby as he might be advised.

Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction.

(Before his Honor Sir William Manning.)

CALLAGHAN AND WIFE V. MYERS.

The issues of fact in this suit were tried before his Honor Sir William Manning and a jury during four days of last March. By a majority the jury found the issues for the plaintiffs, and returned as their verdict that the will of the late Martin Hurley propounded by the plaintiffs was his last will, and that he was capable at the time of signing, and that the will had not been obtained by undue influence. A motion in chambers was now made for final sentence or decree, and for adjudication of costs.

Mr. Darley, Q.C., and Dr. R. M. Sly, instructed by Mr. R. H. M. Forster (agent for Mr. Simpson), appeared for the plaintiffs in support of the motion. Mr. Owen and Mr. Want, instructed by Mr. F. Curtiss (agent for Mr. Tribe), appeared for the defendant.

His Honor reserved his decision.

INSOLVENCY COURT.—Friday.

SEQUESTRATIONS.

Angus M'Millan, of Dubbo, painter. Causes of insolvency: Falling-off of business and pressure of judgment creditors. Liabilities, £96 5s. 4d. Assets, £5. Mr. Semphill, official assignee.

John Allenby, of New Lambton, miner. Causes of insolvency: Pressure of a creditor, want of regular employment, and affliction and death in family. Liabilities, £54 14s. 6d. Assets, nil. Mr. Sandeman, official assignee.

J. F. Boyd, of Sydney, tea merchant, on petition and affidavit. Causes of insolvency: Failure of a mercantile firm, loss by bad debts. Assets estimated at over £100. Statement to be filed by August 4. Mr. Lyons, official assignee.

F. Litchfield, of Lismore, baker. Causes of insolvency: Pressure of creditors and dulness of trade. Liabilities, £417 12s. 6d. Assets, £82 12s. Mr. Lyons, official assignee.

COMPULSORY SEQUESTRATION.

S. De Lissa, of Sydney, v. J. Bondsworth, of Gundagai. Date for showing cause, August 14. Mr. Sandeman, official assignee.

RUNAWAY MARRIAGES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Kindly allow me to say a few words in reference to the above subject. "Anti-Gretna Green" writes more in a way suitable to English than Australian towns. It is not more than four out of every dozen couples who marry that live in the same town or district from baptism to time of marriage. The law is stringent enough as regards the penalties for marrying minors, and clergymen point out the consequence to candidates. If people wish to marry in spite of the law, I fail to see that your correspondent's suggestion would prevent illegal marriage of minors; for if a person will forge a "consent of parents" he will do the same with a certificate of birth and baptism. It is all very well to write about the "great trouble, vexation, and sorrow of parents." I feel certain through the obstinacy of some parents in refusing to give consent to the marriage of minors, the disappointed couple commit sin. In my own parish, I have a parishioner 18 years of age, anxious for marriage, but I have to refuse to solemnize the rite. The father has beaten and so ill-treated her that she is really afraid of him. He lately served a sentence in gaol for a crime; and, without reasonable cause, withholds his "consent." Now, "if cruelty and desertion" is a sufficient plea to separate husband and wife, why not allow the same, on proof, to be sufficient for a minor to marry? The girl in question could provide a comfortable home for herself, but a worthless father stands in the way. And she cannot marry for three years, without committing perjury. Having warned her of the consequences, I am sure she is too honourable to do an illegal act, even to obtain a protector for life.

Hoping that you will kindly find space for this letter in your widely-circulated journal. Yours, &c.,
July 24. A COUNTRY CLERGYMAN.

POLICE.

At the Central Police Court, yesterday, the Police Magistrate was assisted in the Crime Court by Messrs. Jolly, Reading, Thomas, Skarratt, and Neale; and in the Summons Court by Messrs. Ridge, Blair, Hunt, Holborow, Senior, M'Beath, and Bull.

Jane Matthews was summarily convicted of having stolen a pair of boots, valued at 5s. 6d., the goods of James M'Carthy, and was sentenced to be imprisoned seven days.

Michael O'Toole was brought up on warrant, having neglected to appear in obedience to a summons, returnable on the 23rd June, to answer a charge of having been drunk on the 9th June. He pleaded guilty, and was fined 5s., and 7s. 4d. costs, or to be imprisoned four days.

Edward Howard was found guilty of having assaulted Alice Howard his wife. Complainant deposed that about a fortnight ago the defendant, her husband, assaulted her and broke one of the fingers of her left hand, after which he promised to go away and never trouble her again if she would give him £5; she pawned some goods to raise the money, and gave it to him; on the Friday night following he left Sydney by steamer for Newcastle, but on Monday returned without a penny; between 5 and 6 o'clock on Sunday morning he came to her house, and into her bedroom; he then beat her with his fists on her face, causing the marks yet visible and loosened some of her teeth; he said that she might go and do as she liked, and he was only sorry that he had not an axe to cut her in pieces; he has been bound over in sureties to keep the peace towards her; on Tuesday he met her on her way home from the Infirmary, dragged her hat from her head, and pulled it to tatters. In reply to a question from the Bench, she said that her husband had done no work since November last, but sent her into the streets to earn money to support him. To be imprisoned four months.

Fanny Smith was summarily convicted of having stolen a carpet bag, containing one brooch, a pair of earrings, and sundry articles of wearing apparel, of the value in the whole of 39s. Mary Henry, a late arrival, deposed that on Thursday afternoon she was on Hyde Park, on her way to the steamers' wharf, to go to a situation at Hunter's Hill; she had in one hand a carpet bag, containing a pair of earrings, a brooch, and some wearing apparel; she sat down to rest on one of the benches, and the prisoner and another female came up and sat with her, one on each side, and entered into conversation; she felt a movement at her jacket pocket, and putting her hand to it missed her purse, and charged the woman sitting on that side with having robbed her; she had in the purse 9s. and a few pence, and a paper which she had read while sitting there; that woman went away, and she called out for assistance to a man at some distance; the prisoner then took up her carpet-bag and with it went after the first; witness could not follow them for fear she should lose the band-box also; yesterday morning she saw the prisoner, and gave her into custody; she was then wearing the stolen brooch, which is now before the Court. To be imprisoned one month. The purse stolen by the other woman contained all the money the prosecutrix had, and the gentlemen on the Bench subscribed and handed to her the sum of 10s., for which she expressed her grateful thanks.

William Miley on the 2nd July, and by postponement on eight subsequent days, appeared to answer an information in which Sub-Inspector Rush complained that on the 26th June he deposited a quantity of nightsoil at, and near a public highway, the Darlington Road, in the district of Sydney, causing by offensive and unwholesome smells arising therefrom, a common nuisance in the neighbourhood. The place in question is about 200 yards from the Public school, the Deaf and Dumb Asylum, and a number of dwelling houses are situated within a like distance. Richard Seymour, Inspector of Nuisances for the city of Sydney, deposed that on the 27th May he visited defendant's premises, bounded by two public roads, and saw some tons of nightsoil within the fence; he found an offensive smell before he got to the place—the smell led him to the place; he has spoken to defendant about the nuisance several times between July 1878, and 29th June, 1879; witness was directed by the Mayor of Sydney to inspect the premises and report. Other witnesses were called in support of the information—Sergeant M'Namara, of the police force, James Clarke, Emile Morrice, Henry Thelwell, William H. Watkins, Thomas M'Culloch, Benjamin Bradford, George Baker, and constables O'Connor and Angell. For the defence Mr. T. M. Williamson called John M'Farlane, the late council-clerk of Darlington, who deposed that for some time he occupied the Council-chambers, next to the Public school, at Darlington, and about 60 yards from defendant's paddock; he never experienced any bad smell from the paddock; the witness Clarke had complained to him that all the rubbish and dead animals were thrown near his house. Frederick W. Holland deposed that he examined defendant's paddock, a place where night-carts are kept, on 14th July, and did not discover any offensive smell of night soil, nor any stench beyond the ordinary smell of horse manure; he could not say anything about the state of the paddock on the 26th June. William Hatfield never felt any stench arising from nightsoil on the paddock referred to. Frank Hatfield, Moses Hodgkinson, city missionary, and several other persons, gave similar evidence. The Bench, Messrs. M'Beath and Bull, committed the defendant to take his trial at the Quarter Sessions, admitting him to bail for his appearance.

Licensing Business.—Colonial wine licenses were granted to John Sheldrick, Charles Tirdu, and Samuel Bennett; pawnbrokers' licenses to Edward Sweeney and John Lynch; and a slaughtering license to John Lodge.

At the Water Police Court, yesterday morning, before Messrs. Smart, Charlton, and Frazer, Js.P., the following cases, at the instance of Inspector Seymour, were dealt with:—James Jones, allowing filth to remain on his premises, fined £2; costs, 5s.; professional costs, 21s. Charles Williams, same offence, fined £1; costs, 5s.; professional costs, 20s. William M'Andrew, same offence, fined 20s.; costs, 5s.; professional costs, 21s. George Butlin, same offence, fined £3; costs, 5s.; professional costs, 21s. Benjamin Marshall, same offence, fined £1; costs, 5s.; professional costs, 21s. George Meyers, driving without lights, fined 20s.; costs, 5s.; professional costs, 10s. 6d. David Davis, John Gribble, George Morrison, Thomas Bengaugh, John Vickery, William Glover, and Bruce Douglas were each fined 10s., costs 5s., and 10s. 6d. professional costs, in all the cases except those against Morrison, Bengaugh, and Douglas. Peter Criss, for not having his vehicle parallel, was fined 10s., with 5s. costs. Mr. Driver appeared for the complainant in each case.

Inspector Oram proceeded against nine persons for breaches of the Metropolitan Transit Commissioners' by-laws, and five were fined 10s., and four 5s., professional costs to the amount of £3 3s. being allowed. Mr. R. Driver appeared for the complainant in each case.

John Holland was charged with having unlawfully and feloniously inflicted grievous bodily harm on the person of Lewis Steel, his brother-in-law. Dr. Frean deposed to the nature of the injuries, the chief of which was a true wound 1½ inch in length, extending to the skull on the left side of the head. Mrs. Steel gave evidence that she saw Holland beating her husband, and Steel himself deposed that he saw the prisoner pick up what appeared to be a fire-iron about two feet long, with which he struck him on the head. The accused was committed to take his trial at the next Court of Quarter Sessions. The prisoner, who is a brother of the victim of the outrage committed some months ago in Pitt-street, threatened to do something serious to the prosecutor when he got out.

Arthur Fairfield, charged with having a pair of boots in his possession reasonably supposed to be stolen, was sent to gaol for seven days. Henry Lewis was charged with having stolen a coat, valued at 20s., the property of Michael Dalton, and was sent to gaol for six months, with hard labour. George Montagu was charged with having stolen a silver watch and gold albert chain and locket, the property of Robert M'Cue. He had been caught almost in flagrante delicto and with the property stolen in his possession. He was committed to take his trial at the next Court of Quarter Sessions.

Before Messrs. Lester, Goodridge, Arguimbau, and Jenkins, Js.P., the two French expirees, Massirine and Mass, were brought up on remand, charged with having obtained a passage by the brig Sea Nymph from Noumea to Sydney without the consent of the master, and without paying their fare, and were each fined £10, with the alternative of three months in gaol.

TORPEDO EXPERIMENTS AT MELBOURNE.

On Saturday afternoon (says the Argus) a number of interesting experiments were conducted at the torpedo hulks which lie moored in the Yarra, near the Edom railway station. A number of gentlemen were present as onlookers, including Captain Mandeville and other officers of the naval force. The operations were carried on under the direction and immediate supervision of Mr. K. L. Murray, the chief electrician. Mr. Murray explained that he and his subordinates held a class in town for learning the theoretic part of their business, and that they came down occasionally to the hulks to put their theories into practice. He also described the apparatus they used, and gave an entertaining lecture on the whole of the proceedings. Three mines had been formed on the shore, and were connected with the hulks by electric cables. Their object was to show how torpedoes or mines were exploded. Two of the mines were discharged by the use of a key, and the third by shaking a buoy so as to make a circuit connector inside vibrate. All went off the instant the electric spark was discharged, and dummy men, which had been placed over the mines, were shot high in the air. The charge in each case was gun-cotton, and the largest one, which was 15 lbs., shook the ground for some distance, and was felt on the hulks themselves. Several small charges of gun-cotton attached to wires were thrown overboard, and were fired off just before touching the water. These, it was considered, would be effective missiles for throwing into an enemy's boats. Canisters containing quantities of the same substance were also thrown overboard, and the moment they touched the water they exploded. This result was obtained by attaching the canisters to a wire which was connected with the earth, and the circuit which produced the electricity necessary to discharge them was formed immediately they touched the water. The use of trailing shots, which are provided for breaking a cable or clearing away any object under water, was also illustrated, and a heliograph was exhibited. The experiments were carried through without a single hitch.

NEW SOUTH WALES PROTESTANT HALL COMPANY.

The following is the report to be presented at the general meeting of shareholders, to be held at the hall, on Monday, the 4th August, 1879:—

In presenting you with this, the seventh half-yearly report, we have not only to congratulate you on the continued popularity of the hall, but also the healthy state of the finances.

The receipts from all sources for the half-year amount to £736 6s. After deducting £326 11s 6d, which has been received on account of shares, and £307 3s 7d actual working expenses, there remains to the good of the company the sum of £102 10s 11d.

The large item of interest, as shown on the balance-sheet, viz., £151 15s. 2d., considerably retards the progress of the company in the matter of profits, but you will be glad to learn that our bank overdraft has been reduced to this date by £459 15s. 6d., leaving a balance of £534 16s. 6d. still due.

Without the interest being deducted from our revenue, we show a profit equal to nearly 3½ per cent. per annum on the whole outlay of £9735, or 10 per cent. per annum on the subscribed capital of £5055 17s.

In conclusion, we would inform you that we have considered the propriety of holding a course of lectures in aid of the hall, and trust that the liberality and support of the Protestant community will enable us, at the close of the next half-year, to give a yet more favourable report.

THE PACIFIC INSURANCE COMPANY.

The following is the report for presentation at the Eighteenth Annual Meeting of shareholders, to be held on Monday, the 28th July, 1879:—

Your directors, in submitting their statement of accounts for the year ending 30th June, 1879, are pleased to be able to report that the business of the company has been well maintained, notwithstanding the general depression in trade and the unreasonable competition in fire risks, which have caused a serious decline in rates of premium, and rendered your directors less anxious to increase this branch of the company's business.

The receipts from all sources have been £49,869 2s 7d, and on the 30th June, 1879, the books showed the following satisfactory credit balances:—

Reserve fund	£5,000 0 0
Profit and loss account	4,191 18 0
Revenue account to 30th June, 1878	9,959 5 7
Revenue account to 30th June, 1879	17,566 15 6
Making a total over and above the capital of	£36,717 19 1

The unadjusted claims on 30th June were estimated at £1500, and the cost of reinsuring outstanding risks at £6909 17s. 7d.

The freehold property has for many years been represented in the company's books at only £10,500, a sum manifestly so much below its worth, that your directors deemed it right some months back to obtain a professional valuation from Messrs. Richardson and Wrench, which amounted to £18,000, and fortified thereby they increased the book value of the property to £15,000, leaving a margin of £3000 for depreciation.

In January your directors paid an interim dividend at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum for the half-year, and have now the satisfaction of declaring a further dividend at the rate of 20 per cent. per annum, making 15 per cent. for the whole year.

In the year 1873, the directors, in their report, recommended that each year's operations be kept separate, and that the accounts should not be closed until the end of the third year, by which time all possible claims would have run off. Experience having, however, shown that 5 per cent. of the net marine premiums is ample to cover any possible outstanding claims remaining at the end of the second year, your directors propose now, and for the future, to retain that percentage to meet third year's settlements, if any, and to transfer the balance to profit and loss account.

This course will, after retaining £1372 5s. 2d. to meet possible claims to 30th June, 1880, enable your directors to transfer to credit of profit and loss from the period ending 30th June, 1878, £8387 0s. 5d.

The amount to credit of profit and loss account will then be £12,778 18s. 5d., and of this sum your directors propose to add £7835 10s. to the capital (being a further 10s. per share), and £4000 to reserve fund, which will then stand at £9000, leaving £943 8s. 5d. to be carried forward.

The Honorable Judge Watson having resigned his seat at the Board, your directors, under clause 21 of the deed of settlement, appointed E. Vickery, Esq., to supply his place, and Mr. T. F. Hall to act as auditor in lieu of Mr. A. H. K. Maxwell, absent from the colony.

It devolves upon the present meeting to elect a director in lieu of E. Vickery, Esq., and an auditor in lieu of A. H. K. Maxwell, Esq., who retire by rotation, and are not eligible for re-election.

Louis Phillips, Esq., a duly qualified shareholder, has given the necessary notice that he is a candidate for the vacancy at the Board of Directors.

NEW SOUTH WALES SHALE AND OIL COMPANY.

The following is the fifteenth half-yearly report of the directors to the proprietors for the half-year ending 30th June, 1879:—

The directors have much pleasure in presenting their report and balance-sheet for the half-year ending 30th ultimo.

The company's plant, both at the mine and oil works, is in efficient working order. For details the proprietors are referred to the General Manager's report hereto appended.

The directors recommend a further diminution of the capital, and a resolution that the sum of one shilling per share shall be repaid to the proprietors will accordingly be submitted in conformity with the Deed of Settlement.

The proprietors will have to elect a director in the room of C. T. Gedye, Esq., who retires by rotation, but is eligible for re-election, and has given the required notice; and an auditor in the room of J. F. Paige, Esq., who also retires by rotation, but is eligible for re-election.

The balance of £14,161 2s 7d at the credit of profit and loss account the directors propose to appropriate as follows:—

In writing off book value of property	£1,777 15 10
Towards maintenance fund	805 9 2

THE STANDARD LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY.

The fifty-third annual general meeting of the company was held at Edinburgh on the 22nd April, 1879. The manager submitted to the meeting, the annual report by the directors as to the progress of the business; report on the books and accounts by the professional auditor of the company; balance-sheets of the company's affairs, certified by the auditor and three of the directors, in accordance with the Acts of Parliament constituting the company. A general and comparative statement explanatory of the progress of the business from 1825 to 1878. Results communicated in the report:—

Amount proposed for Assurance during the year 1878 (2247 proposals)	£1,482,031 10 10
Amount of Assurances accepted during the year 1878 (1810 policies)	1,111,065 3 4
Annual premiums on new policies during the year 1878	38,476 11 5
Claims by death during the year 1878, exclusive of bonus additions	439,897 13 8
Amount of Assurances accepted during the last five years	6,220,234 10 3
Subsisting Assurances at 15th November, 1878 (of which £1,300,511 18s. 5d. is re-assured with other offices)	19,005,152 1 1

Extract from the report by the directors:—

"The Board, on occasion of the last annual report, made reference to the long-continued and widespread depression in the trade of the country as a disturbing cause in the way of the development of life assurance business, and it need hardly be said that matters have not improved in this respect since that report was written. The directors think it, therefore, a matter of congratulation that the position of the company during the past year has been so well maintained, [illegible] circumstances, a very large amount of new assurances having been effected, while at the same time [illegible] greater amount [illegible] addition has been made to the accumulated fund, which is now well on towards five and a half millions. No special event in the year's annals calls for very particular mention, but the Board of Directors have continued to give their full attention week by week to the more continuous but none the less responsible duties of management, of which the principal are—the selection of lives and the investment of the funds, besides the solution of the many questions which daily arise in connection with the company's business. Each of these duties is carefully attended to, and where preliminary inquiry is necessary, all details are fully investigated by committees before being deliberated on by the Board. In the report of last year, the directors referred, it may be remembered, to the visit paid by the manager to the company's branches in India, and they have now much pleasure in stating that they are already finding satisfactory results from the changes which were suggested by him on his return. The business of the company in Canada has also been further developed during the year. While thus maintaining, however, their valuable connection in India and the colonies, the Board continue to hold the company's old home business and connection in the first rank of importance, and the directors have been recently engaged in considering what further development their system in Great Britain is capable of."

THE JOINT STOCK BANK.

The half-yearly general meeting of shareholders took place on Wednesday, Mr. E. Lord presiding, when the following report was submitted:—

The directors have pleasure in submitting the report for the half-year ending 30th June, 1879. The accounts have been examined and certified by the auditors.

The net profits for the half-year, after deducting rebate on bills, interest on fixed deposits, and providing for all bad and doubtful debts, amount to		£41,957 12 8

AUSTRALIAN GASLIGHT COMPANY.

Report from the directors to the proprietors for the half-year ending 30th June, 1879:—

The directors have much satisfaction in submitting to the proprietors a favourable report for the past six months.

The profits, after deducting for bad debts, interest on borrowed money, cost of repairs and renewals of plant, working expenses and all charges, amount, with the balance brought forward (£2314 14s 7d), to	£23,667 18 1
The directors recommend a dividend for the half-year of 7½ per cent.	18,740 9 6
Which will leave a surplus of	4,927 8 7
Out of which it is proposed to transfer to the reserve fund	4,000 0 0
Leaving a balance to carry forward of	927 8 7

The reserve fund will then stand at £29,061 9s 9d, from which the directors intend, during the next half-year, to write off £9061 9s 9d for depreciation of plant, leaving the reserve at £20,000.

The dividend will be payable at the Bank of New South Wales on and after Wednesday, the 30th instant.

The large tank and gasholder at the Haymarket station are in full use, and are found to work satisfactorily. The storage of gas is now ample for all present purposes, and for meeting increased demands for some time to come. Provision is being made for increasing also the distributing power, by taking up mains in several localities and replacing them with others of larger size.

Under the provisions of the company's Act the whole of the directors retire annually, five of whom must be re-elected. All the directors have given the requisite notice as candidates for the direction, and are eligible for re-election.

THE SOUTHERN INSURANCE COMPANY (LIMITED).

The following is the report for presentation to the ordinary general meeting of shareholders, to be held on Monday, the 4th day of August, 1879:—

The directors have much pleasure in presenting to the shareholders the accompanying statement of accounts and balance-sheet for the half-year ending 30th June, 1879.

The satisfactory position of the affairs of the company enables the directors to recommend payment of dividend for the half-year at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum; that a sum of £10,000 be carried to reserve fund, and that the freehold premises, now standing at £10,000, be reduced to £9,500.

It is proposed, therefore, that the balance of revenue and expenditure account be apportioned as follows:—

To dividend of sixpence per share	£2,500 0 0
To reserve fund	10,000 0 0
To reduction freehold premises	500 0 0
To balance carried forward to next account	21,835 5 10
	£34,835 5 10

THE BAND AND ALBION G. M. CO.

At the half-yearly meeting of the Band and Albion G. M. Co., held at Ballarat yesterday, the following report was presented:—

We have great pleasure in stating that during the half-year operations in your several mines have been successful beyond our most sanguine expectations. At No. 2 shaft some very good ground has been opened up on the eastern reef, from which 385 oz. 16 dwts. of gold have been won by the tributors, and will probably continue to yield fair returns for several months. No. 4 shaft: 1550 oz. 14 dwts. of gold have been obtained by the tributors, but the average has fallen off considerably during the past ten weeks. No. 6 Shaft: 114 oz. 8 dwts. of alluvial gold were won from the Old Miner's Right Gutter, and on the 14th February a trial crushing of 19 tons was taken from some quartz leaders at the 250-feet level, which yielded 8 dwts. per ton. These leaders were followed up and developed into a splendid lode, carrying good payable stone 40 feet in width, and from which 2600 tons have been raised, yielding 3876 oz. 19 dwts. bar gold—equal 1 oz. 9 dwts. 3 grs. per ton. It has been opened up on its course for upwards of 600 feet; and we confidently anticipate it will continue, with probably slight interruptions, throughout the length of your claims for nearly 2000 feet. After the trial-crushing in February, it was resolved to erect 10 heads of stampers at once, but as the mine developed itself, other 10 heads have been added, and the whole are now working well, reducing about [illegible]60 tons per week. Your directors finding the property proving itself valuable and of a permanent character, resolved to sink on her two shafts along the line of lode. One of these (known as No. 7) is now down 170 feet, and will reach the lode at about 350 feet from surface, or about 70 feet below the level now being worked at No. 6. No. 8 shaft is down 75 feet, and will command the northern end of the company's claims. No. 7, being central, will be used as the [illegible] with No. 6 on the south end. [illegible] working order upon the lode, there will be no difficulty in [illegible] stone for 50 or 60 additional stampers.

National Library of Australia http://nla.gov.au/nla.news-page1429308

which your directors recommend should be erected without delay, if the next level proves (as we believe it will) of a valuable and permanent character. Some of the most valuable of the alienated lands along the line of the lode, within your claims, have been secured by purchase, and we confidently believe your company possesses one of the most valuable mining properties in Australia. There are no liabilities beyond the current fortnightly accounts; and the financial statement shows a credit balance at your bankers of £6775 11s. 3d."

PROPOSED MUNICIPAL DISTRICT OF CAMPBELLTOWN.—COUNTER PETITION.

His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, directs the publication in accordance with the Municipalities Act of 1867, of the substance and prayer of a petition (received on the 22nd instant), addressed to his Excellency, and signed by one hundred and fifty-nine persons, against the incorporation of the proposed Municipal District of Campbelltown—such petition being in opposition to the petition, the substance and prayer of which were published in a supplementary GOVERNMENT GAZETTE, of the 22nd April last, and otherwise as required by law.

HENRY PARKES.

The Petitioners state that they are persons who would upon incorporation be liable to be assessed for Municipal rates in respect of property or household residence; that a large number of those who signed the Petition for incorporation are not persons so liable, that they believe that a large number of those who signed such Petition do not fully realize and understand their liability in respect of the payment of rates and taxes in the event of incorporation.

That the proposed Municipality is peculiarly situated having thirteen roads (which are at present in a very bad state of repair) exclusive of streets, within its boundaries; that the Government should put such roads in good repair before incorporation takes place as they all lead to the Railway Station, and that if incorporation takes place before such work is done the expense of repairing the roads would be ruinous to the inhabitants, oppressive to those liable to taxation beyond the town, and would plunge the municipality into debt from the time of incorporation; but that if incorporation be postponed until such work is done by the Government the rates and taxes will be sufficient to meet all reasonable outlay.

That for the foregoing and other reasons they believe the time has not yet arrived for the extension of the Municipalities Act to the district of Campbelltown.

And the petitioners pray "that your Excellency may be pleased to decline to proclaim the district described in the petition hereinbefore mentioned as a Municipal District, by virtue and in terms of the 'Municipalities Act of 1867,' under the name of the Municipal District of Campbelltown."

Since the establishment of the National Mutual Life Association it has met with marked success, the direct result of the public appreciation of the sound and equitable principles upon which it is established and conducted, and of the full and open statement of its affairs, periodically published in its reports.

During the first nine years of its business 4662 policies have been issued, assuring over £1,250,000, and profits exceeding Thirteen Thousand Pounds have been divided, representing Reversionary Bonuses of £22,000. The Accumulated Fund now amounts to £71,210, which is safely and profitably invested.

Among the leading features adopted by the National Mutual, and introduced for the first time in these colonies, are the following:—

No member's Policy shall be allowed to lapse on account of the non-payment of any Premiums so long as it has a surrender value sufficient to pay the Premium overdue.

No member shall be compelled to pay a higher Premium on his Policy than that opposite his age in the table of rates.

The age of members shall be taken as at nearest birthday.

Surrender value allowed after a Policy has been two years in force.

Drapery, Haberdashery, &c.

MESSRS. FARMER AND COMPANY desire to announce that their GREAT CASH SALE of surplus stock will be continued during the present week. Several of the reduced items still remain, which a few days at most will doubtless suffice to clear. Many tempting bargains are still being offered in the undermentioned departments:—
HOUSEHOLD DRAPERY — SILKS
FANCY DRESSES — MILLINERY
HOSIERY — UNDERCLOTHING
HABERDASHERY — FANCY GOODS
RIBBONS — SUNSHADES
CARPETS — FURNISHING
MEN'S CLOTHING — BOYS' CLOTHING
GLOVES.
VICTORIA HOUSE, PITT and GEORGE STREETS, SYDNEY.

FARMER AND COMPANY'S 2-BUTTON UNDRESSED KID GLOVES, 1s 6d per pair. A serviceable glove that can be recommended; all sizes in stock.

FARMER AND COMPANY'S CELEBRATED HALF-CROWN GLOVE; PRESENT CASH PRICE, 2s. This glove was introduced to the Sydney public as the best value to be had at the price quoted. There is still a good assortment of sizes and colours remaining, to which the attention of intending purchasers is invited. FARMER and COMPANY, Victoria House, Pitt and George streets.

FARMER'S 4-BUTTON BLACK KID GLOVES at 2s. 11d., is now added to the list of inexpensive gloves imported specially for Victoria House. The Glove now offered, is equal in quality to the 2-Button Half Crown Glove that is such a firm favourite with the Sydney public; all sizes in stock. FARMER and COMPANY, Victoria House.

FARMER'S FULL FASHIONED WINTER HOSIERY, FANCY STRIPED MERINO HOSE, 10d., HEATHER MERINO HOSE, EMBROIDERED, 1s. 3d., DERBY RIB CASHMERE HOSE, 1s. 6d. The cashmere hose are colours, that in the face of so many new shades now being produced, will not be repeated; but the quality is really first class. No London House would sell these goods under 2s. 6d. per pair, in the usual way, and their Sydney value in past seasons has been 3s. The other kinds of hose offered are equally good value.

FARMER'S WINTER WOOL GOODS are the pick of English and French productions, and are now being sold at a reduction of quite 25 per cent. for cash. The assortment includes Clouds, Wraps, Shoulder Scarfs, Squares, &c., &c., in very choice colourings.

FARMER'S POCKET HAT FOR GENTLEMEN, of soft French Felt, a perfect luxury to wear; light, thin; will always keep its shape; price only half a guinea. Every gentleman should wear one.

FARMER'S HALF GUINEA POCKET HAT, for gentlemen; shape, most becoming; quality, the finest French Felt. For lounging, for travelling, for morning wear, unapproached by any hat hitherto introduced.

FARMER'S HALF GUINEA UMBRELLA, for gentlemen; present cash price, 7s 6d. Who has not purchased one of these remarkably cheap umbrellas?

FARMER'S MILLINERY FELT HATS, FOR LADIES.—Pure French Felt, untrimmed, 2s 6d, 4s 6d, 6s 6d, 8s 6d; fashionably trimmed, 18s 6d, 21s, 25s.

FARMER'S GUINEA LONGCLOTHS, pure, soft, undressed, everywhere prized for their excellent qualities; a British made cloth that will wear well, and is the only calico that has eclipsed the excellent longcloths of the Americans; present cash price, 18s 6d.

FARMER'S REVERSIBLE SATIN RIBBONS.—The balance of Double Satin Ribbons, at 12½d, is being cleared out at a low quotation for cash. There are not many pieces remaining, and a few days at most will entirely clear them.

WINTER JACKETS AND COSTUMES.

The balance of our Winter Jackets and Costumes will be cleared out this week at considerably reduced prices.

FURNITURE SHOW-ROOMS

ALEXANDER MOORE AND CO.'S LABOUR BAZAAR, 285, 287, 289, 291, 293, and 295, Pitt-street. Established A.D. 1840.

ALEXANDER MOORE and CO. respectfully invite ladies and gentlemen about to furnish, recent arrivals in the colony, and the public in general, to call and inspect the magnificent collection of elegant and substantial high-class Furniture, both foreign and colonial made, now on view in their spacious show-rooms.

A. M. and Co., having paid special attention to the selection of their New Stock, and having recently purchased, for cash, some of the most massive and superb Hall, Dining-room, Drawing-room, and Bedroom Suites, are now enabled to offer to ladies and gentlemen and the general public the most magnificent furniture ever yet placed before them.

The furniture is conveniently arranged in separate departments, and visitors are conducted through the show-rooms without any objectionable importunity to purchase.

A. M. and Co. respectfully remind their customers that they do not profess to sell their goods at a large sacrificing discount, neither do they charge large profits—the extent and mode of their purchases being such as to enable them to do well for their customers at a small profit, looking more particularly for a remuneration in doing a large and extensive business.

A. M. and Co., in returning sincere thanks for past favours, and assuring their friends and the general public that no effort will be spared on their part to make their establishment worthy of continued and increased support, beg to quote a few of the leading lines received by recent arrivals direct from the most eminent manufacturers.—

FROM THE NEWS OF THE WORLD.—

"At the Paris Exhibition, the WHEELER and WILSON MANUFACTURING COMPANY have gained an indisputable pre-eminence over 80 competitors by carrying off the only 'GRAND PRIZE' awarded to SEWING-MACHINES (which must not be confounded with the 'Gold Medal,' a secondary prize), for the superiority and excellence of their machines. The testimony of a jury composed of competent authorities will not fail to guide the public in choosing an article that is now a necessity to every one."

SILENCE IS GOLDEN.—In the home circle it is extremely disagreeable to be annoyed with jarring and discordant sounds. We expect to leave noise and bustle in the busy city, and come to our home for quiet—and after all perhaps we find a whirring racketty sewing-machine, clattering away as if noise was a special requirement in the art of sewing. The remedy for this evil is to put the noisy pest in an out-house, and buy in its stead one of those SILENT MACHINES known as the AUTOMATIC, or Self-regulating, which give no trouble—make no noise—are liked by all who buy them; can be used by the delicate invalid with safety, and are real home treasures. SINGER'S GENUINE SEWING MACHINES.

THE UNRIVALLED "Patent" TRIPLE action balance-wheel, which is instantaneously self-adjusting, not even the turning of a SCREW being required, and possesses most decided advantages over the Fast and Loose Wheels hitherto offered.

BEWARE of IMITATIONS of the CELEBRATED SINGER'S MACHINE.

The SINGER'S NEW IMPROVED FAMILY MACHINE, which has achieved such wonderful success, is designed to do every variety of domestic work, from the finest muslin to the heaviest cloth.

THE SINGER MANUFACTURING COMPANY'S Sales for 1878, as officially returned, reached the enormous number of 356,316 MACHINES, EXCEEDING by 153,319 the sales of the W. and W. Company, the only aspiring rival of the SINGER; and The SINGER COMPANY'S returns for 1878 amount to ... 282,812 Machines. Being an increase for the year of ... 20,496. While their principal rival significantly refuses to supply any returns.

At the Centennial Exhibition THE SINGER COMPANY exhibited their TWO MILLIONTH MACHINE; and at the more recent PARIS EXHIBITION, THE SINGER obtained the Gold MEDAL, above all-comers.

THE TIME PAYMENT SYSTEM, SO WELL PATRONIZED by the Public, is now on the most liberal terms, at 2s WEEKLY PAYMENT.

Deposit, 5s; per week, 2s.

J. T. FALLON'S ALBURY WINES.

J. T. Fallon announces that, having recently discovered the very extensive substitution of inferior Wines for those of his Vineyard, and the Forgery of his Labels by numerous Vendors of "Albury Wines," he has been compelled to take decisive steps to stop such imposition and wrong, and to get placed before the public in unmistakeable form the well-matured Wines of his Vineyard.

J. T. Fallon is submitting to the public no wine under seven years of age, and all are warranted to maintain the high character they have attained wherever exhibited.

The public should not fail to observe that J. T. Fallon can only guarantee the genuineness of such wines as are obtained direct from himself, or from his recognised Agents, a list of which will be found below.

TO ECONOMICAL HOUSEWIVES.—Your Grocer can purchase inferior Soaps 8s a hundredweight less than he can buy Allen's No. 1, Crown Soap, and he charges for them the same price per bar. He reaps the benefit, and you pay for it. You lose 8s a box; your clothes last no time, and their colours are destroyed by the adulteration. To avoid all this, see that your bar of soap is stamped "ALLEN'S No. 1 Crown."

INSIST on having J. S. ABRAHAM'S PILLS (DANDELION) ONLY. The great Liver Remedy.

KAYE'S WORSDELL'S PILLS.
THE GOOD OLD ENGLISH REMEDY FOR ALL DISEASES.

Established over Fifty Years.

KNOWN ALL OVER THE WORLD.

For upwards of half a century KAYE'S WORSDELL'S PILLS have been esteemed as the best remedy for the prevention and cure of disease. Their use renders the doctor unnecessary in the family.

Acting on the blood, they purify it from all humours, rendering the life-giving fluid healthy in its action, and consequently restoring and establishing the health of the invalid.

These pills are invaluable to emigrants, being a certain remedy for all diseases of the Stomach, Lungs, Liver, &c. Are equally adapted for all ages and either sex. Persons residing in the colonies who cannot have recourse to medical advice will therefore find them indispensable.

The proprietor has in his possession thousands of testimonials, bearing witness to the wonderful efficacy of this invaluable medicine, a selection of which accompanies each box.

Sold by all Chemists and other Dealers in Patent Medicines throughout the world, at 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, and 4s 6d per box.

THE GREAT ENGLISH REMEDY FOR GOUT AND RHEUMATISM.

All sufferers from the above complaints, either of recent or long standing, are advised to use BLAIR'S GOUT and RHEUMATIC PILLS. They can be relied upon as the most safe and effectual remedy ever offered to the public, and have been universally used in EUROPE and AMERICA many years with the greatest success. Her Majesty's Commissioners have authorised the name and address of "THOMAS PROUT, No. 229, Strand, London," to be impressed upon the Government stamp affixed to each box of the genuine medicine. Sold at 1s 1½d and 2s 9d per box, or through any chemist throughout the Australian colonies.

BISHOP'S GRANULAR EFFERVESCENT CITRATE OF MAGNESIA.
(Established 1857.)
This perfectly white and delicately clean preparation,
PREPARED WITH SALTS OBTAINED FROM PURE FRUIT JUICES OF LEMONS AND GRAPES, is the most delicious of spring and summer drinks, highly cooling and refreshing, as well as mildly aperient. The action is febrifuge, (that is, having a tendency to reduce a feverish state of the body); consequently when the system is in an uncomfortable, heated, dry condition, a draught of this preparation is most refreshing. It will produce a moisture on the skin, and the frame generally will be invigorated. It does not lower the system like other salines. Dr. Redwood, Professor of Chemistry at the Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain, thus writes:—

"I have examined a great many samples of Mr. Bishop's granulated preparation, obtained at various times and from different sources, and have found them to be very uniform in character, fully charged with carbonic acid, and obviously made with great care and accuracy."

CAUTION.—Each label bears the trade mark and full address of ALFRED BISHOP, Manufacturing Chymist, 17, Speck's Fields, Mile End, New Town, London.

This preparation keeps better and retains its effervescence longer than any other ever offered to the public.

Selling in England, in bottles, at 1s and 2s 6d; and larger sizes for family use.

Agents for Sydney—Messrs. ELLIOTT, BROTHERS.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated publicly in Court that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was undoubtedly the inventor of Chlorodyne, that the whole story of the defendant Freeman was deliberately untrue, and he regretted to say it had been sworn to.—Times, July 13, 1864.

Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne.—The Right Hon. Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians and J. T. Davenport that he had received information to the effect that the only remedy of any service in cholera was Chlorodyne.—See Lancet, December 31, 1864.

Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne "is prescribed by scores of orthodox practitioners. Of course it would not be thus singularly popular did it not 'supply a want and fill a place.'"—Medical Times, January 12, 1866.

Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is the best and most certain remedy in coughs, colds, asthma, consumption, neuralgia, rheumatism, &c.

Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is a certain cure for cholera, dysentery, diarrhœa, colics, &c.

Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne.—Caution.—None genuine without the words "Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne" on the Government stamp. Overwhelming medical testimony accompanies each bottle. Sole manufacturer, J. T. Davenport, 33, Great Russell-street, Bloomsbury, London. Sold in bottles at 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, 4s 6d, and 11s.

Agents: Sydney—Messrs. ELLIOTT, BROTHERS.
Agents: Melbourne—FELTON, GRIMWADE, and CO.

STEEDMAN'S SOOTHING POWDERS, for CHILDREN CUTTING TEETH.

CAUTION TO PURCHASERS.

The value of this well-known Family Medicine has been largely tested in all parts of the world, and by all grades of society, for upwards of FIFTY YEARS. Its well-earned extensive sale has induced sundry IMITATIONS, some of which, in OUTWARD APPEARANCE, so closely resemble the original as to have deceived many purchasers. The proprietor, therefore, feels it due to the public to give a special caution against the use of such imitations.

Purchasers are therefore requested carefully to observe the four following distinctive characteristics, without which none are genuine:—

1. In every case the words JOHN STEEDMAN, Chemist, Walworth, Surry, are engraved on the Government stamp affixed to EACH PACKET.
2. Each SINGLE POWDER has directions for the dose, and the words John Steedman, chemist, Walworth, Surrey, painted thereon.
3. The name Steedman is always spelt with two EE's.
4. The manufacture is carried on solely at Walworth, Surrey.
Sold in packets by all Chemists and Medicine Vendors, at 1s 1½d and 2s 9d each.
Sold in Sydney, by ELLIOTT, BROTHERS,
MYERS and SOLOMON, 342, George-street.

WATT'S SOOTHING POWDERS for Children cutting their teeth, use no other.

ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, Incipient Consumption, and Nervous Debility.—A Cure guaranteed.—Professor RAWLINGS, 241, Elizabeth-street. TUESDAY and SATURDAY, 2 to 5 p.m., a free list.

SPECIAL CAUTION.

One of the strongest reasons of the success of J. S. ABRAHAM'S PILLS (DANDELION), is that many of the Druggists in N. S. Wales have given up the practice of making their own pills, thereby acknowledging the impossibility to equal them. The pills that they are now offering to the public they know nothing about, being made in America and imported here, their only recommendation being cheapness and coating. J. S. ABRAHAM'S PILLS (DANDELION) are not coated, neither are they American; therefore the proprietor can positively assure the public that they will be supplied with the pills, prepared only by himself, at the Laboratory, 116, George-street, Sydney.

N.B.—Insist on having J. S. ABRAHAM'S PILLS only.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT.—Cancer, Carbuncles, Boils.—These diseases demand decided treatment. In using these remedies safety is secured without a risk of suffering. The pills remove the poisonous taint, the ointment soothes the angry local ailment. Sold at 533, Oxford-street, W.C. London, and all druggists.

HOMŒOPATHY.

Taking cold is the cause of half of our diseases. Dr. RUBINI'S Concentrated Solution of CAMPHOR is the best preventive.

F. N. COLLINS'S carefully prepared pilules of the above, sold in bottles, 1s and 1s 6d. By post, 1s 6d and 2s 6d.

HAYDEN'S SPECIFIC FOR RHEUMATISM.—A CERTAIN and SPEEDY CURE for all RHEUMATIC PAINS. In bottles, 2s. W. H. SOUL, 221, Pitt-street; C. Case, 172, Castlereagh-st. Wholesale, Elliott, Bros., W. Tayler and Co.

THE PICK of MARRICKVILLE.

HAWKHURST VILLA and THE HAWKHURST ESTATE, on the COOK'S RIVER NEW ROAD, about TEN MINUTES' WALK from the PETERSHAM RAILWAY STATION, adjoining Alderman GRAHAM'S RESIDENCE and GARDEN, and in the immediate vicinity of the Residences and improved Grounds belonging to Messrs. SMITH, BOND, STOKES, BEAUMONT, BERTHORN, PFEOFFER, and others.

THE ESTATE comprises an area of about 15½ ACRES of DELIGHTFULLY ELEVATED LAND, and has been SUB-DIVIDED by Mr. Surveyor REUSS, Sen., into good-sized VILLA SITES and BUILDING ALLOTMENTS, with FRONTAGES to WIDE STREETS, and fair depths.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on MONDAY, 28th JULY, at 11 o'clock, THE HAWKHURST ESTATE, subdivided into THREE SECTIONS, as follows:—

SECTION 1—Lot 1.—ALL THAT BLOCK of LAND, having the following frontages—
200 FEET to COOK'S RIVER NEW ROAD
200 FEET to ILLAWARRA OLD ROAD, with a depth through of 450 FEET, on which is HAWKHURST VILLA,
a commodious family dwelling, with verandah in front, and containing entrance hall, large drawing and dining rooms, 5 bedrooms, kitchen, laundry, pantry, servants' room, store, and other outbuildings.

The grounds are nicely laid out in front of the residence as a garden and shrubbery, and to the east is orchard and paddock. The water supply is abundant, from a large underground tank.

SECTION 1.—Lots 2 to 21.—TWENTY GOOD-SIZED VILLA SITES, having 40 FEET to 59 FEET frontages to COOK'S RIVER NEW ROAD and Illawarra Old Road, with average depths of 225 FEET.

SECTION 2.—Lots 1 to 26.—TWENTY-SIX GOOD BUILDING SITES, having frontages of 30 FEET to COOK'S RIVER NEW ROAD, CHARLES-STREET and GEORGE-STREET, with depths of 150 FEET to 160 FEET.

SECTION 3.—Lots 1 to 13.—THIRTEEN BUILDING ALLOTMENTS, having 40 FEET to 50 FEET frontages to COOK'S RIVER NEW ROAD and GEORGE-STREET, with depths of 150 FEET to 160 FEET.

HAWKHURST ESTATE is delightfully situated on the HEIGHTS of MARRICKVILLE, in the midst of the choicest, most valuable, and highly improved properties in this POPULAR and VERY ATTRACTIVE suburb of our city.

The subdivision has been most carefully done, each lot being well defined and marked with the usual red pegs, so that intending purchasers with LITHOGRAPHS (to be obtained at the Rooms), in hand can go upon the ground and identify the whole of the lots without the least difficulty.

The lots will be offered in such a way that the purchaser of one will have the option of taking adjoining lots at the price for which the first lot is knocked down, thereby securing ANY AREA REQUIRED without further competition.

The large AUCTION PLAN is now on view at the Rooms, Pitt-street; and LITHOGRAPHS obtainable.

TERMS—ONE-QUARTER CASH DEPOSIT, and the residue in equal amounts at 6, 12, 18, and 24 months, bearing interest at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum.

Messrs. STEPHEN, LAURENCE, and JAQUES, Pitt-street, are SOLICITORS of the ESTATE.

To SPECULATORS, CAPITALISTS, and Others.

BY ORDER OF THE MORTGAGEE.

CITY FREEHOLD.

DWELLING HOUSE, No. 5, HARRINGTON-STREET, near Argyle-street and the ARGYLE BONDED STORES.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on FRIDAY, 1st August, at 11 o'clock.

ALL THAT block of city land, having 41 feet frontage to the west side of HARRINGTON-STREET, a few feet from the corner of Argyle-st., with a depth of 60 feet, on which is No. 5, HARRINGTON-STREET, a two-story stone residence, containing hall, 10 rooms, very large attic (the latter being the whole width and depth of the house, which could at a small cost be divided into four other rooms), kitchen, shed, patent W. C., good yard, with side gate entrance, &c.

A good letting property in a rapidly improving part of the city, handy to the CIRCULAR QUAY and the NEW WHARF of the AUSTRALASIAN STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY, a locality where property must go on increasing in value and that very considerably.

The premises have only recently been newly roofed, painted, and papered throughout, and the drainage is perfect.

, Harrington-street, south of this property, is to be opened through in one uniform and direct line to CHURCH-HILL, and the City Corporation is now in negotiation with proprietors of properties obstructing the said line with a view of compensating them for the land required, in order to complete the work which no doubt will be carried out at once.

TERMS LIBERAL: One-third cash; and the residue in three years, bearing interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum.

KINGSGROVE, about three miles beyond Cook's River Dam.

FOREST COTTAGE, with 20 ACRES of LAND, fronting KINGSGROVE ROAD, adjoining the Properties of Messrs. OATLEY and KINSELA.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions from Mr. C. ANDERSON to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on FRIDAY, 1st AUGUST, at 11 o'clock.

BLOCK OF LAND at KINGSGROVE, in area 20 ACRES, having a large frontage to KINGSGROVE ROAD, about half a mile west of FOREST ROAD, near the BAPTIST CHURCH, and adjoining Mr. KINSELA'S property.

The IMPROVEMENTS comprise FOREST COTTAGE, a substantially built residence, of brick on stone foundations, with verandah front and back, and containing hall, 5 rooms, and kitchen, detached washhouse with copper, store room, coach-house, 2-stall stable, cart shed, and cow-bail.

The whole of the land is good rich agricultural and garden land. It is securely fenced, 3 acres laid out as orchard, market garden and flower garden. 5 acres cleared and used as a grass paddock; the residue about 12 acres is under good timber.

The water is abundant, from a very large underground tank, fitted with force pump.

This is one of the most delightful spots in the charming and healthy district of Kingsgrove. It is within 2 hours drive of the city. Inspection invited, for which purpose Cards to view can be obtained at the Rooms.

Terms at sale.

STANMORE ROAD, opposite the COLLEGE GROUNDS.

EIGHT beautifully-situated BUILDING SITES, STANMORE ROAD, SOUTH KINGSTON ESTATE, immediately opposite the highly-improved extensive park-like grounds attached to the WESLEYAN COLLEGE, near the residence of the Rev. B. Chapman, and only a few minutes' walk from STANMORE PLATFORM at the foot of Holt-street.

They each have 20 FEET frontage to the STANMORE ROAD, with a depth of 50 feet, extending to a lane 16½ feet wide at the rear.

, The position of these building allotments is equal to any other on this main thoroughfare, with the important advantages of being surrounded by first-class properties, and having the large area of nearly 40 ACRES of the College grounds in front, thereby securing to the SITES an uninterrupted, extensive, and picturesque view of Botany Bay and the surrounding country for miles.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on FRIDAY, 1st AUGUST, at 11 o'clock,

8 splendid allotments of land, Stanmore Road.

COUNTIES of WELLINGTON and GORDON.

SPLENDID AGRICULTURAL and GRAZING ESTATE.

By order of the PROPRIETOR, E. WINGFIELD VERNER, Esq., M.P.

The well known MOOMBLE FREEHOLD ESTATE and STATION, situated on the BELL RIVER, about 15 MILES on the Sydney side of WELLINGTON, and within 1½ to 2 miles from the RAILWAY LINE now in construction to that town.

With the ESTATE and RUN will be sold 10,000 FINE WOOLED SHEEP.

, Working Plant, and all other belongings, to be taken by the purchaser of the Estate in the usual way, by arbitration.

PRELIMINARY NOTICE.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions from the Honorable HENRY MOORE, M.L.C., Attorney of E. WINGFIELD VERNER, Esq., M.P., to sell by public auction, at their Rooms, Pitt-street, Sydney, on THURSDAY, the 11th SEPTEMBER next, at 11 o'clock, the above first-class pastoral and agricultural property.

The Moomble FREEHOLD contains in the aggregate 6740 acres, and is made up of the following Blocks.

2197 lying on both banks of the Bell River. On this portion is erected the HOMESTEAD and other improvements, and it is known that the RAILWAY LINE will pass WITHIN TWO MILES OF THE HOUSE, and that a PLATFORM will be erected within a convenient distance.

640 acres on Slatey or Sandy Creek.

914 Acres on Weandra or Stony Creek—On this PORTION GOLD has been found, and many applications from diggers have been made for Mining Permits, but hitherto this important item of value in the Estate has been reserved.

640 Acres on Bomado Creek.

841 Acres on the Macquarie River, Pissant Creek.

776 Acres, on the Macquarie River at the junction of Burrill Creek.

477 Acres, in four small lots.

In all 6740 ACRES FREEHOLD.

The whole of these blocks, as well as the pre-emptives (14,130 acres) and auction leased lands (7102 acres) adjoining thereto, are well watered, and apart from the RICH AGRICULTURAL LANDS on the BELL RIVER, and other portions of the Estate form an EXTENSIVE and HEALTHY SHEEP RUN, NOTED for its WOOL PRODUCING QUALITIES.

The IMPROVEMENTS at the HEAD STATION comprise, amongst others—GOOD BRICK COTTAGE, containing 5 rooms, detached kitchen, harness room, men's huts, and woolshed with galvanized iron roof, and accommodation for shearers, stable and shed, sheep yards, &c. There is also a good vegetable garden.

The HORSE PADDOCK, of about 800 ACRES, is enclosed by fencing of five wires and toprail, and there are two small cultivation paddocks of 5 and 2 acres respectively. On the run are the necessary shepherds' huts and yards.

The sheep to be sold with the estate number 10,000 HEAD OF MIXED AGES AND SEXES, and are of a high class—the CLIP OF WOOL for years past, having reached long figures, even in depressed times.

Further particulars of the flocks will appear in a future advertisement.

The above property embraces the three important descriptions of land, viz:—

AGRICULTURAL SOUND GRAZING and MINERAL.

Of the former there is a considerable area, which might be subdivided and sold off in farms, without interfering with the value of the property as a HIGH-CLASS WOOL PRODUCING RUN, while the value of the land for GOLD-MINING and other minerals is but a question of the immediate future, as the established GOLD-FIELDS of IRONBARKS and BURRANDONG are partly on the Run, and it may fairly be assumed that it merely requires the consent of the purchaser of Moomble to open up the purchased land to create another Field for the enterprising Gold Miner, with the hitherto unknown advantage of being within a few hours' journey from the Metropolis by Railway.

As an Investment this Estate offers fair interest for its purchase-money; as a speculation the advantages it possesses are too manifest to need further comment.

PLAN on view at the Rooms, where letters of introduction can be obtained by intending purchasers desirous of closely inspecting the property.

Terms at sale.

THURSDAY, 11th SEPTEMBER, 1879.

WELLINGTON DISTRICT. For Positive Sale the following FIRST-CLASS SHEEP STATIONS, viz.:— WOODLANDS and NEW BUMBALDRY, with 20,000 SHEEP, more or less, and VALUABLE IMPROVEMENTS.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions to sell by public auction (in conjunction with Messrs. RYAN and HAMMOND, of Melbourne), at the ROOMS, Pitt-street, Sydney, on THURSDAY, the 11th SEPTEMBER next, at 11 o'clock.

The above valuable and highly improved station properties.

These stations adjoin each other, and are situated about 25 miles from YARRADIDGERIE, on the NINE-MILE WATER-HOLE, BOGAN RIVER, and about 50 from the township of Condobolin. In area they are estimated to contain 95000 acres, of open box and pine ranges, yarran flats, myall and belaire plains, with abundance of saltbush.

The WATER SUPPLY is excellent. Besides being intersected by the BULBODNY CREEK, there are SIX large dams and tanks, and large natural waterholes, which during the late severe drought were not known to be dry; there is now an ample supply for many months, without further rainfall.

The WOODLANDS and NEW BUMBALDRY PROPERTY on its southern boundary adjoins the noted MELROSE STATION, the property of Messrs. MAC NICOL, WALLACE, and CO., while Messrs. OSBORNE'S equally noted ORANGE PLAINS country forms its immediate neighbour on its western side.

With the above will be sold—

EWES, mixed ages	13,000 more or less
WETHERS	800 ditto
MIXED HOGGETS	3,600 ditto
WEANERS	2,500 ditto
RAMS	100 ditto

Total, 20,000 SHEEP, more or less.

Of the above flocks, 6500 lambed down in May and June last, 3500 are to lamb in October next, and 2000 in the following month.

The IMPROVEMENTS comprise a 4-roomed Cottage, shingled roof, kitchen and store attached, men's huts, stockyards, &c. There is also a capital well-built woolshed, to accommodate 14 shearers.

FENCING.—The whole of the country is securely enclosed, and subdivided by substantial fencing into 7 sheep paddocks and 2 horse paddocks; there are about 93 miles of fencing, consisting of at least 27 miles of 6 wires, about 41 miles of 5 wires and top rail, 14 miles chock and log, and the rest (about 10 miles) of the boundary line consists of zig-zag fencing.

Stores, working plant, and all belongings to be taken at a valuation, in the usual way by arbitration.

Further particulars of the above properties may be obtained on application to Messrs. RYAN and HAMMOND, Melbourne; or at the Rooms of the Auctioneers, PITT-STREET, SYDNEY.

Terms liberal.

VALUABLE AGRICULTURAL AND GRAZING PROPERTY, containing 372 acres, more or less, commanding EXTENSIVE FRONTAGES TO THE PATERSON RIVER, also bounded by the main road, abounding with CULTIVATION LAND of unequalled productiveness, substantially fenced, subdivided into farms, well and extensively improved, and without exception one of the most DESIRABLE, ELIGIBLE-SITUATED, and PERMANENTLY PRODUCTIVE PROPERTIES now offering in the Hunter River district.

At BROWN'S (late Fullford's) HOTEL, WEST MAITLAND.

WEDNESDAY, 30th July, 1879.

BRUNKER and WOLFE have received instructions from the Trustees in the Estate of the late B. Lee, Esq., to sell by auction, at Brown's (late Fullford's) Hotel, West Maitland, on WEDNESDAY, the 30th of July, at 2 o'clock,

The above COMPACT DESIRABLY-SITUATED and SUBSTANTIALLY IMPROVED PROPERTY, about 3 miles from West Maitland, 232 acres of which are subdivided and occupied as three farms, each of which is provided with a Dwelling House and necessary outbuildings, and command extensive frontage to the Paterson River, thus affording the means of conveying produce direct and inexpensively to the most attractive markets. The grazing land is of [illegible] tion, and the property, as a whole, [illegible] most favourable opportunities [illegible] capitalists to secure a sound and permanent remunerative investment.

A plan of the property will be prepared, and can be seen at the office of the Auctioneers previous to day of sale.

For particulars of title, apply to W. H. MULLEN, Esq., Solicitor, West Maitland.

Terms at sale.

WEDNESDAY, July 30, 1879,

For Absolute Unreserved Sale.

KICKERBIL ESTATE, LIVERPOOL PLAINS, New South Wales.

GRIFFITHS and WEAVER have received instructions from Messrs. Weaver and Blaxland to sell, without the slightest reserve, at the Exchange, Sydney, at 12 o'clock, on WEDNESDAY, July 30,

Their noted fattening estate, KICKERBIL, which is situated about 20 miles from Quirindi Railway Station, and adjoins Warrah (A. A. Co.'s), Yarraman, Mooki Springs, and 4 D Stations.

The property consists of about—
2628 acres freehold land
7123 acres completed C. P. land
1386 acres transferable A. C. P. land
6000 acres leased lands

17,137 acres of very rich fattening plains, all enclosed and subdivided into paddocks by substantial wire fences. The whole well and permanently watered by the Mooki Creek and dams and wells.

The improvements comprise — Eight-roomed weatherboard house, with outbuildings, kitchen, stables, &c., sheep and cattle drafting yards, men's huts, &c.; also, large woolshed.

There are no selectors within the fences, and the whole station is splendidly grassed, and is thoroughly secured.

This Property will be sold with all improvements, but without stock, for a lump sum for the above-stated quantities of land. All freeholds or selected lands above or below the stated quantities to be paid for or allowed for at the rate of 30s per acre freehold land
20s per acre completed C. P. land
10s per acre transferable A. C. P. land.

Terms—half cash, balance 12 months at 8 per cent.

Early inspection is invited.

GRIFFITHS and WEAVER, Sydney.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 20, 1879.

FOR ABSOLUTE SALE.

UNSURPASSABLE FATTENING STATION, WARREGO DISTRICT, NEW SOUTH WALES.

GRIFFITHS and WEAVER are instructed by Mr. Thomas Hungerford, M.P., to sell by auction, at the EXCHANGE, Sydney, on WEDNESDAY, August 20, at noon,

His very extensive fattening station, GNOMERY, which embraces a compact area of about 209,900 acres of unsurpassable fattening saltbush country, consisting entirely of open plains, with a few Gidya ridges, and is completely free from scrub.

The CULGOA and BIRRIE RIVERS flow in parallel courses through the station, at a distance of about 12 miles apart, and afford an ample and permanent supply of water, and also divide the property into three nearly equal portions.

GNOMERY is situated about 60 miles north of the shipping port of Brewarrina, on the Darling River.

There are about 68 miles of post and wire fences erected on the boundaries, which are all surveyed and defined; and for the convenient working of the station there are two homesteads, with outbuildings, horse paddocks, and all conveniences. Also, three superior stockyards for working the herd, drop-gates and all complete.

WITH THE PROPERTY will be sold the whole of the well known T. H. herd, now numbering about 4000 highly-bred cattle.

Also, About 10,000 superior sheep Horses, stores, plant, &c.

Of the cattle, about 700 are bullocks now ready for market.

Terms: One-third cash, balance one, two, and three years, at 8 per cent.

For plans and further particulars, apply to GRIFFITHS and WEAVER, Sydney.

WEDNESDAY, 30th August, 1789.

HADDON RIGGS and BACK MYALL CAMP STATION, Wellington District, N.S.W., situated about 30 miles west from Dubbo, adjoining the well-known Narramine station, WITHOUT STOCK.

GRIFFITHS and WEAVER have received instructions from Mr. James Moore to sell by auction, at the Exchange, Sydney, on WEDNESDAY, 30th August, at 12 o'clock,

Haddon Riggs and Back Myall Camp Station.

THE COUNTRY contains some rich myall and saltbush plains with box and yarran flats, and comprises an area of about 51,000 acres, well watered by creeks and dam.

THE IMPROVEMENTS comprise huts, yards, horse paddocks and a large amount of substantial wire fencing enclosing the run on three sides.

Early inspection invited.

For plan and further information apply to GRIFFITHS and WEAVER, Sydney.

9000 Acres FREEHOLD LAND
11,000 ditto LEASEHOLD
2500 CATTLE.

MORT and CO. have for SALE UNDULLAH STATION, situate about 25 MILES from the town of IPSWICH, Queensland.

The above WELL-SITUATED PROPERTY is HIGHLY IMPROVED, the freehold being ALL FENCED, and subdivided into 7 PADDOCKS, with COMFORTABLE HOMESTEAD and commodious dwelling, &c.

The CATTLE are ½-BRED HEREFORD, and the bulls used have been selected from the BEST herds on the RICHMOND.

For further particulars apply to MORT and CO., Sydney; or DIGBY and ELLIOTT, Brisbane.

BALONNE RIVER, MARANOA DISTRICT, QUEENSLAND.

THE GLENEARN STATION, OF 500 SQUARE MILES, with 29,000 (more or less) sheep.

MORT and CO. have received instructions to sell by public auction, at their Wool Warehouse, on TUESDAY, the 19th AUGUST, 1879, at 2 o'clock p.m.

The GLENEARN STATION, consisting of 17 BLOCKS, of an aggregate area of about 500 SQUARE MILES WELL and PERMANENTLY WATERED by the BALONNE RIVER, to which it has a FRONTAGE of 15 MILES, and the WHOLE of the WATERS of the DONGA CREEK, extending 35 MILES IN LENGTH THROUGH THE RUN.

Especial attention is called to the very NUTRITIOUS GRASSES and Saltbush on the RIVER FRONTAGE BLOCKS, which FATTEN STOCK QUICKLY, and to the EXTENSIVE BACK AREA for BREEDING PURPOSES.

With GLENEARN will be sold some 29,000 WELL-BRED SHEEP of the following ages and sexes, viz., say:—

Ewes, 6 months old	3000	Wethers, 6 months old	1600
Ditto, 1½ year old	2300	Ditto, 1½ year old	2700
Ditto, 2½ years ditto	2400	Ditto, 2½ years ditto	2700
Ditto, 3½ ditto	2800	Ditto, 3½ ditto	2600
Ditto, 4½ ditto and upwards	6500	Mixed weaners	1600
		Rams	200

Also a small number of QUIET CATTLE and about 30 horses, together with stores, drays, harness, and all necessaries for carrying on a large station.

Improvements consist of overseer's cottage, store, and outbuildings, woolshed and lever press, horse paddocks, and sheep-yards, good and useful stockyard, on Donga Head Station, and requisite out-stations and yards.

In OFFERING this EXTENSIVE and VALUABLE property for sale, the Auctioneers would direct the attention of CAPITALISTS and INTENDING PURCHASERS to the small number of sheep in comparison to the MAGNIFICENT AREA of country, and its FAVOURABLE SITUATION, being distant only 80 miles from Roma, and within easy access of the line of railway now in course of construction; while the Donga Head Station is situated within 58 miles of Surat, and 45 miles from St. George, and Cobb and Co.'s mail coach passes through twice every week.

MORT and CO., Circular Quay, Sydney.

DARLING DOWNS, QUEENSLAND.

SPLENDID FREEHOLD ESTATE of 8125 ACRES, with 6000, more or less, Sheep and 160, more or less, Cattle.

MORT and CO. have received instructions to offer for sale by auction, at their Wool Warehouses, Phillip-street, unless previously disposed of by private contract, on TUESDAY 2nd SEPTEMBER,

THAT FIRST-CLASS FREEHOLD ESTATE known as BEAUARABA, situate on the FAR-FAMED DARLING DOWNS, between the celebrated WESTBROOK and ETON VALE Estates, and in the immediate vicinity of the CAMBOOYA RAILWAY-STATION, comprising about 8125 ACRES of RICH AGRICULTURAL and grazing land, well watered throughout by springs and a good well; the whole enclosed with wire and SUBSTANTIAL FENCING, and divided into three paddocks.

With Beauaraba will be sold about 6000 WELL-BRED SHEEP and ABOUT 160 CATTLE.

THIS PROPERTY is well worth the attention of those requiring a FIRST-CLASS HOMESTEAD, as it is not to be surpassed for CLIMATE, GOOD QUALITY OF SOIL, and CONVENIENT LOCALITY.

Plans can be seen, and all further information obtained from MORT and CO., Sydney.

WELLINGTON DISTRICT.

SPLENDID GRAZING PROPERTY.

FOR ABSOLUTE SALE, to close a Partnership Account.

ULAMELLAH STATION, WELLINGTON DISTRICT, N. S. W., situated on the MACQUARIE RIVER, about 12 miles from Shepherd's Creek Railway Station, on the Western line, with 5000 (more or less) SHEEP.

HARRISON, JONES, and DEVLIN (in conjunction with CROSSING and COX, have received instructions from Messrs. Cadell and Capper to sell by public auction, at the Exchange, Sydney, on WEDNESDAY, 10th SEPTEMBER, 1879, at 12 O'CLOCK, ULAMULLAH, having an area of 18,650 acres (which may be extended to 30,000), adjoining the temporary common of Hill End and Tambaroora, 8 blocks, in all 1320 are FREEHOLD, and suitable for cultivation. The country is healthy, and consists of white box and mountain oak ridges; is watered by Ulamullah and Bundy Creeks, also the MACQUARIE RIVER, to which it has 12 miles frontage.

THE IMPROVEMENTS COMPRISE two paddocks of 30 and 150 acres respectively; in each a never-failing dam, both being securely fenced; comfortable residence of 6 rooms, detached kitchen, stable and shed, large shearing shed, shearers' quarters, yards, huts, and lever woolpress.

THE SHEEP, about 5000 (equal sexes, 4 and 6 tooth, are well bred and sound), the wool always commanding high rates in the home market, further comment is unnecessary.

[illegible] the ground is erected a QUARTZ CRUSHING PLANT [illegible], having a 15-stamper battery and 20-horse power [illegible] which will be sold with the property.

[illegible] particulars may be obtained on application to CROSSING and COX, Mudgee; or HARRISON, JONES, and DEVLIN, Sydney.

UNSTOCKED COUNTRY.

LACHLAN DISTRICT.

MAIDEN, HILL, and CLARK have received instructions to sell by public auction, at the Chamber of Commerce Exchange, Sydney, on WEDNESDAY, 30th July, at 12 o'clock,

That first-class block of country, "UPPER WYALONG, No. 3," WITHOUT STOCK.

This really fine piece of country situated in the Lachlan District, is about equi-distant from the towns of YOUNG and FORBES, and about 50 miles from JUNEE Railway Station.

It is bounded by those well-known properties of BUDDEGOWER (Keogh's), WEST MANDEMAR (Davidson's), Barmedman (Robertson's), Upper Wyalong, No. 2 (Donkin and Knox).

UPPER WYALONG, No. 3, contains an area of 40,000 acres, the whole of which is FIRST-CLASS SHEEP COUNTRY of the most fattening description, and well watered. The run is fenced on three sides by a sheep-proof fence, and only 10 miles are now required to finish a complete ring fence.

The other improvements consist of large DAMS and TANKS, homestead, sheds, huts, yards, and paddocks.

FREEHOLD LAND.—There are 30 acres of freehold land, on which there is a never-failing spring of water.

The auctioneers desire to direct the attention of graziers to this very compact and desirable property, as such chances rarely offer of securing UNSTOCKED COUNTRY of first-class character so convenient to both the metropolitan markets of Sydney and Melbourne.

For further particulars apply

MAIDEN, HILL, and CLARK, 171, Pitt-street, Sydney.

Important, and Imperative, Sale by Public Auction, by order and on account of the Mortgagees, of those well-known and highly improved pastoral properties, BELMONT and MOUNT HOPE, situated on the Goulburn River, 30 miles from Muswellbrook together with the noted HERDS of CATTLE, well-bred HORSES, &c.

MR. JAMES HUTCHISON has been favoured with instructions from the mortgagees to sell by public auction, at Eaton's Hotel, Muswellbrook (which is only 12 hours from Sydney by steamer and railway), on MONDAY, 25th July, at 2 o'clock,

Those very desirable and highly improved pastoral properties and homesteads, well-known as the "BELMONT" and "MOUNT HOPE" ESTATES, situated on the GOULBURN RIVER, 30 miles from MUSWELLBROOK.

These properties are adjoining each other, and consist of 1220 acres (more or less) of very superior agricultural and pastoral lands, viz.:—

765 acres, more or less, freehold, and 455 acres, more or less, conditional purchases, together with pre-emptive leaseholds adjoining.

The greater portion of these properties have been ring-barked, cleared, and substantially fenced in, and subdivided into paddocks, part of which is at present under luxuriant crops of lucerne. They are well and permanently watered by the Goulburn River, and are in the immediate vicinity of the splendid estates of Barrbine, Martindale, and Bylong.

There is a comfortable homestead, outbuildings, haysheds, stockyards, &c., with the usual appliances erected on each of the properties, and the whole forms one of the most centrally situated and admirably adapted estates for fattening purposes, being within an easy distance from the Sydney, Maitland, and Mudgee markets, and such as is but rarely offered for public competition.

The whole of the noted herds of cattle at present depasturing on the above properties. These cattle are of a very high class, having been bred from picked LEE BULLS, from the celebrated BYLONG herd for thirty years past.

The whole of the valuable well-bred horses, including some splendid thoroughbred horses and blood mares, as follows:—

With "Belmont,"
201 head, more or less, mixed cattle
28 ditto, more or less, young bulls
14 ditto, more or less, horses.

With "Mount Hope,"
144 head mixed cattle
35 ditto, more or less, young bulls
9 ditto, more or less, horses.

Terms cash.

PICTURES OF THE PAST
MEMORIES OF MEN I HAVE MET AND SIGHTS I HAVE SEEN.
By FRANCIS H. GRUNDY, C.E. 1 vol. large 8vo. cloth, 12s.

EXTRACT FROM PREFACE.
Seated upon a fallen monarch of the wilds of Northern Australia, discussing a mid-day meal of bush tea and damper, I thought that a few pictures of my past might amuse, and haply instruct, some of my immediate descendants.
Taking my "field-book," I began at once. It was not until many a day thereafter that I first had an idea of seeing my name in print. But che sara sara, and my book has grown into a sort of autobiography, extending over some twenty-six years in England and a score more elsewhere.

OPINIONS OF THE ENGLISH PRESS.
"Mr. Grundy impresses the reader with his geniality, his loyalty, and his clear sense. In certain moments of his life, by no means uneventful, he has distinctly done public service. . . Vivid sketch of the fatal Plug riots. . . The portrait he gives of Patrick Branwell Bronte is drawn in an eminently friendly spirit. . . The Australian scenes which fill the latter half of the book are full of incident."—ATHENÆUM.
"The scene portrayed bears a wonderful resemblance to Sir Walter Scott's stories, 'The last meeting with Patrick Bronte' (Charlotte's brother). Mr. Grundy records with rare power. He describes very well Leigh Hunt's enthusiastic faith in the fancy of the moment. . . He was very closely connected by business relations with George Robert Stephenson. He relates most interesting traits of Stephenson observed by his friend, the private secretary of the great man, and his own reminiscences match them in picturesqueness. 'If he retains any more memoirs of the morning of English railways we can only deplore his emigration,' which substitutes in their stead stories of bush wanderings, although Mr. Grundy tells these matters very brightly."—THE SATURDAY REVIEW.
"Mr. Grundy very pleasantly gives his recollections to the public in 'Pictures of the Past,' his father's colleague the Rev. James Martineau and Miss Martineau were familiar to him; also Leigh Hunt and many another. In his pleasant and forcible way he has something to say of the diggings, bush life, bushrangers, and floods in Australia.—DUNDEE ADVERTISER.
Mr. Grundy tells a capital story of a trick he played off on "Old George Stephenson."—"His reminiscences of Leigh Hunt are curiously interesting." "Touching the wandering life of younger civil engineers, he speaks the words of truth and soberness, which a vast number of young hands may read with advantage. The thoroughly loyal author took an active part in interfering with the popular instinct to execute lynch law on the wretched O'Farrell, who, at Sydney, in 1868, attempted to assassinate the Duke of Edinburgh."—ACADEMY.
"The book contains graphic pictures of Australian life."—LITERARY WORLD.
